Big Strike Danger.
What Chance Has the Crowd?
Not Colossal.
Won't Fight, Vote, Obey.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WILLIAM GREEN, head of the American Federation of Labor, serves notice that a momentous strike is impending in the automobile industry, and General Motors is quoted to the effect that it will "never recognize an American Federation of Labor union, as such."

It is to be hoped that President Roosevelt will find a way to avoid this threatened disaster, and with prosperity beginning to come back there are things more important than seizing the opportunity to make trouble and put tens of thousands of men out of work, for any reason whatever.

Certain countries compel arbitration in matters affecting labor. That idea might be applied in this country.

WHAT CHANCE have the people, the ordinary "critters," that pay taxes and work, between some of the corporations and some of the politicians?

A man in Chicago, owner of a junk shop, who had five hundred thousand dollars in profits, explains to the government that he didn't pay income tax because public utilities, gas and electric light companies, handed it to him to be distributed among politicians.

In New Jersey, a judge, occupying an important position, testified that he paid twenty-five thousand dollars for his appointment.

That is all you need to know about our system of so-called "government."

AND WHAT kind of justice can the people expect when a man buys his seat on the bench, and adds to the admission that he bought it, the further statement that the individual to whom he paid the money insisted on running the court?

NOW, IN 1934, as in 1914, twenty years ago, the British try to persuade themselves that war is not coming. But the best that Capt. Eden, British lord privy seal and arms expert, can say is:

"I do not believe that, anxious as it is, the situation is desperate."

When business was at its worst, a moving picture man in New York, asked by a friend how his affairs were going, replied, as cheerfully as he could:

"Well, hardly colossal."

Britain considers that the chances of peace are also hardly colossal, and wisely prepares to meet what may come, particularly in the air, where future wars will be lost or won.

BRITISH COLUMBIA is bothered by a religious sect called Doukhobors.

When anything displeases them, such as compulsory education of their children, these ladies and gentlemen organize parades, in which no parader wears any clothes, a sort of outdoor "nudist colony procession."

Mr. G. S. Leary, member of the provincial state legislature, suggests using blacksnake whips and releasing swarms of hornets by way of discouraging the Doukhobors, of whom they say:

"They neither vote, fight, nor obey the law, and the time has come for a showdown."

The Doukhobors remind us how grateful we ought to be that the average man is willing to go along as desired, like a mule that has been properly harnessed.

He will fight when told to fight, without knowing why he is fighting, or fight of his own free will, if a mob gathers him up. He obeys the laws usually, when it has nothing to do with his alcohol supplies. And he usually votes, even though he may not understand what his vote will mean.

A NEW unpleasant kidnaping case from New York. Max Kasoff was kidnaped, and his friends told they must send five thousand dollars. They told police, and received this message:

"So you notified the police, eh? O. K.
"We fix."

Next day the kidnaped man was found, beaten, shot and dead.

LINDY FLAYS AIR MAIL SHAKEUP

New Bill Unjust, Fraud Among Bidders Not Proved, He Says

The bill to return air mail transportation to private hands was "unjust."

That the private contracts should not have been canceled "without a trial of the operators."

That the Army had not been so efficient as private concerns in flying the mails.

Testifying in the large Senate caucus room jammed with hundreds of spectators, the aviator—who previously had criticised the annullment action and turned down an invitation to serve in a committee study of Army aviation—emphatically opposed as "unjust" a section of the bill placing limitations on the right of private companies to bid on new contracts.

The disputed clause would bar companies whose contracts were canceled from bidding unless they waived all claims against the government in connection with the annullments.

TELLS OF SALARY

Under questioning, he told of receiving $6,000 a year "up to the first of this month" from Transcontinental and Western Air, which lost a contract, and $10,000 a year from Pan-American Airways.

He said he had participated in none of the conferences leading to the contracts and repeatedly asserted his connection with aviation was mostly technical, such as laying out routes and advising on equipment.

Unless the old companies were permitted to rebid on new contracts, he said, it would take two or three years for new companies to restore normal service.

Lindbergh agreed with a suggestion by Senator Logan (Dem.), of Kentucky, that the air mail contracts be returned to private companies pending a further hearing to determine whether the

ROUTLEY GETS JAIL TERM

James E. Routley and Cedric C. Benz, former county employes, convicted of conspiracy in the use of county-purchased gasoline for private automobiles, were sentenced to serve six months each in jail and to pay costs and a $1 fine today by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff.

Routley was assistant chief cler in the Armstrong-Babcock administration. Benz was chief clerk in the purchasing department. They were found guilty June 24.

Former Congressman Harry A. Estep pleaded for a parole and suspended sentence, calling attention to the recommendation of mercy by the jury. He also presented letters signed by 10 of the 12 jurors who brought in the verdict asking for a parole.

Judge Graff tersely responded that it was his "unpleasant duty" to impose sentence. Judge Graff and Benz served in the same brigade overseas in the World War. Both defendants were granted privilege to appeal to Superior Court and were released in $1,000 bail each.

Deputy Sheriff Quiz Moves to Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 16.—(AP.)—Representatives of Gov. Pinchot's commission investigating private employment of deputy sheriffs are scheduled to arrive in Uniontown tonight for a three-day investigation in the western state coal fields.

U. S. Aiding City In Fight Against Parrot Fever

BULLETIN.

Dr. L. F. Badger, of the United States Public Health Service, announced late this afternoon that he felt the city authorities had the parrot fever situation under control and that they had done everything possible to check spread of the disease. He said he would return to Washington tonight.

Dr. L. F. Badger, of the United States Public Health Service, arrived here today and took charge of the investigation of and plans to control the psittacosis (parrot fever) outbreak here.

No additional authenticated cases had been reported today. More than 10 deaths and 50 cases of illness suspected of being caused by the disease are being investigated.

CONFERS WITH MOYER

1—Infection through contact with a human sufferer is unlikely. It has happened on rare occasions.

2—Birds, afflicted with the disease, are extremely dangerous. They should be destroyed or reported to the Health Department.

3—Cleanliness is the best safeguard against infection.

4—The period of incubation of the psittacosis germ ranges from seven to 14 days, indicating that a person would probably not develop the disease more than two weeks after being exposed.

5—All cases of psittacosis in human beings resembles pneumonia, or influenza. The first symptoms are pains in the back

FIRE DAMAGES BYRD CAMP

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 16.—(AP.)—(By Mackay Radio.)—A fire damaged the administration building of the Byrd Antarctic expedition today and a few hours later an appendectomy was performed upon Joseph A. Pelter, United States naval aerial cameraman.

The gasoline tank in the shaft of the building caught fire. Four members of the expedition put out the blaze and rescued the surgical instruments of Dr. Louis H. Potaka, which were in a crate under the flaming tank.

This quick action probably saved Pelter's life. When the operation was performed by Dr. Potaka, it was discovered that a rupture of the appendix probably would have occurred in a short time. Pelter is expected to recover, but the intense cold will slow up recovery, the physician said.

DILLINGER'S PAL SLAIN IN BATTLE

Three Officers Shot; Comb Michigan Town For Outlaw King

PORT HURON, Mich., March 16.—(AP.)—Herbert Youngblood, partner of John Dillinger in his escape from the Crown Point (Ind.) jail a fortnight ago, died in a hospital here this afternoon of bullet wounds received in a battle with sheriff's officers who had trapped him in a store.

He died of bullet wounds in the chest and abdomen shortly after he had been identified by Capt. Matt Leach, of the Indiana State Police, thereby spurring a search for Dillinger, desperado and bank robber.

DILLINGER CLUE GIVEN

Youngblood, facing a murder charge for a Gary (Ind.) slaying, admitted his identity as he lay dying from bullet wounds inflicted in a gun battle, in which Sheriff William L. Van Antwerp and two deputies also were wounded.

He gasped out in the hospital that he was the companion of the sworn "cop-killer." He had seen Dillinger the night before, he said, in an automobile with three other men.

Immediately state police, Sheriff's officers and local police began combing South Port Huron, where the shooting occurred, and police in all surrounding cities were asked to stop all automobiles answering the description given by Youngblood.

When hospital attendants washed Youngblood's face, they found a scar on each cheek, hidden by burnt cork. This led officers to believe that possibly Dillinger had been masquerading as a Negro.

SHERIFF DIRECTS HUNT

He said he had been told last night of a Negro in South Port Huron, boasting of a jail break and carrying a gun. He and his deputies questioned the rooming house proprietor where the suspect had stayed, and finally traced him to a small store, where the gun battle followed.

After reaching the hospital, Youngblood identified himself as the prisoner who accompanied Dillinger in his flight from the Indiana jail on March 3, after cowing the guards with a pistol carved from a broom handle, leaving guards and deputies locked in cells and taking the car of Sheriff Lillian Holley.

HUNTED BY MOUNTIES

SARNIA, Ont., March 16.—(AP.)—Royal Canadian mounted police rushed to a patrol of the river bank here when it was reported a white man believed to be John Dillinger had crossed from the United States in a rowboat.

The mounties were told that two Indians had been seen to make the crossing.

Dillon's Daughter To Wed Pittsburgher

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Clarence J. Dillon, of Dillon, Read & Co., and Mrs. Dillon announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Anne Dillon, to Philip Elsworth Allen, of Chicago. Miss Dillon made her social debut in 1930.

Allen, the son of the late Charles Allen, of Pittsburgh, was graduated from Cornell University in 1923 and is connected with a Chicago utility firm.

SAMUEL INSULL . . . HIS BOAT'S TURNING BACK TO GREECE

Mr. Insull, fugitive from justice, today located at sea on a privately chartered Greek freighter, the Maiotis, whose captain by wireless promised Greek authorities to put back to Greek soil.

GOVERNMENT ANGERED BY FLIGHT

Egypt-Bound Vessel, Bearing Fugitive, Ordered Back

Associated Press.

Return of the Insull brothers, Samuel and Martin, to Chicago to face criminal charges appeared near today as the former was located on a Greek freighter, following his sensational dash from Athens.

The 74-year-old fugitive, aboard the vessel Maiotis, will be returned to Greek jurisdiction for deportation, the government announced.

Meanwhile, extradition of Martin Insull was ordered in Toronto by Chief Justice Sir William Mulock in denying an appeal from a previous ruling that the former utilities executive must return to the United States.

ATHENS, March 16.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull, Sr., who was located today aboard the Greek freighter Maiotis, will be expelled directly to the United States, the Greek government let it be known.

Angry because of his coup in attempting to sneak away from Greece, the government has decided to return Insull to America, where he will face charges of embezzlement and larceny.

The Maiotis is now proceeding to Piraeus, port of Athens, where it is expected to arrive tomorrow.

It was said that Insull paid $10,000 to charter the Maiotis and that it sailed at 4 p. m. Wednesday. The freighter was bound for Port Said, Egypt.

DENY WARSHIP SENT

The Ministry of Marine today denied reports published abroad that a destroyer had been sent to overtake the steamer Maiotis and was escorting the ship back to Piraeus.

It was stated that wireless alone was utilized for establishing a contact with the ship's master, and for giving the captain orders to put about and return to port.

Two ships sail shortly to America and it was held likely that the 74-year-old fugitive, who battled for nearly 18 months to es-

BAKERY BLAST INJURES TWO

A bakery foreman was burned severely and a fire captain cut by glass when an oven explosion shook the bakery of Tisherman Brothers, 1231 Fifth avenue, early today.

Israel Cohen, 48, foreman, of 220 Elysian street, was attempting to light an oven in the rear room of the establishment when accumulating gas exploded and threw him across the room. He was burned on the hands, head and face.

The blast broke two large plate glass windows and a small window in the front of the bakery, and a passerby sounded a fire alarm. Three companies responded. Fire Capt. Bernard McKnight, of No. 3 Engine Company, was cut by glass as he broke into the building.

Philip Feld, 45, of 5449 Black street, Cohen's helper, was alongside the latter when the explosion occurred. He was uninjured.

Mrs. Bessie Caplan, 32, wife of Louis Caplan, proprietor of Caplan's Restaurant, adjoining, was thrown from her bed on the third floor of the building at 1229 Fifth avenue. Two children, Josephine, 14, and Jerome, 13, asleep in another room, were unaffected by the explosion. Police and firemen said damage would not exceed $1,000.

Brother of Coyne Furloughed by City

City Parks Supt. James Moore announced the 30-day furlough was in accordance with plans to furlough employes when there is not work to engage them.

FIRED CARRIERS PROTEST HERE

Led by George Kennett, president of the substitute carriers' organization, they marched from the Downtown Postoffice, Smithfield street and Fourth avenue, to newspaper offices.

Among the slogans on banners were: "Lincoln Freed the Slaves; Farley Freed the Subs;" "NRA (?) Not For Subs;" "Give Us Work;" "Our Kiddies Must Eat" "Don't Put Us On the Bread Line;" "We Have No Budget to Balance But Will We Eat?"

The protest was directed against dismissal by the federal administration of 26,000 substitute post-office employes. Eighty-one substitute carriers in Pittsburgh, in addition to many clerks, were thrown out of work by the edict, according to Kennett.

Bonus Checks Reach Pittsburgh Veterans

Uncle Sam's letter carriers appeared in the role of harbingers of prosperity today when they delivered to several hundred war veterans their first state bonus checks.

The checks were mailed from Harrisburg and, it was announced, will continue to be sent out as fast as the applications can be verified and the checks made out.

MIAMI, Fla., March 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here by commercial air liner shortly after noon today, completing an 11-day economic survey flight to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Row Perils Alexis-Hutton Romance

Prince and Bride Reported in Fight On Ocean Ship

HONG KONG, March 16.—Various passengers and members of the crew were stirred today by rumors that Prince Alexis Mdivani and his bride, the former Barbara Hutton, had quarreled aboard the Italian liner Conte Verde which docked here today after a voyage from Shanghai.

They said that although the prince and princess occupied the same suite they were scarcely on speaking terms.

Today, accompanied by members of their party, the couple made a joint sightseeing expedition in Hong Kong, but, however, as soon as they had returned to the ship, they parted company, Alexis locking himself in his room.

Shipboard companions said the two rarely were seen together, Alexis spending most of his time alone on the deck or in the lounge.

Princess Barbara's private secretary denied such rumors, characterizing them as having the same foundation as the oft-rumored expectation of an addition to the family, which the prince himself has denied.

Pope in Stalled Elevator As 10,000 Wait Services

VATICAN CITY, March 16.—(AP.)—Pope Pius was delayed in a stalled elevator five minutes last night while 10,000 persons awaited him in St. Peter's for services commemorating the institution of the priesthood and the Eucharist.

The current was suddenly interrupted after His Holiness had been closed in the lift with Msgr. Camillo Caccia Dominioni, master of the papal household, for the descent from the Pauline Chapel.

The elevator—a comparatively recent innovation and one of which the Pope is proud—was still near enough to the floor to permit them to get out, but the prisoners elected to wait until the cause of the interruption was discovered and the power restored.

AUTO LEADERS TO CONSIDER PLAN FOR AVERTING STRIKE

SPECIAL PARLEY IN NEW YORK SCHEDULED

Impartial Board of Arbitration Suggested

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Proposals made by Hugh S. Johnson for settlement of the threatened automobile strike will be considered by the executive committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting in New York on Monday.

The announcement was made today by William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, after concluding a series of conferences in which Johnson, NRA chief, outlined proposals for averting a strike.

ARBITRATION BOARD

They involved creation of an impartial arbitration board of review to pass on workers' claims of discrimination, and that an election be held to determine what union represents the workers.

The executive committee consists of Alvan Macauley, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., and Walter Chrysler.

Knudsen said it is the purpose of the industry to help create some agency not only to avert a strike but to prevent others. Asked the details of Johnson's plans, he said:

"I don't think we ought to betray what has been laid before us. We have no understanding with labor nor have we made any commitments.

"It would be deplorable if the strike were called. Business has been so good this year, and we have so many men at work.

"I want to assure you how we have tried to comply with the National Industrial Recovery Act."

LEWIS WARNING

Meanwhile, a prediction that continued evasion of the labor provisions of the recovery act "will breed revolt" was given the Senate Labor Committee by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Pleading for enactment of the Wagner bill to strengthen the Labor Board, Lewis said "the continued denial and wretched evasion" of the collective bargaining clause of the recovery law "has caused unrest and will breed revolt apart from any question of wages."

The bill by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, would outlaw company unions and make permanent the Labor Board, of which he is chairman.

CHARGES BAD FAITH

Labor, Lewis said, understood that in return for suspension of the anti-trust laws industry would recognize the right of employes to organize by was "deeply grieved because of the bad faith evidenced in the attitude of major employers."

The steel and automobile industries were singled out by him for particular criticism as to their attitude toward labor. He said they were willing to take all the benefits of the NRA but still denied equality of bargaining power to labor.

The only unions in the steel industry, Lewis told the committee, are company-dominated ones. He cited testimony to the Labor Board as evidence of violations of the Recovery Act by the automobile industry.

Action Due Tomorrow On Plan to Put U. S. in Business

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16—Participation of the federal government in business through direct loans to industry by the RFC will be considered tomorrow by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the committee, made this announcement ttoday, after studying legislative recommendations sent to the Senate by RFC Chairman Jesse Jones.

ENLARGES POWER

The legislation, proposing enlarged powers for the Finance Corporation, would permit the RFC to purchase notes and other customary oobligations of individual and commercial concerns, heretofore assimilated only by banks.

In presenting the recommendations, which have the unanimous approval of the RFC directors, with the exception of former Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, Jones pointed out the plan would provide much-needed working capital for refinancing and reduction of indebtedness and improvement of plants and equipment.

LIMITS PARTICIPATION

RFC participation in industry tthrough this medium would be limited to 75 per cent, Jones noted.

Other features of the suggested widening of loaning power include extension of RFC authority in making loans to railroads, completion and enlargement of self-liquidating projects already undertaken, increase from 50 to 100 million dollars for refinancing of irrigation and drainage districts, and more liberal loaning to insurance companies.

SEAWAY TREATY PASSAGE SEEN NEXT YEAR

Pittman Confident Of Senate Reversal

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Far from being defeated, the proposed treaty with Canada for a Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway will be ratified by the Senate by next January, it is predicted by Chairman Pittman, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Not discouraged by the 46-to-42 vote by which the Senate failed to ratify the treaty Tuesday, Pittman said he considered the result a victory rather than a defeat.

The President, he said, is elated over the showing of support for the treaty and is confident the project will be approved at the next session of Congress. Negotiations with Canada will be continued meanwhile, Pittman said.

The treaty will not be sent back to the Senate for ratification during the present session, Pittman declared, because the administration wishes to give members time to study it during summer recess.

TAX RECEIPTS SHOW LARGE GAIN HERE

Income tax collections in the Pittsburgh district at the expiration of the period for filing returns last midnight exceeded by more than two million dollars the amount collected at the same time last year.

Internal Revenue Bureau officials announced today the total collection here was $5,170,598.16, as compared with last year's collection of $3,050,720.16 before the dead-line for filing returns without penalty. This was an increase of $2,119,878.

It was estimated that approximately another million dollars will be added to this year's total when returns are in from other Western Pennsylvania cities. It also was pointed out many returns are still in the mails.

A total of 35,400 taxable returns were filed. The number of all returns was expected to exceed last year's total of 94,500, of which 37,800 were taxable.

One reason for the increase, it was explained by the collector, was the recent legislation limiting exemptions on stock market losses. The part recovery played in the increase, could not be determined at the present time, Lawrence said.

Income Tax for Nation Expected to Top 1933

After the rush to get income tax returns in before the deadline subsided at midnight, reports from many parts of the country indicated collections surpassing last year's.

The figures available for the nation were not up to date. But the Treasury counts on 250 million dollars in income tax collections for March. Last March payments were 174 million dollars. However, the fact that the bank holiday occurred last March has a bearing on the comparison.

AUTO LEADERS ASSAIL BILL

DETROIT, March 16.—(AP.)—Directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, in a statement issued here today, expressed opposition to the Wagner trade disputes bill, asserting that it wouldp rove inimical to the best interests of employes, fatal to employers and subject the country to dangers of a general strike. The statement said:

"The bill would in effect unionize every industrial worker in the country regardless of his own wishes, and would set up a labor dictatorship with power and authority exceeding anything yet experienced in the United States."

The statement said the bill would take incentive for advancement from the worker, and added:

"The automobile industry believes there should be placed upon the labor unions a responsibility and regulation equal to that already placed upon business."

HOTEL STRIKERS GO TO CAPITAL

A delegation of striking William Penn Hotel employes was in Washington today laying the dispute before the National Labor Board.

The delegates left last night after they had been informed by F. L. Andrews, manager of the hotel, that the management had not arrived at a decision on the ruling of the Regional Labor Board that directed the hotel to rehire the strikers.

The board ruled the hotel had violated the hotel code and was operating contrary to the NRA.

Additional police were called to the hotel last night when it was feared that striking employes would stage a demonstration. Shortly after the extra guard was thrown about the hotel, police reported the arrest of three men on disorderly conduct charges. They were docketed as Nick Lazari, 31, of 383 Boquet street; Matthew George, 32, of 902 Sherman avenue, and Frank Schury, 29, of 427 Hays avenue.

Lazari and George, arraigned today before Police Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Central Police Court, were fined $2 or two days in jail.

MANN, HOOVER BOOSTER, DIES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 16.—(AP.)—Col. Horace Atlee Mann, who campaigned in the South for election of Herbert Hoover to the presidency in 1928, died of heart disease late today. For the past four weeks he had been a patient in St. Thomas Hospital here.

Col. Mann had been in ill health since 1929, his widow said, but it was not until 1932 that he closed his Washington law offices. He came to Nashville December 4, 1933, for treatment, and four weeks ago was taken to St. Thomas Hospital.

For more than a decade he had been a prominent attorney in Washington, where his practice had been concerned chiefly with federal income tax suits. A native of East Tennessee, he practiced in Knoxville before going to Washington.

It was during the 1928 campaign of Hoover that Col. Mann became nationally known for his participation it politics.

HINT INSANITY IN DEATH TRIAL

International News Service.

READING, Pa., March 16.—That Frances Sepse had no plausible reason for murdering her socially-prominent physician, Dr. Paul R. Hess, was the burden of testimony offered by her attorneys today in the woman's trial. The testimony given from the witness stand by William Williams, neighbor of the2 7-year-old defendant, became the subject of a heated controversy between the commonwealth and the defense. But, the court ruled over the prosecution's objections that the testimony should be admitted.

Williams related a story of good friendship between the slain doctor and Miss Sepse and her family. He said Dr. Hess had frequentlp visited the Sepse home.

The testimony was designed to show that no motive existed for Miss Sepse's actin shooting Dr. Hess from ambush on the night of January 8, it was asserted by Charles W. Matten of defense counsel. Only insanity could have driven the woman to slay a close friend, Matten sought to show.

LIQUOR STORE SALES FALL

Liquor sales at the Boulevard of the Allies state liquor store last week totaled $22,900 and remained in second place in Pennsylvania sales, the State Liquor Control Board reported today. Philadelphia's Sanson street store was first with $23,679 for the week.

Total sales for the week dropped off about $30,000 to $742,117, due chiefly, the liquor board explained, to anticipated price changes that will become effective next Monday. The new price list will include some reductions and a few increases.

Railroad Leaders Discuss Fare Cuts

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Eastern railway executives held another brief conference on passenger fare cuts yesterday, but took no action pending further study of the question.

Indications of a final decision next week were seen in the action of the special committee of eastern presidents in tentatively setting March 20 as the date of the next meeting.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure overlies the southeastern states (Charleston, S. C., 30.22), and the Canadian Northwest (Prince Albert, Sask., 30.38); while a trough of low pressure extends from the lakes westward over the northern plains to Wyoming and thence southward to Arizona, with centers over the lower lakes (Parry Sound, Ont., 29.72), and over South Dakota (Rapid City, 29.52). Light snow has fallen in portions of the lake region, North Dakota, Montana and the Canadian Northwest, and snow continues this morning in Northern Michigan, North Dakota, Montana and Southern Alberta. Weather is generally fair south of the lakes, with clear skies over Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. It is warmer over the eastern and southern states and cooler in the upper lakes, the Upper Mississippi Valley, North Dakota, Montana and the Canadian Northwest. The lowest temperature reported in the Canadian Northwest this morning was six degrees below zero at Prince Albert, Sask.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 4.4. Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 14.8; Pittsburgh 14.5; Dam No. 4, 11.0; No. 6, 12.4; No. 10, 12.8, and No. 12, 13.5. The dams are down. The rivers will continue to fall.

FALSE ALARM BRINGS 30 DAYS

Accused of sounding one false fire alarm and about to send in another, Joseph Daugherty, 26, of 939 St. James street, was sent to the workhouse for 30 days in lieu of a $25 fine by Magistrate Charles F. Papale in East End Police Court today.

Police testified that Daugherty, under the influence of liquor, had pulled the box at Center avenue and Beatty street and was near another box at College and Ellsworth avenues early today when arrested.

Daugherty denied the charge.

MAYVIEW FARM PLAN GETS AID

The Federal government will cooperate with the state in planning a unified farm development for the City Home at Mayview, Welfare Director Southard Hay has announced.

On his request, Hay said, the Federal Division of Farm Management and Costs has offered to send an expert here for a survey.

Hay will ask that the Federal expert come April 3 and 4, at which time R. Bruce Dunlap, of the State Bureau of Institutional Management, will complete work begun this week.

Government Gives Pork to Mayview

Mayview has received 20,000 pounds of pork from the government, presented through the Federal Agricultural Adjustment Act, Welfare Director Southard Hay announced today.

Mayview recently received 10,731 pounds of flour through the same agency.

Roosevelt Opposes Cocoanut Oil Tax

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Official word that President Roosevelt opposes the 5-cent per pound excise tax on cocoanut oil contained in the pending revenue bill was given the Senate Finance Committee today by Secretary Dern.

OFFICER SLAIN, WOMAN HURT

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 16.—(AP.)—Gun powder on a dead man's hand was sought today in an effort to clear his woman companion of blame for his death after a beer party.

Chemically pure, soft wax, clinging to the sterile gauze, was wrapped around the inert hand of Paul Kittelmann, Milwaukee policeman, who died of a pistol wound in the head early yesterday while in the company of Mrs. Lillian Ehlebracht, 39-year-old widow and a matron on the Milwaukee police force.

They were found beside the wreckage of Kittelmann's car on a highway near here, about 50 miles from home, by a Chicago motorist, William Parkell, who said the woman was holding Kittelmann's service pistol. Her leg was broken. She said:

"I was asleep when the crash occurred. I believe Kittelmann thought I had been killed. To save himself the embarrassment that would follow the finding of my body and the fact that he, a married man, had been out with me, I believe that Kittelmann took out his gun and shot himself."

Police hope light will be thrown on the mystery by wax impressions of the dead officer's hands being brought here by Joseph Kluchesky, superintendent of the Milwaukee Bureau of Identification.

Coal Storage Plant Destroyed by Fire

A storage plant of the Pittsburgh Coal Carbonization Company on Route 22, near Tyre, was destroyed by fire today. The building contained a quantity of tar which produced huge billows of smoke.

The flames were confined to the storage building. The loss was small, officials said.

Senate Group O. K.'s Philippine Liberty

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—The Tydings bill for Philippine independence was reported favorably today by the Senate Territories Committee. The report will be presented to the Senate on Monday.

PONS' JAGUAR PUT IN ZOO

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Lily Pons, beautiful young star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was inconsolable today.

Ita, Miss Pons' pet Brazilian jaguar, which has been her constant companion for 19 months, had been locked up as a dangerous character—in the Bronx Zoo, no less. Regretfully and with real tears streaming down her face, the petite singer took Ita to the zoo. She mourned:

"She is sweet. She was so devoted to me, and I was so devoted to her. I am veree sad, indeed."

The animal is about two years old now and in recent months it is said to have developed vicious tendencies which made it unsafe.

RUBINOFF SHIES AT HOME FOOD

The Squirrel Hill lad who arrived with his radio colleague, Eddie Cantor, to play a week's engagement at a downtown theater, is on a diet. He said:

"If I go up to my mother's in Squirrel Hill I'll eat and eat, and where is my diet?"

Rubinoff is teaching Cantor to play the fiddle. But:

"He is a very good comedian and father of a fine family."

"Before the week is over I will be the fiddle player and Rubinoff will tell the jokes."

Teacher and Pupil: Which Is Which?

DAVE RUBINOFF

A bit of a disagreement over which will tell the jokes, which will play the fiddle as Cantor and Rubinoff, radio and stage team, arrived in Pittsburgh today with the announcement that Rubinoff is teaching Cantor to play the violin. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

CWA Strike Spreading After Truce Fails

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—Truce efforts failing Syracuse's CWA strike, begun yesterday, spread to nearly all of the 30 outdoor projects today, embracing more than 3,000 of the 4,500 laborers on those jobs.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—Two thousand CWA workers struck here today because their 24-hour week was ordered spread over five days instead of the three they have been working.

The men employed in a stone quarry said the change would add to their welfare and other expenses. A Hart Hopkins CWA director here said the shorter work day was ordered to permit working double shifts and would make room for 700 more men.

ROME, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—CWA workers began striking here this morning in protest against what they called "starvation pay." The city CWA rolls carry 861 men. The strikers, whose number was not immediately determined, showed a division in opinion as to what they would demand. Some wanted 50 cents and hour and a 24-hour week, while others were prepared to ask 40 cents and a 30-hour week.

YORK, Pa., March 16.—(INS.)—Demanding the prevailing rate of 40 cents an hour for unskilled labor be boosted 10 cents, 2,500 CWA workers planned to go on strike tomorrow unless a meeting of the wage rate board called for today returns a favorable decision.

The proposed strike was voted at a mass meeting of workers last night when demands were also made for a 30-hour-week schedule instead of the 24 hours now alloted them.

Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—William Randolph Hearst was praised in the Senate yesterday for his long and consistent stand for "fair play between labor and management to the end that the interests of both might become one."

Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a former Secretary of Labor, in extolling the publisher, obtained unanimous consent of the Senate for inclusion in the Congressional Record of an editorial signed by Mr. Hearst and appearing in Washington Herald and other Hearst newspapers under the caption:

Davis said:

"Through the years, Mr. Hearst has stood firmly for the increase of purchasing power through well-filled pay envelopes in the hands of the workers.

"He has upheld the right of collective bargaining and high wages at times when it was unpopular to do so until today it has become the accepted custom of the land.

"He now asks thatt he government practice in relation to its employes what it preaches to industry in the maintenance of living wages."

SCIENTIST HOPES TO RESTORE LIFE IN DEAD PEOPLE

EXPERIMENTS ON TWO DOGS SUCCESS

Magic Potion Restarts Hearts, Keep Them Going Hours

BERKELEY, Cal., March 16.—(AP.)—Two dead dogs brought back to life by the magic of science gave a doctor hope today that human life may be restored.

Not that the goal is immediately in sight. The operation was a partial success, but the two dogs died all over again.

LIFE RESTORED

Dr. Robert E. Cornish, biologist of the University of California, directed the experiments yesterday. The dogs were asphyxiated with nitrogen gas and pronounced dead.

Then injections of adrenalin, heparin and oxygen were administered, combined with a "teeter-totter" device to restore the circulation of the blood. The doctor said that heart action and respiration were restored. The dog, a fox terrier, lived again for four hours. Another terrier came back for five hours.

The trouble with the dogs, Dr. Cornish said, was that on their return journey they didn't seem to take an interest in things. Neither appeared to regain consciousness.

CONTINUES STUDY

A record kept by the scientists showed the second dog, proclaimed dead from nitrogen gas at 12:24 p. m., started to live again nine minutes later as indicated by the first heart beats. At 12:58, respiration was well under way. The dog soon twitched, gave knee reflexes, moved its lips and eyes. At 4 p. m., the respiration and pulse approached normal. An hour later the breathing became labored and at 6 p. m. "re-death occurred."

Dr. Cornish said he will continue his experiments and that if "consciousness" can be added to the restored organic functions "life may be prolonged for a considerable period."

GERMANY BANS MARLENE FILM

BERLIN, March 16.—(AP.)—Germany clamped a ban today on the film "Das Hohe Lied"—the Paramount Motion Picture Company's production, "Song of Songs," featuring Marlene Dietrich.

No reason for the ban was assigned in the announcement through the official Reichs Anzeiger.

It was said that Paramount officials had been told the official reason for the ban would be disclosed later.

The film was banned in Australia and India months ago, it was recalled here.

Only two days ago it was announced in Berlin that Marlene Dietrich had contributed to a welfare fund there. As a result, observers believed this action marked a reconciliation with the Nazis.

In Hollywood, however, Miss Dietrich said the contribution was not for the Nazi party and that she had no intention of giving the Nazis anything. She said she gave $500 to the winter fund for German poor children.

For a long time it had been felt in Berlin that there was some trouble between the actress and the Nazis. The German press has criticized her wearing of trousers.

$15,000 AWARD IN AUTO CASE

Six years after she was struck by an automobile, Dorothy Rees, 14, of 6492 Frankstown avenue, won a $10,000 judgment today against the Cochran Chevrolet Company.

Mrs. Emily Rees, the child's mother, was awarded another $5,000 in her joint suit against the company, resulting from an accident at Penn avenue and St. Clair street in June, 19928.

Th verdict, returned by a jury before visiting Judge C. M. Culver, of Towanda, came as a surprise. Two years ago, the Cochran company was granted a new trial after a judgment of $3,000 had been returned against it. The new trial was granted on grounds that judgment was excessive.

In addition to the $15,000 awarded the mother and daughter, the jury awarded damages of $1,408 to cover hospital and medical costs. Coleman Harrison was counsel for the Rees family.

Suit Faces Husband Of Mildred Harris

ATLANTA, March 16.—(AP.)—Officers here today were attempting to serve notice of a civil suit involving an automobile accident on William Fleckenstein, who, Deputy Sheriff Emmett L. Quinn said he had been informed, is the husband of Mildred Harris Chaplin, former wife of Charles Chaplin.

The papers in the suit aver that Fleckenstein was driving an automobile that figured in an accident in Fairbault, Minn., resulting in the death of Martha Thielbar, a 16-year-old girl.

Banghart Speeded On Way to Prison

CHICAGO, March 16.—(INS.)—Basil Banghart today was formally sentenced by Judge Walter P. Steffen to serve 99 years in the penitentiary for the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor.

The Touhy gangster was ordered to prison in short order after Judge Steffen overruled his plea for a new trial.

WRECK INQUIRY NEARS JURY

The Coroner's three-day inquest into the Pennsylvania Railroad wreck, which cost 11 lives on the North Side last month, was ready for the jury this afternoon.

Among the late witnesses were J. B. Lowery, Sewickley passenger trainmaster, and B. I. Haley, railroad director of movements.

Lowery, who said the train had been 14 minutes late at Sewickley, testified that it was going so fast approaching the scene of the wreck that he rose from his seat and pulled the signal cord. But, he added, before he regained his seat, the crash occured.

Haley estimated, from reports submitted to him, that the train's speed was 60 miles.

Edward M. Fisher, assistant foreman of the railroad, in his testimony yesterday afternoon, produced records to show that Engineer W. M. Shaw, who was among those killed, had passed the customary tests and examinations during 1933 with a "very high" percentage.

ASBESTOS HEIR FEARS PLOT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Four private detectives guarded Tommy Manville, Broadway playboy and $50,000,000 asbestos heir, as he sped across the country to Hollywood today, accompanied by his showgirl wife, Marcelle Edwards.

Manville explained the presence of the guards by saying he feared the possibility of an attempt to kidnap him. He has frequently appealed to the New York police for protection against possible kidnapers.

Manville and his wife are taking a "honeymoon trip," (they were married six months ago) and will be the guests of Earl Carroll, stage producer, in Hollywood.

MISSING GIRL HUNTED

Police today were searching for 19-year-old Elizabeth Jacobs, missing from her home, 1726 Ridge avenue, North Braddock, since attending a show Wednesday night with an escort.

Her escort, Pete Temsic, 19, of 5127 Holmes street, told police they had gone to an East Liberty theater. Afterwards he left the girl in front of her home about midnight, he said.

Her mother, Mrs. Beulah Jacobs, said that she did not come in the house.

HEIRESS, BABY PERILED BY KIDNAPERS

Police Guard Palatial Home on Receipt Of Threat

GREENWICH, Conn., March 16.—(AP.)—The shadow of a kidnap plot lay today over the palatial home where Fredericka Fry Del Guercio, $8,000,000 heiress to the Timken roller bearing fortune, lives with her 2-year-old son, Eligio.

A special police guard was placed about the house last night as Chief of Police Patrick J. Flanagan said a note had been received, warning there was a plot to kidnap either Mrs. Del Guercio or her son, and to hold the victim for $100,000 ransom. Flanagan said:

"I'm not in a position to talk about it."

U. S. AGENTS NOTIFIED

The Department of Justice was notified, the lawyer said, and the note was kept secret to permit the agents to work quietly on the case.

Mrs. Del Guercio is the adopted daughter of J. H. Fry, noted artist, who now is in Italy, and the late Mrs. J. H. Timken Fry. Her former husband, Eligio Del Guercia, is a lawyer in New York. They were divorced in July, 1933.

Their romance ended in an uncontested divorce action, brought by Fredericka on grounds of cruelty.

U. S. Agents Grill Five On Bremer Kidnaping

M'ALESTER, Okla., March 16.—(INS.)—Department of Justice agents engaged in tracking down the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, today were questioning five of eight prisoners captured in a raid on a secluded Osage County farm house. Four were hunted outlaws.

Federal Investigator H. D. Hollis announced that the gang, three of whom were wanted for other crimes, had recently been associated with the suspected abductors of Bremer. With 12 other officers, Hollis brought the five suspects to the State Penitentiary here for safe keeping during the questioning.

Hollis disclosed that two men hunted for the $200,900 ransom kidnaping of Bremer were not in the farm house when raiders surrounded the place yesterday. The pair sought, Hollis disclosed for the first time, are Alvin Karpis and Arthur Barker, former Oklahoma state penitentiary convicts.

Woman Surrenders In Kidnaping of Doctor

ST. LOUIS, March 16.—(AP.)—Veiled in black crepe and visibly shaking, Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, comely wife of a St. Louis physician, came out of hiding and surrendered yesterday on an indictment charging the kidnaping of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley.

Several hundred persons, attracted by the expected appearance of the woman at the St. Louis County Courthouse, rushed to the door at her appearance, and ranged through the building while attorneys posted $50,000 bond and arranged for her release.

Erie School Board Fights Milk Price

ERIE, Pa., March 16.—Refusal of the Erie School Board to pay the Hill-Mill Dairy Company a quarter-cent increase per pint for milk consumed by school children, today promised the first test of the power vested recently in the State Milk Control Board.

Counsel for the school board said today he would ask the attorney general to rule whether the milk control board's readjustment of prices abrogates contracts under which the local schools paid only one and a half cents per pint for the milk.

RASPUTIN AIDE QUESTIONED

PARIS, March 16. — (AP.) — Aaron Simonovitch, once secretary to Rasputin, Russia's "Mad Monk," today was added to the picturesque characters of the sinister Stavisky drama.

Simonovitch was questioned by secret police after his son, Simon Simonovitch, volunteered a possible clue to the slaying of Judge Albert Prince, important witness in the Stavisky investigation, near Dijon February 21.

The Surete Generale is probing Simon's story that he and his bride made a honeymoon trip to Dijon on the same train as Judge Prince and saw a mysterious stranger in a khaki overcoat on the train.

Young Simonovitch, it was learned, was connected with a Paris gambling club supposedly frequented by the late Serge Stavisky, credited with collapse of the Bayonne municipal pawnshop.

Julian's Secretary Fined in Fraud

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Juanita Campbell, 28-year-old former private secretary to C. C. Julian, fugitive oil operator, was granted leniency yesterday by Judge Edgar S. Vaught when she dropped her fight against mail fraud charges against her. She was given a year to pay a $250 fine.

Thirty-one other defendants in the case are scheduled to go on trial here next Monday. Julian is in Shanghai, safe from extradition, while three bondsmen are scraping up the $25,000 bond he forfeited.

Prisoner Stripped To Bar Suicide, Police Say

It was necessary for Braddock police to take all of George Miller's clothes from him to keep him from hanging himself yesterday, police say.

Miller, 40, of 417 Johns street, Braddock, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and lodged in the Braddock Police Station. Sergt. John Bradley found Miller trying to hang himself with his belt a short time later and took the belt from him, police reported.

Miller then tied a noose in his shirt and all his clothes were taken from him, according to police.

He was then sent to the Braddock General Hospital.

MUSSOLINI PLOT TRIAL BEGINS

ROME, March 16.—(AP.)—Three alleged anti-Fascist terrorists, accused of plotting to kill Mussolini with lethal gas and of bombing St. Peter's Cathedral, went on trial today before the special tribunal for the defense of the state.

The prosecution may demand the death sentence for them. Execution by shooting in the back is provided for such cases.

A fourth defendant is charged merely with conspiracy. Formal accusations of organizing and financing the attempts have been issued against three others, but they are outside the jurisdiction of the Italian authorities.

One of these is the well-known anti-Fascist writer, Gaetano Salvemini, who resided for several years in America.

FOOD BILL GETS APPROVAL

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Drastically modified, the Capeland pure food and drug bill today had been approved by the Senate Commerce Committee.

Senator Copeland (Dem.), of New York, sponsor of the measure, indicated it may be a week or 10 days before steps are taken to put it on the legislative program for passage.

The committee eliminated from the bill provisions prohibiting sale of medicines for self-treatment of a long list of specified diseases. General provisions forbidding misrepresentation were retained.

Also eliminated were authorizations for the government to bring multiple suits against manufacturers.

Publishers of newspapers and other periodicals would be exempted from prosecution for misrepresentation in advertisements, provided they had obtained statements from the advertisers assuming full responsibility for statements made in the advertisements, Copeland said.

Three Sisters Die In Burning Home

GEORGETOWN, Del., March 16.—Three little sisters were burned to death while their brother suffered a broken back as fire destroyed their farm home 13 miles south of here today.

The girls who perished in the blaze were Viola Hudson, 13, Louise, five, and Mary Frances, two.

SALE OF DOPE TO PRISONERS BARED

Romance Between Chef And Matron Aired in Wisconsin Probe

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 16.—(INS.)—Testimony describing the sale of narcotics to inmates within the house of correction here and prisoners getting intoxicated on shellac today was on record as the county board passed its investigation into charges of mismanagement directed at the workhouse.

John Hutter, former inmate, testified before the county board that prisoners had easy access to shellac from which they extracted an ill-tasting alcohol upon which they got drunk in their quarters.

The prisoners found it easy to obtain narcotics, he said, and named Robert Eberle, a fellow inmate, as the dope seller who plied his trade among the convicts with little interferrence. Eberle appeared before the board last week as a witness.

Mrs. Lee Kline told the county board members she had seen the workhouse chef, William Luebke, making love to Mrs. Anna Wright, chief matron. The witness said she had been treated inconsiderately by Matron Wright during her stay in the institution.

Favored inmates had no trouble earning a sizeable income within the house of correction walls with which they could purchase the little things that broke the monotony of prison life, according to Hutter's testimony.

He was sent to the house of corrections to serve a term for burglary.

Hutter told how he went in the house of correction penniless and emerged with $75 earned selling cigaret papers at $1 for 24 packets to other inmates. In all he had earned $250 selling his product, Hutter testified.

THREE HANGED FOR ATTACK

HERNANDO, Miss., March 16.—(AP.)—Three young Memphis Negroes died on the gallows here today for an attack on a 17-year-old Holly Springs, Miss., schoolgirl.

Two hundred steel helmeted National Guardsmen, who rushed the Negroes here from the Hinds County jail at Jackson, Miss., surrounded the jail to hold back a throng of Hernando residents and citizens from surrounding counties as Johnny Jones, Ernest McGehee and Isaac Howard were executed.

Despite the secrecy, a large crowd was in Hernando when the Negroes were brought in by highway. The guardsmen, and their prisoners traveled by bus and automobile.

Sheriff Roscoe Lauderdale acted as executioner. The hanging was witnessed by Clyde Collins, Holly Springs, Miss., father of the attack victim. A bill which would have permitted him to spring the trap was killed by a House committee after being passed by the Senate.

Bank Embezzlement Suspect Captured

NEW YORK, March 16.—(INS.)—Joseph W. Hardy, 32, an employe of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, who has been sought since February 1 on a charge of embezzling $17,000 of the institution's funds, was on his way back to New York today after having been seized in Cleveland, last night, according to a message received by police.

The message said detectives found $15,000 in a traveling bag in the new coupe which Hardy was driving.

LINDY ATTACKS U. S. ACTION ON AIR MAIL

canceled agreements, were obtained through fraud, as charged by the administration.

FAVORS LARGE UNITS

In favoring large company organizations rather than small units, the aviator gave better service as the reason and said he expected "that soon passengers will be able to cross the continent without stop."

At the same time, pleas that the small independent carriers be provided for in the new air mail setup were being made to a House postoffice committee today as it neared conclusion of hearings on the permanent air mail bill that Lindbergh opposed.

Carlton Putnam, of the Pacific Seaboard Airlines, California, asked:

"Why prevent the smaller companies who are trying to pioneer in feeder and short-haul lines from qualifying and obtaining help the same as the big concerns."

COLLUSION QUERY

During the Senate Committee hearing Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, said to Lindbergh:

"I believe you are connected with Transcontinental and Western Air. Before another committee there was introduced evidence that that concern entered into a collusive agreement to buy off Earl Halliburton so that he would not bid on an air mail contract."

Lindbergh replied:

"I don't know about that."

"But you wouldn't approve that if it was done?"

"I have no knowledge of the incident. I feel that these charges should have been definitely established before these contracts were canceled. I feel it was the right of the companies, the public and my own right to have them definitely established. I say this only in the interest of what I most deeply believe to be right. Of course, I wouldn't approve anything illegal. I'm simply giving you my views on this situation."

PRAISED FOR VIEWS

"And what you say is to your credit."

Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), of Wyoming, put in:

"If you had a contract with an individual and discovered it was fraudulently obtained, you would think it was right to cancel wouldn't you?"

"I don't know. Let me say that I feel that nothing has been proved in this case and that nothing has been submitted for trial. So far as I can see, nothing has been clearly proved."

"No criminal action has been taken in the air mail case—I think you are confusing criminal and civil actions."

"I am not a lawyer. I think the right to trial is so obvious that it is not a legal question."

Barbour broke in to say he didn't think Lindbergh had confused "anything." Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, agreed.

Lindbergh said the Army Air Corps was "not designed" for meeting such emergencies as carriage of the mail and had not had "adequate time to study the routes."

FLYING TRAINING

Lindy was asked:

"How long does it take to train a military pilot and a commercial pilot?"

"That is difficult to say. A man can learn to fly with reasonable safety in a week or two as a student, while it would take years to fly passengers and mail with a reasonable degree of safety."

He regarded commercial aviation one of the "greatest reserves we have" for military purposes, declaring:

"The commercial pilot is constantly facing all kinds of weather and he has more meteorological experience than the military man has. The commercial pilot has had no formation training but has had a large amount of flying under adverse weather conditions."

Commercial aviation radio had been a "little more developed" than military radio, he said.

DODGES PAY QUESTION

He agreed there should be a limitation on the number of hours per month to be flown by pilots, but said he was not equipped to discuss the pay question. He continued:

"The Army mail carrying was not as efficient as that of private companies. The Army had only 10 days to take over a system that was built up by private companies over 10 years.

"The Army equipment was not designed for mail carrying. The pilots were not familiar with the air mail routes. It was not possible to take over in the short time that the Army was given.

"If you changed the experienced private pilots from their ordinary routes, it would take weeks for them to become familiar with their new lines.

"If I went back to my old line between St. Louis and Chicago it would be weeks before I could handle it as well as I did."

Senator Davis asked:

"If this bill passes, wouldn't the private companies that formerly held the contracts have to make ruinously low bids to regain the contracts?"

Lindbergh said he was not familiar with the rate field.

Senator Schall (Rep.), of Minnesota, said he had been told that it would cost the Army around $30,000,000 a year to carry the mail where the private companies had carried it for about $14,000,000, but the witness said he had no information on this.

ADVANCEMENT SEEN

To the suggestion that contracts for transcontinental service might be broken up between several small companies, Lindbergh said:

"Several large units cannot give the same service as a few larger units.

"If a great number of contracts were let it would decrease service and complicate technical features. I expect that soon passengers will be able to cross the continent without stop."

In answer to questions, Lindbergh said:

"So far as commercial aviation is concerned, America leads—or rather did lead the world."

He was asked:

"I am not sufficiently acquainted with the details of setting up those lines to comment on his methods. But I do know that commercial aviation improved greatly while he was in office."

COMPETITION KEEN

Senator Barbour asked whether competition between United, TWA and American Airways was keen?" Lindy said:

"So far as technical details are concerned competition was keen."

"Do you mean to say they competed in bidding for mail awards?"

"That's something I know nothing about. I have no reason to think there wasn't competition."

"But you know nothing about it?"

"No."

"Your position is whether there were grounds for cancellation of these contracts, or not, that these companies are entitled to a hearing."

"Exactly that is the point I tried to make. I believe these companies had a full right for a fair and impartial trial."

Asked by Senator O'Mahoney regarding the advisability of continuing subsidies, Lindbergh opposed "a permanent subsidy." He said:

"If used at all it can be used to advantage in encouraging aviation in its first years. I feel American aviation can still be encouraged materially a little while longer and that can be done to the advantage of the country."

BID DEAL PROBE

O'Mahoney asked:

"Do you know that the company with which you are associated paid another company $1,400,000 not to bid on an air mail award?"

"I have absolutely no knowledge of that."

"But if it were true you wouldn't approve it?"

"I don't feel with my background that I should make any comment on the question."

Barbour said:

"It's just an accusation now, isn't it?"

McKeller interposed:

"There's a difference of opinion about that."

O'Mahoney resumed:

"If an officer of your company testified under oath that his concern paid $1,400,000 to persuade another company not to bid, and if it were established by the terms of the contract, would you consider that proof of the charge?"

"That's a hypothetical question and it is out of my field. I don't want to answer that."

McKellar asked about the stock bonuses Lindbergh received from aviation companies.

O'Mahoney objected, saying:

'RECEIVED NO GIFTS'

The flier smilingly said he had no objection to answering, and declared:

"Let me say that I have never received any gifts from aviation companies. I received some stock from TAT and some warrants to purchase stock from Pan-American Airways."

In response to questions by McKellar, he said that the warrants entitled him to buy Pan-American stock. He smiled:

"Let me say that I have invested more in Pan-American than I have received."

O'Mahoney asked if the warrants were not generally used "to buy stock at less than the market cost." Lindy said:

"I don't know. I am not a stock manipulator."

HOLDING COMPANIES

O'Mahoney asked if aviation had been "held up" in this country by holding companies getting control of both operating and manufacturing companies. Lindbergh said:

"That is very had to say. If you compare with other countries it would be hard to say it had been held up. Whether it can be improved is another question."

O'Mahoney questioned:

"The operating companies buy their equipment from affiliated manufacturing companies and the temptation is to give the affiliates undue profits?"

The colonel replied:

"I have always taken the attitude that no equipment should be purchased, regardless of affiliates, unless it is of the very best. Only from an operating standpoint do I feel the operators of air lines would be better off without connections with manufacturing."

From a commercial and military standpoint in general, Lindbergh said, the United States was in the forefront but:

"There are certain things in which Europe leads us, such as the liquid cooled engine."

He said the United States was leading in the service type of air-cooled engine and metal construction.

As Lindbergh concluded two hours of testimony and was excused with "many thanks" by the chairman, loud handclapping greeted him and committee members were profuse in the congratulations.

NEW ATTACKS

The air mail subject in general continued an explosive one in both the Senate and House, with word of new attacks and counter attacks to come.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, the Republican whip, served notice he would answer an attack by Robinson, of Arkansas, the majority floor leader, who hit both Fess and former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown in a speech yesterday. He accused Brown of "connivance" in fraud.

Robinson intimated that if the Republicans desired to make a campaign issue out of the air mail contract cancellations and Army deaths, the Democrats would accept the issue.

The Army mail planes, put into their hangars after a series of fatalities which caused President Roosevelt to demand that the tragedies cease, were still on the ground today. Preparations for a resumption of curtailed air mail schedules continued.

MELLON INTERESTS

Senator Robinson, in his attack on former Postmaster Brown and in support of Mr. Roosevelt's cancellation of air mail contracts, said Brown arranged that a contract for an air line from New York by way of St. Louis to Los Angeles should be to a combination which embraced the Trans-Continental Air Transport, Western Air Express and the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries, Inc. He added that W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was a moving spirit in T. A. T. and that the Mellons were "prominent stockholders and officers" in the latter. He declared:

"Moreover, involved in these queer deals were extraordinary fees to connections of influential members of the Senate and other prominent politicians, which gave a political tinge to the whole matter and which brought about an attack on the present administration by various hack politicians of the opposing political party."

Robinson said "they could not deny or controvert the confessions and other testimony which showed that the former Postmaster General had deliberately called together the representatives of the aviation companies" and that a program was arranged "which utterly nullified the law."

ROOSEVELT RAPPED

Robinson, of Indiana, replied to the Arkansas Senator's speech with an assertion that the President acted in a "rash and hasty" manner in cancelling the contracts and without an emergency confronting him ordered Army pilots into the air inadequately trained and with unsafe equipment. He added:

"His inconsiderate action resulted in the death of 10 of the bravest pilots in the United States. That cannot be laughed off on the ground of politics; nor will the American people laugh it off."

CAPITOL IMPRESSIONS By R. J. Malone

ROOSEVELT HIT BY WAR ACE

Capt. Rickenbacker To Testify at Senate Quiz

By PAUL WEBER
International News Service.

DETROIT, March 16—President Roosevelt should use his emergency executive powers to commandeer the private air mail lines back into service, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker declared today. He added:

"The commercial aviation industry of America is deteriorating every hour like a pile of sand. Unless something is done quickly, I promise you that inside of a year there will be no private commercal air lines."

The flier declared today he believed the cancellation of air mail contracts was the first "glaring blunder" of the Roosevelt administration—a blunder, he said, which has already had its political repercussions in damaged confidence and the "revolt" of Congress on the bonus and the St. Lawrence seaway questions.

CITES 'TROUBLES'

The war ace declared the Army cannot fly the mail efficiently without new equipment and a year's training. He cited two major reasons why the Army's airmail service has proved so costly in human life:

1—"Army planes are not designed to carry the mail. In war the great virtue is maneuverability; in commercial flying, stability. A heavy load of mail unbalances a combat plane. It is just as silly to expect these young Army fliers to carry the mails efficiently in their fighting craft as it would be to order commercial pilots to do military formation stunts in trimotored transports.

2—"The Army pilots lack experience in mail flying. The average Army pilot has 400 to 500 hours in the air, compared with an average of more than 4,000 hours for commercial fliers. Even a co-pilot on the commercial lines must have 1,200 hours."

As contributory factors to the Army's mail flying troubles, Capt. Rickenbacker cited what he termed "inefficient maintenance" of Army planes, and lack of the scientific and technical resources built up by the commercial lines.

UNITY PLAN HIT

Asked whether the Army's failure constitutes a criticism of the nation's military air force as a war weapon, Capt. Rickenbacker replied, thoughtfully:

"Well, yes, and no. The fault lies with Congress in not providing better training and more adequate equipment. But it is not a criticism of the fliers themselves. They have done their valiant best."

President Urged To Commandeer Mail Lines

AIR STOCK DATA PRODUCED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange today brought to the Senate Banking Committee a record of 50,000 transactions in aviation stocks, just prior to cancellation of the air mail contracts.

Republican Senators have charged that through "inside tips" that cancellation was imminent, speculators profited through short sales of aviation stocks.

The record was prepared by Whitney for the period from December 1, until February 9, the date when the contracts were cancelled.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, has been ordered to determine whether any political leaders or associates made money in aviation securities.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16—Undaunted by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's two blunt refusals to serve, Secretary of War Dern today moved ahead with plans to have a joint civilian and army board investigate and report on what's wrong with America's military air service.

Two other outstanding aeronautical figures will be invited to join Clarence D. Chamberlin, a trans-Atlantic flier, in forming the civilian personnel of the board.

Dern planned to confer with Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, deputy chief of staff, and chairman of the board, on who should be invited to take the places of Lindbergh and Orville Wright, the noted pioneer, who declined to serve on the grounds of poor health.

The names of Maj. "Jimmy" Doolittle, military ace, and Frank Hawks, a noted commercial pilot, have been mentioned. Dern would particularly like to have Hawks serve, but the youthful skyrider is now in China, demonstrating American bombers to the Chinese government, and is considered unavailable.

Although Doolittle was discussed as an outstanding authority on aviation, it was felt he ranked more as a military flier than a civilian, and therefore would not fit in well as a civilian member of the board.

The board already comprises five high-ranking Army officers and Dern wants the other three members to represent the civilian school of thought.

CAR COMPANY HAS $5,000,000 IN ORDERS

The Pressed Steel Car Company has on its books contracts totaling approximately five million dollars, Federal Judge R. M. Gibson was told today when receivers for the company sought authority to issue certificates to meet costs of operations.

Judge Gibson authorized the receivers, George D. Wicks, Walter A. Bonitz and F. N. Hoffstot, to issue additional receivers' certificates in the amount of $650,000 bearing 5 per cent interest.

The receivers said the money is intended to meet the payroll and costs of material in operating the plant. Of total contracts amounting to five million dollars, the court was informed, $4,300,000 of these are for new cars.

The receivers told Judge Gibson that between 1,500 and 2,000 additional men have had work at the McKees Rocks plant and that 350 now are working. Contracts have been received for 1,400 steel gondola cars, 25 passenger cars and other equipment from several railroads, including the Pennsylvania and Erie.

When the receivers took charge of the operations orders on the company books totaled only $47,000, Judge Gibson was told.

GOLDSTEIN HELD ON TAX CHARGE

J. S. Goldstein, former constable, was held for the federal grand jury today on charges of failing to file an income tax return for 1930 and evading payment of such taxes following a hearing before the United States commissioner. He was released in $2,500 bond.

Internal revenue agents testified that Goldstein and his alleged numbers partner, Thomas Oppenheim, former city detective, each had a net income in 1930 of $34,000. Goldstein had $15,000 on deposit in the Braddock Trust Company in that year and Oppenheim $89,000, the agents testified.

Oppenheim was sentenced yesterday to serve from six to 12 months in jail by Judge W. Heber Dithrich in Criminal Court after Oppenheim pleaded guilty to conducting a lottery. He will be given a hearing before the United States commissioner later, on charges identical with those against Goldstein.

2 Turtle Creek Men Will Kin $31,000

Relatives will share the estates of Herman C. Lange and John Clark Leslie, both of Turtle Creek, according to their wills filed for probate today.

Lange's will left his $23,000 estate to his wife, Elizabeth, with provision that at her death the estate would be given to his brother, Henry F. Lange, and other relatives. Leslie left an estate of $8,000.

Wife Seeks Divorce, Charging Desertion

Erma E. King, 27, testified in divorce court today that her husband, Andrew H. King, frequently became intoxicated, then disappeared. She charges desertion.

She said they were married in 1926 when she was the secretary of an official at Pitt. She gave her address as 1625 Patton street, Wilkinsburg.

INSULL FOUND ON SHIP BOUND FOR EGYPT

cape return would be aboard one of them.

Previously, the government had planned merely to expel Insull from Greece, allowing him to go where he wished in search of refuge.

GREECE 'FIGHTING MAD'

The government was represented as "fighting mad" because "last week's invalid" put it in an embarrassing light by his secret maritime dash Wednesday afternoon.

The Aquitania sails March 20 and the Italian steamer Vulcania will pick up passengers for America at Piraeus, port of Athens, March 24.

Although the Maiotis was steaming back to Piraeus, it was held possible that Insull did not know the fate awaiting him and may not become aware of the change in course, ordered by the Greek government in a wireless message, until it reaches port.

Not only has the government's temper soured toward the man who stayed here nearly 18 months battling extradition, but the public also is nettled.

Public sympathy, much of it with the Chicagoan, apparently has turned to open resentment.

MRS. INSULL RELEASED

After 24 hours of questioning by police who sought to learn all they could about her husband, Mrs. Insull was released from custody late this afternoon.

The police immediately launched an investigation and later arrested the owner of the S. S. Maiotis (listed in Lloyd's Register as A. P. Sinodinos, of Piraeus).

Government officials were visibly riled by the disclosure that the man who long had been its guest had flown while their own police—and, it was rumored, American detectives—stood idly by.

Not only government quarters but a considerabl eportion of the general public were indignant, saying that Insull's action was discourteous.

PREMIER INDIGNANT

Said Premier Isaldaris:

"Insull soon will be brought back under an Attic sky which will not be as hospitable to him as before. Our keeping him was a question of philantthropy.

"It is a pity the fugitive was not appreciative of Greek hospitality and courtesy. By his behavior he placed the government in an embarrassing predicament."

Ecen the leaders of the opposition political party—previously considered friendly to Insull—seemed incensed by the escape developments.

They threatened to launch an attack on the police organization for its negligence in letting the old man slip through its fingers.

It was reported, and subsequently denied, that the chief of the secret service had been expelled, but the fact remained that sort of a police shakeup was expected and this belief was heightened by the resignation of the Minister of the Interior.

ORDERED TO RETURN

The government's determination to reassert surveillance over Insull was seen in the revelation that for some time officials debated whther they should send a warship in pursuit of the Maiotis. This plan finally was abandoned.

It was estimated that the freighter was 60 miles southwest of Crete when the master decided to put about.

A wireless station called the freighter's operator for more than four hours before he finally succeeded in contacting the ship through Crete.

Informed of the minister of marine's order to return to Greek waters, the captain complied. He was then instructed to report to the government for further orders when within 30 miles of Piraeus, the Port of Athens.

Martin Insull's Return To U. S. Ordered by Canada

TORONTO, March 16—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities operator and brother of Samuel Insull, today was ordered extraditetd to the United States.

Insull was immediately held in custody to await the arrival of American authorities to return him to the United States.

The order of extradition was passed by Chief Justice Sir William Mulock on Insull5s appeal from an extradition order previously issued.

It was regarded as ending Insull's fight against a return to Chicago to face a trial on charges of embezzlement and grand larceny.

Martin Insull started his legal battle againstt extradition nearly 17 months ago, shortly after his arrest in Orilla, Ontario, where he was found following the collapse of the Insull ultilities.

INSULL FLIGHT LAID TO FEAR

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Fear of assassination and the possibility of a woman in the case were advanced here today as reasons for Samuel Insull's last-minute desperate flight from Greek authorities.

Samuel A. Ettelson, noted lawyer representing common stockholders in the receivership cases against the utility magnate made this statement adding:

"Insull has, I believe, an unlimited supply of funds. He can pay his way around, but he ought to come back here and face the law. Flight is always an evidence of guilt. One reason he doesn't come back is that he fears assassination."

Widely circulated rumors place the amount of cash sent to Insull by "influential friends" at $400,000. United States Department of Justice officials returning from the unsuccessful extradition trip reported the magnate living in luxury.

RUM LICENSES COVER SALE OF BEER

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, March 16.—Beer retailers who added hard liquors to their wares and procured liquor licenses from the State Control Board are not required to renew their beer licenses upon expiration June 1, it was learned today.

Permission to sell malt drinks as well as liquors is included in licenses issued by the control board under the McClure act passed by the Legislature last November, it was explained.

Taproom proprietors dispensing beer alone, however, must renew their beer licenses through county treasurers. The procedure that became effective last year with the return of beer remains unchanged under the McClure act.

The demand for retail beer licenses is expected to slump heavily as a result of the return of liquor and the new state liquor licensing laws. Discussing the licensing situation, Robert S. Gawthrop, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, said:

"There is no conflict in the laws. Establishments with liquor licenses obtained from the board are authorized to sell liquor and beer until the end of this year on those licenses. Establishments that are not selling liquor must renew their beer licenses June 1."

Almost one-third of the state's beer selling establishmentes have obtained liquor licenses since the advent of repeal, according to the board's statistics. The current total is about 7,200 as compared with 22,000 beer licenses issued last June.

Fees for liquor licenses, ranging up to $600, are double those for beer. The money in both cases is turned back to the municipality in which the licensee is located, except that liquor money from second class townships is returned to school districts while beer fees from second class townships are refunded to the township governments.

WHALEN LAUDS RUM FOR TAX

Grover A. Whalen, former New York City Police Commissioner, and "official greeter," announced today that the liquor business is doing nicely.

So nicely that Joseph S. Finch & Co., operating the Schenley Distillery, is paying a half million dollars a month to the government in taxes, he said.

Whalen is chairman of the board of Schenley Affiliates, of which the Finch company is a member. He was here with 125 Schenley distributors on an inspection tour of the company distilleries.

The ex-police head said he was glad that the industry's prosperity could be passed on to his company's employes. The hours of all have been reduced 10 per cent and more workers have been hired.

Whalen also spoke as chairman of the Retail Code Authority for New York City. He said:

"I have found that direction of the retail trade under its code of fair competition has resulted in improved business methods and reduction in the number of chiselers and price cutters. The retail business in my area in February showed a 15 per cent increase over the same month a year ago."

Piece of Cheese Traps Burglar

PORTAGE, Wis., March 16.—(AP.)—When Sheriff Robert Roche was called to investigate the burglary of the Kirley Store at Doylestown, he found only one clue—a freshly-bitten piece of cheese in the showcase.

The Sheriff arrested John McMann and his cousin, Russell McMann, but they denied the charge. A dentist said the marks in the cheese matched John's teeth, and he confessed, exonerating Russell.

THREE WOMEN DIE IN ICE

NORTH WILBRAHAM, Mass., March 16.—(AP.)—Three women were found dead in the auto that went through the ice of the Chicopee River here early today. The women were identified as Mrs. Edward T. Crimmins, sister of Police Chief Timothy Crimmins, of Palmer, and her two daughters.

State police and firemen blasted away the ice with dynamite to reach the car. It bounced off the road into the river after colliding with a machine driven by Nazaire J. Fourcier, of Chicopee Falls.

It skidded across the ice for more than 75 feet before breaking through in about the center of the stream.

CITY IN FIGHT ON PARROT FEVER

of the head, coughing and high fever.

Dr. Badger, accompanied by Dr. Moyer and Dr. Phillip E. Marks, head of the bureau of infectious diseases, visited McCreery's store today following a conference in Dr. Moyer's office.

STATEMENT ISSUED

After the visit, the following statement was issued by Dr. Moyer's office:

"Since the statement yesterday from Mr. Jansing, of McCreery's store, regarding the case reported, it was deemed advisable to make an inspection of that store. Drs. Badger and Moyer found that the store had eliminated its pet shop about two weeks ago and all birds were destroyed.

"The store was thoroughly cleaned and those portions where the pets had been were newly painted. They feel justified in saying that there should be no danger of this being a source of infection of the disease. Most all cases of psittacosis are found to have history of the patient having had contact with the birds.

"The city Health Department has been trying to follow up all birds that were contacted with the one bird known to have had psittacosis; also checking up on all birds shipped into Pittsburgh recently. They are also disposed to keep all the birds in the city pet shops under quarantine and observation for some time."

WOMAN VICTIM

The only death positively diagnosed as having been caused by psittacosis was reported yesterday to the Bureau of Vital Statistics. The victim was Mrs. Nora Conroy, 40, of 2705 Custer avenue. She was employed at McCreery's as a clerk.

Six employes of the store have died from what had been diagnosed as pneumonia. A number of others have become ill and their cases are under observation by the City Health department.

Efforts are being made, according to Dr. Marks, to trace all sales of birds which had at any time come into contact with the suspected shipment. This shipment, Dr. Badger was told, went in its entirety to one shop, but records were not kept of cash sales and it is impossible to trace every bird.

Both Dr. Moyer and Dr. Marks refused to divulge the name of the shop which received the shipment, or the name of the shipper in Inglewood, Cal.

NO QUARANTINE

Dr. Badger declared he did not believe the situation here serious enough to order a quarantine on all birds of the psittacine family, in private homes, nor did he think it necessary to issue a public warning to recent purchasers of birds.

He emphasized the rarity of infection from an afflicted person. He said:

"It has happened, but it is a very rare occasion that a person can contract the disease by contact with another person."

Another death which occurred yesterday, and of which it is strongly suspected that parrot fever was the cause, according to Dr. Moyer, is being investigated by a board of physicians, he declared.

Dr. Moyer declined to reveal the identity of the latest victim, declaring he wished to consult with Dr. Badger today before making any positive decision as to the cause of death. He indicated the source of the infection in this case was a shop not heretofore mentioned and to all questions he replied:

"Not now. I'll discuss that later."

A check of records in the Bureau of Vital Statistics reveals that 14 deaths of store employes have been attributed to pneumonia since February 1.

SYMPTOMS SIMILAR

Psittacosis, it was pointed out, has symptoms similar to those of pneumonia. It was said that of the 14 deaths of store employes attributed to pneumonia, four of them were strongly suspected as being from parrot fever. Histories of the remaining 10 cases, it was declared, showed the victims might have come into contact with birds or persons believed afflicted with the parrot disease.

Fears that the dread malady has broken out here were first expressed in a confidential communication from the city Department of Public Health to the Allegheny County Medical Society subsequent to March 5, when first signs of the possible prevalence of the malady were found.

SHIPMENTS STUDIED

Irregularities in the shipment of birds suspected of bringing the disease to Pittsburgh from California were laid before the Federal Public Health Service by Dr. Moyer yesterday, he revealed in a statement.

No positive evidence that the disease was brought in by that particular shipment has been found, however, although two birds out of 130 in the lot were dead upon arrival here. The dead birds were shipped to Washington for tests, Dr. Moyer's statement reveals, but no reliable examination was possible because they had been dead too long.

Another bird taken from a shop which had some of the California parrakeets, the statement says, was sent to Washington and tests made at the National Institute of Health showed the bird to have been infected.

An order went out late yesterday from the City Bureau of Infectious Diseases to all bird dealers in the city. An absolute quarantine was ordered. The order, signed by Dr. Philip E. Marks, follows:

"The Department of Public Health has been advised that psitticosis (parrot fever) exists among birds of the psittacine family in Pittsburgh. Because of the possibility of transmitting this infection to human beings, you are hereby ordered and directed to place under absolute quarantine all parrots, parrakeets, macaws and other birds of the psittacine family.

"This order is made by the authority of the Director of the Department of Public Health, City of Pittsburgh, and is effective at once."

Hoover Presents Photograph to Policeman

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS.)—Two years ago Park Policeman Bertram E. Snodgrass was one of the guards assigned to the White House.

Herbert Hoover, then President, met him on one occasion and promised him an autographed photograph.

Today Snodgrass was exhibiting a fine likeness of the former President, autographed "Herbert C. Hoover," Snodgrass said:

HOW TO AVOID PARROT FEVER

Cleanliness, the City Department of Health announced today, is the best preventative against psittacosis.

Dr. Ray P. Moyer, City Health Director, gives this advice:

A United States Public Health Service report, dated June 20, 1930, defines the symptoms of psittacosis as being similar to those of pneumonia and influenza.

"Rather sudden onset of chills and fever; severe headache; loss of appetite; coated tongue and constipation; unproductive cough, suggesting pneumonia, with fever reaching 103 to 104 degrees."

Symptoms in parrots are given as follows:

MERGERS URGED TO CUT CITY OUTLAYS

(The efforts of Richard M. Russell of Cambridge, Mass., to modernize the city government there, are reviewed in the following article. This is one of a series being published by the Sun-Telegraph in its campaign to reduce taxes by eliminating waste and duplication in governmental functions.)

A plan or reorganization of the city government in Cambridge, Mass., which is being pushed by Mayor Richard M. Russell, is being watched closely by economists and public officials throughout the eastern part of the county. Under this drastic plan of reorganization, some 35 of the 40 odd city departments would be grouped to form five divisions of public service.

Mayor Russell would create a Division of Finance and the director of this division would have charge of the auditor's department, the controller's department, the city treasury, the tax collection department, the purchasing department and the budget examiner.

BUREAUS MERGED

A new division of public works would include the city engineer, the street department, the water department, the sewer department, the bridge department, the park department, the cemetery department and the building department.

Under the division of safety would be grouped the police department, the fire department, the electrical department, the weights and measures, the building inspection department and the license board.

A division of welfare would include the health officers; city physician; the board of health, hospitals, welfare board, soldiers' relief and employment.

A school committee, elected by the people, but working with the mayor, would direct the division of education which would include the schools, libraries and recreation.

In urging adoption of the plan in its entirety, Mayor Russell has pointed out that from 1920 to 1930 the population of Cambridge increased only 3.6 per cent while the tax rate increased 14 per cent and city expenses 74 per cent. The reorganization plan was adopted by Thomas L. Hinckley, prominent educator and expert on municipal affairs.

BIG SAVING SEEN

Mayor Russell states that enactment of the plan would result in immediate saving and at the same time give the citizens more efficient municipal service. He points out there would be a saving of approximately $150,000 a year by a central purchasing department and the elimination of overlapping administrations would result in an additional saving of $50,000 and better planning in distribution of labor and equipment within divisions would result in immediate savings of $150,000.

Mayor Russell said that while the savings of the first year would be approximately $500,000, it is likely that with the retirement of employes eligible for pension and reduction in welfare costs, the savings would total $2,000,000 and make possible a tax rate for Cambridge which would be one of the lowest for any city of similar size in the state.

Watkins to Give New Deal Inventory

'Little Fellow' Faces Growing Tax Burden, Congresswoman Declares

Nation Incurring Tremendous Deficit

Cites Advantages To Rich Under Income Levy

With the deadline for filing returns expiring last midnight, income tax payers are wondering what the future holds in store for them. In the accompanying article a woman member of Congress analyzes the probable future course of taxation.

By Rep. FLORENCE KAHN

Written Expressly for International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Income-taxpaying time ought to be the signal to doff your hat to the average American who walks up to the window and pays Uncle Sam without quibbling.

The man with a small income, particularly the salaried man, has to pay. He doesn't have widespread interests which can be juggled so that he can take exemptions and avoid paying tax.

And it is probable that unless some relief is given he will be paying a great deal more in the next few years. The nation is incurring a tremendous deficit in meeting present-day problems. The President estimates the deficit at more than seven billion dollars for the year ending June 30 and probably two billion dollars the next year.

SEE TAX GROWTH

The country is living on borrowed money, and Uncle Sam can't do that forever any more than the individual can. There's always a day of reckoning.

It seems inevitable that heavy taxation is going to be the lot of Americans in the next few years. Some students believe that it is even possible that the middle class will be paying taxes similar to those paid in England. A man with a $2,000 income may find himself paying $400 to $500 a year income tax.

The very wealthy man has a great advantage under the income tax. First, his varied business interests make possible a shifting of the tax. And the government hasn't yet devised any law that a clever lawyer cannot find loopholes in.

Or the very wealthy man can—and does—put money into tax-exempt bonds. A man with a million dollars can afford to take a very low rate of interest to escape taxes. But the man with a few thousands is looking for 6 per cent.

The inequities I have seen and learned of in talking to income tax examiners almost leads one to question the whole income tax system. At least to ask whether it can be made just to all classes.

YIELD ANALYZED

The city dwellers are paying the taxes, and will continue to do so. The processing taxes now being levied to pay hundreds of millions to farmers come out of the pockets of city consumers. The money paid farmers for marginal lands also comes out of the pockets of the city taxpayer and very little of it finds its way back into his pocket.

CONGRESSWOMAN KAHN

The average city consumer is paying a tax on all necessities of life. The money goes to people who have been largely in the non-taxpaying class. And this in itself makes for a greater burden for the city consumer.

There is very little in our huge expenditures for the city consumers. The soldiers bonus payment probably would put more money into the hands of city consumers than anything else. Most of the other benefits are transitory.

Because the papers are filled with news of income-taxpaying, many people think it is the only important federal tax. During 1933, however, the income tax yielded only $746,206,444 out of the total of $2,079,696,741 collected by the government. One of the chief reasons, of course, is the investments of the wealthy in tax-exempt bonds.

The average man pays income tax, processing tax and many excise taxes and then has to meet local taxation. It is just about time some thought and some consideration is given to the "forgotten man"—the small, honest taxpayer.

Chicago Lecturer To Give Chalk Talk

The lecture will be sponsored by the Department of Fine Arts of Carnegie Institute.

City Hall Ripped To Release Frog

HOQUIAM, Wash.—Because the ghostly croaking of an entombed frog in the foundation of Hoquiam's City Hall unnerves the city clerk and her staff, orders were issued to liberate the creature even if it is necessary to remove a section of the building.

The frog was believed to be living within the brick and concrete walls, but when the bricks were removed the dismal croaking continued, apparently from inside the concrete. It is believed the frog was trapped in the wall when the building was being constructed, six years ago.

SEEK TAX PEACE IN W. VA.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 16.—(AP)—Deadlocked over the bitterly-disputed $10,000,000 revenue program, state officials today looked forward to the appointment of a conference committee to consider a compromise.

The House yesterday refused to accept the Senate's program as passed Wednesday and the Senate turned down Gov. Kump's plan as approved by the House.

The Senate then formally requested a conference, but the House appeared to be digging in for a long wait after a lengthy fight yesterday.

The House plan calls for a 2 per cent consumers' sales tax; the Senate's for 3 per cent. The House bill contains a 20 per cent luxury tax; the Senate's none. The House proposal provides for a 60 per cent increase in utility taxes; the Senate's 20 per cent.

A motion to kill the Senate program outright in the House failed yesterday after Delegate Holt, of Lewis County, asserted:

Objections to Smoker Causes Name Change

NEW YORK.—(INS.)—Freshman women at the New York University School of Commerce may smoke but their male classmates say they cannot have "smokers." The co-eds, it was revealed at the university, decided to imitate their freshman brothers and hold what would have been the first annual female "smoker." But after the boys charged them with plagiarism of a purely masculine event, they changed the name of the affair to "hen party."

WARNS GROCERS ON RELIEF; PRICES SET

Warning to grocers who assert they are supplied with Federal surplus food was issued by George P. Mills, of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, today.

Should the practice continue, definite action will be taken against the advertisers, Mills said. He termed such announcements "a direct infringement on the agreement entered into with the State by these grocers," and condemned the practice as being aimed solely at sale of goods on regular relief orders.

The following prices, applicable only in the filling of relief orders, were set for the week March 19-24 by the Fair Price Committee, representing the Retail Grocers Association of Western Pennsylvania, wholesalers and chain stores in co-operation with the relief board:

TWO BOYS, MAN HURT BY AUTOS

Monroe Cleveland, 33, of 2023 Center avenue, was in Mercy Hospital today with injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by Walter H. Lippold, 33, of 1848 Morningside avenue, at Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue, last night.

James Kalp, Jr., 6, of 4919 Center avenue, was in Homeopathic Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull suffered when he was struck by a truck near his home last night.

George Durham, 6, of 2 Cassatt street, was in Mercy Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull suffered when he ran in front of an automobile driven by Elizabeth Graf, of 232 Balph avenue, Bellevue, in Bigelow boulevard near the Seventeenth Street Incline late yesterday, according to police.

Cuban Riot Scenes Guarded by Troops

SANTIAGO, Cuba, March 16.—(AP.)—The military again took control of the city today, closing cafes and shops and ordering people from the streets because of a bombing epidemic last night. Thirteen of them exploded in various sections of the city, most of them destroying show windows in stores.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well as Men

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

DISABLED VETS EAGER TO AID LEAGUE FOES

Disabled veterans of the World War, many of whom are still suffering from wounds incurred upon European soil, were responding with enthusiasm today as the appeal of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers for 1,000,000 signatures to a petition protesting against this country's entrance in the League of Nations or the World Court.

They are patients at the United States Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall and it required no flare of oratory to urge them to lift their voices in a protest against becoming involved in European entanglements.

EAGER TO SIGN

Leaders requesting blank petitions declared the patients in the hospital would sign without exception. Voluntary signatures of patients at the hospital to petitions clipped from the Sun-Telegraph now number nearly 200.

Every mail today carried scores upon scores of signed petitions. In almost every instance there was evidence of neighborhood solicitation. From Blacksville, West Virginia, Rex Martin, an ex-Marine with service in the World War, Haiti and Santo Domingo, sent in a petition containing nine names, all members of his family.

Another group of names came from the Fort Pitt Garrison, No. 91, Army and Navy Union. The entire membership signed the petition.

PETITIONS AVAILABLE

A copy of the petition is published in adjoining columns. Blank petitions are available at the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, the downtown branch office at Fifth avenue and Market street, or they may be obtained by writing or telephoning the League Court Editor Sun-Telegraph.

Get blank petitions at once. Sign them. Ask your friends to sign them and see that they are forwarded at once to the League Court Editor.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME _____ ADDRESS _____

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

DELAY FOR CAMP SITES AT DAM

Leasing of camp sites along the Pymatuning Reservoir in Crawford County will be deferred at least a year, it was announced today by Lewis E. Staley, secretary of the State Department of Forests and Waters.

Flooding of the 16-mile-long basin began January 23, and, according to Staley, it would be inadvisable to open the surrounding territory for recreation purposes until the lake is filled.

While the dammed waters are spreading over a 16,400-acre area, plans for development of playspots along its shores will be mapped by the Department of Forest and Waters. Islands in the lake will not be leased, nor will a section bordering it which will be set aside as a wild life sanctuary.

When completely flooded, the Pymatuming Reservoir will be the largest artificial lake in Pennsylvania. Its capacity will be 64 billion gallons.

LEAGUE SCORED BY BLACKSTONE

From the time the Peace Palace at the Hague was built and endowed with millions of dollars, there has been insidious propaganda in America against the principles of American freedom and independence, Col. Franklin Blackstone, veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars and past president of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution said over WCAE last night. He continued:

"The attack was intended to weaken belief in and adherence to the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Prominent in it was the weapon of ridicule; on the maxim that to ridicule an honest belief was to destroy it."

Col. Blackstone gave nine very good reasons for opposing the entry of the United States into the League of Nations and the World Court. He said:

"Joining the League would involve our government in the turmoil of European politics with its attendant intrigues, dangers and responsibilities at an expense of millions of dollars that can be better used at home. In 50 years our American diplomats have not won a significant diplomatic combat. We sink real ships while the other fellow puts his blue prints in the safe and burns duplicates.

"The League has failed signally in every one of its major undertakings, particularly on disarmament. American armaments are less than those of Poland, a country not as big as Pennsylvania. The League demonstrated its impotency in the case of China and Japan.

"In one of its councils, we would have one voice and one vote, whereas the British Empire alone would have eight representatives from its various dominions, each one having a voice equal to our 48-states nation in the deliberations of the League.

"Membership in the League would place America at the mercy of a council composed of representatives of nations, several of whom already have secret alliances and who are already financially antagonistic to us by reason of the unpaid debts they owe us. So long as Uncle Sam is libeled as 'Uncle Shylock' by our debtors and their paid propagandists, no sane American should favor our entry into the League of Nations or the World Court."

Ruling Ends Stowe Election Mixup

Alexander Saunders today became commissioner for the Eighth Ward of Stowe Township, on an order made by Judge W. Heber Dithrich, in Quarter Sessions Court.

The election board certified Patrick Haney as the winner by three votes. Saunders filed a petition asking to be credited with votes cast for him both as Alexander Saunders and Alex Saunders, which gave him the election by 77 votes when the court upheld him.

RANKIN VOTER LIST PRUNED

The registration book of the Second District of Rankin, in which Leo Riordan, county investigator, had charged there were phantom names, came back to the County Bureau of Elections yesterday less 102 names, it was reported.

Riordan had charged the book contained names of non-residents, children and persons registered from vacant houses, and threatened court action unless they were removed. He reported he had instructed Charles Huck, registry assessor of the district, to remove all unqualified voters from the book.

Following completion of registration outside the cities yesterday, most of the books were turned in to the bureau last night. Figures showing the trend of political affiliation in the county will not be available for several days.

However, in Turtle Creek the Democrats gained 100 and the Republicans lost 42 registrations, it was noted.

Hornets and Whip Proposed for Doukhobors

VICTORIA, British Columbia, March 16.—(AP.)—Hornets and blacksnake whips are C. S. Leary's solution for what he regards as the Doukhobor menace. Leary, Liberal member of the Provincial Legislature, denounced the Doukhobors, a religious sect which has embarrassed authorities by parading parading naked. He declared:

"They neither vote, fight, nor obey the law. The time has come when a showdown should be called for."

Sunday Services To End Bible Meet

Special services Sunday will bring to a close the fortieth annual missionary convention and Bible conference of the Christian and Missionary Alliance of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania, which opened last Sunday in the North Side Carnegie Music Hall.

The morning sermon will be preached by the Rev. H. M. Shuman, president of the alliance. Afternoon speakers will be Mrs. R. O. Stull, Mrs. D. C. Rupp and the Rev. James A. Poole, missionaries. Speakers in the evening will be the Rev. H. H. Hazlett, the Rev. Mr. Poole and Evangelist W. G. Weston.

WIFE CHIEF HEIR OF DONALDSON

John A. Donaldson, manufacturer and former vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, who died recently at his home in Ben Avon, left an estate valued at $150,000, by his will probated yesterday.

After giving his wife personal property and automobiles, he left her half of the remainder of the estate and left the other half in trust. She is to receive half of the income from the trust fund for life. At her death the principal of that part of the trust fund is to go to John Donaldson Russell, Mary Russell Hapgood and Elizabeth Sample Russell in equal shares.

Mr. Donladson porvided that his sisters, Jane and Margaret Donaldson, receive the income from half of the trust during their life time, this share to be distributed at their death to nieces and nephews who survive them. Mrs. Donaldson and William E. Barrow, of Franklin, are the executors.

LAUNCH STUDY OF PRISONERS

A new social service department under direction of Alfred Golden, former field worker of the Jewish Big Brothers' Club, has been instituted at the Allegheny County Workhouse by Supt. Robert Braun.

The new department will record the social and mental background of every man entering the institution, and the record of each will be studied.

The unit is in line with progressive penological measures taken by Supt. Braun. In the past no records of prisoners had been taken, except commitment papers. With no knowledge of a man's background, Braun reported, he had difficulty in parole recommendations and in understanding individual problems of prisoners.

M'NAIR BOOED AT BOYD FETE

Capt. Frank R. Boyd, the demoted detective inspector, has another gold watch today—the gift of the 600 friends who feted him and booed down a representative of Mayor McNair at a dinner in the detective's honor in the Elks' Club last night.

Although the speakers' table was sprinkled well with the politically prominent of the city and county, neither Mayor McNair nor his slated representative, J. C. Davis, appeared. In their place came William B. Foster, a single taxer, and member of the City Assessors' Board.

Foster lauded Boyd as a foe of the rackets, but added that the Mayor, with his single tax cure-all, was after the landlord "racket," a racket he described as the "biggest racket of them all."

The booing began when Foster lauded the Mayor as "the fairest and squarest man I know," and it became so intense that the single taxer was forced to retire.

Boyd's record as a detective was praised in turn by former Mayor John S. Herron (who received a good round of applause), Police Supt. Ben E. Marshall, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Judge Elder W. Marshall, Father James R. Cox, the Rev. George W. Shelton, Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell was toastmaster.

Attorney Louis Little presented the captain with a watch. He was given a duck by Joe Penner, who headed the floor show that followed the speaking program.

DUCK FOR ONE: A FAST PLAY AT A BANQUET, JOE PENNER TO CAPTAIN FRANK R. BOYD

FATAL STABBING ENDS FIGHT

Ollie Barron, 42, a Negro, was stabbed to death last night in a fight with another Negro in his home, 1721 Arcena street, according to a police report.

He was stabbed in the neck after, police said, he slashed George Gray, 33, of Latrobe, who was visiting him.

Georgia Fuller, 29, a Negro, who lives at the Arcena street address, was cut on the back, but was unable to tell police which of the two men inflicted the wound. Gray was lodged in the Center Avenue Police Station on a murder charge.

Gun Suicide Found Seated in Chair

George Flannigan, 34, of 6942 Edgerton avenue, shot and fatally wounded himself with a rifle in the basement of his home last night, according to a coroner's report.

Police said relatives, attracted by the shot, found Flannigan seated in a chair with a bullet wound in his breast. He died two hours later in the Pittsburgh Hospital.

NEWS DRAMA -:- Phil Baker, Dragonette -:- ON RADIO

Sea Tragedy Dramatized Tonight

Capsizing of the Japanese warship Tomotsuru; Mrs. Roosevelt's flying trip to the West Indies, and significant happenings of the week in Washington will be dramatized over WJAS tonight at 8:30, during the March of Time.

Other events which may be re-created include the canonization of Louise de Marillac, and discovery of ambergris off the California coast.

* * *

Phil Baker's program on KDKA tonight at 9:30 will be in the nature of a celebration. The jester completes his first year with his present sponsors.

* * *

Jessica Dragonette sings "Would God I Were a Tender Apple Blossom" and "Songs My Mother Taught Me," during her recital with Rosario Bourdon's orchestra tonight at 8, over WCAE.

* * *

Mr. Lehman

* * *

George Gershwin plays "Fascinating Rhythm" and "Limehouse Blues" during his weekly broadcast over KDKA this evening at 7:30.

* * *

* * *

The Friday Revue, described as a "proving ground for young radio talent," heard over KDKA this afternoon at 2, features Cyrilla Tuite, Ted Yearsley, Sally Nelson and Sammy Fuller, four veteran radio stars.

* * *

The Kelly-Over violin duo returns to KQV at 8:30 p. m. for a second program.

* * *

"Peter Ibbetson," in full length, is broadcast over both WCAE and KDKA Saturday afternoon at 1:50 by the Metropolitan Opera Company.

* * *

Robert L. "Believe It or Not" Ripley circles the globe in a shortwave broadcast over W2XAD and W2XAF, Schenectady, this evening from 6 to 7 o'clock.

A dozen languages will be heard during the broadcast, and "Believe It or Nots" about even more countries will be aired by the Sun-Telegraph cartoonist.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Some few days ago I asked the name of the first person to receive his compensation check from the State of Pennsylvania. Of course, no one has at this writing received the check, but many had ideas already what they were going to do with their money.

Many letters were received, and each writer stated that some of his bills were going to be paid off. Others were going to buy something that the wife has been hinting for. A big majority are going to use a part of the money to celebrate, to "blow off" as one puts it.

He said he and his wife had watched each nickel for so long that no matter how much of the money was needed for necessities, some of it was going to be spent for a swell dinner out (no dishes to wash afterward), a movie show, and a place to hear some music to see if the feet would still move to rhythm.

* * *

Miss Vivian—I don't think now that now is a propitious time to apply for work as a stewardess on an air liner. There are many girls on waiting lists, quite a few of them experienced.

I don't know of any firm who is hiring, but in so far as the qualifications that companies demand of their stewardesses I would write to the superintendent of personnel of one of the big companies.

There are offices in Pittsburgh.

* * *

"He plays so beautifully, he must be wonderful," she writes.

Say, Nell, if you are an ardent listener of mine I'd like to know what you call the kind of listening his music gets.

The globe trotting mayor from Johnstown, Eddie McCloskey, was in town yesterday. He had just heard from Eddie Loughrey, whom he had met in the ring 20 years ago. Loughrey was offering best wishes and support to Mayor McCloskey.

The "fighting mayor" philosophizes:

"Everybody I fought in the ring must have licked me, else they wouldn't be so enthusiastically for me now. What kind of a fighter was I, anyway?"

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

Mickel Bell makes a guest appearance with Fran Eichler's band during the 6:15 to 6:45 program. She offers the new hit "I Just Couldn't Take It Baby."

Rudy Vallee Disagrees With NBC

By AIRCASTER

Unless some kindly mediator steps in promptly and sooths down their ruffled feathers, Rudy Vallee and the National Broadcasting Company are in for a feud that already has resulted in the cancellation of the Vallee dance band schedule on sustaining spots on the WCAE network.

It seems it all happened over a song. One night last week, Rudy included a ditty from "Wonder Bar" in his sustaining show booked for midnight.

An announcer informed Rudy that the song had not been "cleared" with the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers. Rudy replied that he would not go on unless the song was included.

STOKOWSKI OFF

Leopold Stokowski, as has been reported, and the Philadelphia orchestra, are off the air for their cigaret client, who is going in for a lighter type of broadcast, with entertainment beginning on WJAS April 2.

The new band will be that of Andre Kostelenetz, with 40 pieces, 23 of them strings.

Rosa Ponselle, signed for her first steady series, will sing on Mondays; Nino Martini, on Wednesdays, and Grete Stueckgold, on Saturdays.

The music will all be popular. Arthur Godfrey, discovered by Walter Winchell, will be master of ceremonies.

JACKFISH LEAP ACROSS ROAD

EDMONTON Alta., March 16.—(AP.)—Why does a fish cross the road? That question, usually applied to chickens, is finding an answer in the Cold Lake district.

Flood waters of Stoney Creek washed gaping holes in Cold Like highway. Jackfish, stranded in the pools, have been jumping across the road trying to get back into the creek.

Boys with rifles, wire snares and poles are bagging the fish along the highway.

FRANCE DROPS PLANS FOR STARTING 'PREVENTIVE' WAR

GERMANY TOO POWERFUL TO ASSURE VICTORY BY QUICK ATTACK

Editor's Note: France will not incite a "preventive war," H. R. Knickerbocker writes from Paris in the twenty-ninth article of his series, "Will War Come?"

Many in France believe France should make war now, but cannot because French public opinion does not realize the German menace, Knickerbocker writes.

"War will come," he says, "when the point is reached when France has to say 'no' but then France will be at as much a disadvantage as Germany is today."

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, March 16.—There will be no "preventive war," France will not incite a war she thinks she can win today against Germany in order to prevent a war she thinks she can not win tomorrow.

This is the most important statement on the side of peace that may be flatly hazarded toward the end of a tour that has led through all the countries allied with France, and to the French capital itself.

Reasons why such a prophecy may be hazarded, with full knowledge of the risk of prophecy, are:

1—The profoundly peaceful sentiment of the French people today.

2—The French fortifications.

3—The Polish-German non-aggression pact.

4—The uncertain stand of Italy.

5—The certain stand of England against such a war.

6—The progress Germany has already made toward rearmament.

The French desire for peace is something different from that of other peoples. A French Socialist professor told me: "Rather a German governor in Paris than a war!"

Hatred of War Dominates French

That is hatred of war, radical, uncompromising. But it is not the spirit of France. Every other Frenchman to whom this statement has been quoted has exclaimed: "He stands alone. You could not find a thousand men in France to support that standpoint."

On the other extreme stood a prominent French publicist who exclaimed: "Preventive war! Impossible! I regret, deeply regret, to have to say it, but it is out of the question."

In the middle, representative of the small class of informed French opinion, stood a government representative who declared: "We know that Germany is re-arming. We know her potentiality of war is greater than ours. We know that if she converts her potentiality into real armaments she will before very long be militarily superior to us. And we also know that when she does become superior or believes she is superior, she will then increase her demands upon us.

"We know too that the time is bound to come when these demands will be too much to grant. There will be a place where France will have to say 'No!' At that point the war will begin, and if it begins under these circumstances it means that the war will take place with France at as much disadvantage as Germany is today.

"So logically we ought to make war now. But we cannot. Because the French people as a whole have not the faintest idea of what the German menace means. American and British public opinion has been much better informed through their newspapers than French public opinion. In a vague way, in the back of their minds, the French masses are aware that a greater, stronger Germany is growing up on the other side of the Rhine, and they have waves of uneasiness, but they are not yet frightened enough to abandon their belief in letting tomorrow's troubles be settled tomorrow."

This interpretation of the attitude of the French masses is universal. They believe too that their fortifications are sufficient to protect them. Yet an outside observer, a neutral, has observed that perhaps the historian of 100 years from now will remark that the decline of France dated from the building of that steel wall on its eastern and northern frontiers. Because the wall has made it impossible for the French soldier to contemplate going beyond the wall. It has made the French army permanently defensive.

Has it made the air force strictly defensive? The best authority for an answer to that question is Gen. Joseph Denain, the first professional military man to be minister of air.

Gen. Denain occupies brand new quarters in the brand new air ministry away out on the Avenue Victor. More than a city block is covered by the complex of buildings housing the school of military aeronautics, the museum of aeronautics, and the ministry. They are the most modern buildings in Paris, straight-lined, reminiscent of German architecture.

Gen. Denain, in civilian clothes, is tall, dark, swarthy, polite but reserved. He listened to an account of the fears that had been expressed in Germany that the French air fleet might some day put a practical end to the disarmament debate by flying over Germany and, after giving warning to the inhabitants to remove themselves, bombing out of existence the German munitions factories and airplane factories and bases which the French regard as illegal under the Versailles Treaty.

Air Fleet Built To Defend France

"That," he remarked, "sounds like a bad joke. I cannot imagine that any serious German could have contemplated such a possibility. Certainly a great and and proud country like Germany could only respond to such an action by making war. We do not want war.

"The French air fleet is there to defend France, to attack no one. We are trying now to improve it. In the process of reorganization we consider quality much more important than quantity. Not more airplanes, but better ones is our goal."

The General refused to express his opinion of the probable stage German rearmament has reached in the air, but did permit himself to remark:

"The more airplanes Great Britain builds the better we like it. And, if I may say so, I should think that the more and better airplanes we build the better Great Britain ought to like it. I heartily agree with the campaign Lord Rothermere is waging for the improvement of the British air fleet. Our interests in this respect are common."

I asked the General if he believed that in the next war there would be a tacit agreement not to bombard each other's cities, or would the enemy air fleets strike at the capitals to crush civilian morale, and thus fulfill all the horrors promised for the war in the future.

He replied:

"The French air fleet is not there to attack civilians, but if we are attacked we shall reply in kind."

As a matter of fact French defense strategy takes a German air attack on Paris for granted. Every important French munitions work, or work capable of being converted into munitions manufacturing, near Paris, has been compelled by the government to establish parallel plants far south of Paris, so that in the event of disablement of the Paris plants through bombardment, work could be resumed within 48 hours in the southern plants. It is also known that the government has completed plans for removing the government from Paris to a point in the interior the moment war started.

Defection of Poland Blow to Program

Gen. Denain took over the French air service at a time when it was notorious that its material was largely obsolescent. His three-year plan contemplates almost complete renewal of existing equipment: installation of heavy oil motors; supercharged engines, variable pitch propellers, folding landing gear. It will cost around $80,000,000 yearly.

"It is intended," he declared, "to make the French air fleet capable of repelling any possible attack. We shall make no aggression, but permit none against us."

In any case even if the French had wanted to make a preventive war, the defection of Poland reduced the chances for it to the vanishing point. For it may be that Poland would still help France if Germany attacked France, but Poland could scarcely now help France attack Germany. Furthermore, the Italian attitude toward France will not be completely friendly until and unless the Nazis take Austria. The British are morally and selfishly indisposed to make a preventive war for the sake of France. Finally, all sides have recognized that Germany after a year of Hitler is much tougher meat than she was a year ago and that any attempt to take "sanctions" against her would mean an adult conflict.

(Gen. Denain's observations support the conclusion that most observers have reached, that the next developments in Europe may very well be a free hand to Germany plus strong armament upward in France and England. In other words, not war, but the preparations for it.)

Tomorrow—"We do not want war but if it comes we are prepared," French Foreign Minister Barthou tells Knickerbocker.

POLITICS

Baldwin to Fore as G. O. P. Compromise

By MARK SHIELDS

Republican organization leaders, dismayed at the passage of time toward the last day for filing petitions, are reported to be seeking compromise on a gubernatorial candidate heretofore unmentioned in pre-primary gossip.

Mr. Shields

The man is Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin, according to information from Philadelphia, where the clans have gathered the last few days. That is, the clans which do not include representatives of the Allegheny County regulars.

Apparently they are either looked upon as docile gentlemen and ladies who will go along on anything handed to them, or have placed their all in the hands of State Chairman Edward Martin with permission to turn them any way he wishes.

Paul Houck of Schuykill, Senator Harry Bell of Fayette, and other regulars from political territory much less fertile than Pittsburgh, have been consulted, according to a roster of the various pow-wows. But County Chairman William H. Coleman of Allegeheny, Senator James J. Coyne, recognized here by the State Committee as leader, and some others, have not been to Philadelphia unless they are adepts at concealment.

This affront to home town pride must be resented.

* * *

Baldwin Bitter Foe of Pinchot

To get back to Mr. Baldwin, better known to veterans in politics as Senator Baldwin because of his long service in the Senate before election as auditor general, his name is being thrust prominently forward by the same groups whose first real desire is Gen. Edward Martin. They are after that for Mr. Baldwin.

Their argument is that he is entirely "safe and sane," an organization wheelhorse, a bitter foe of things as they are under Gov. Pinchot. He is a forceful character in party councils, a hard and uncompromising fighter.

Coming from Potter County, in the northern tier, he would not bear the big city stamp when appealing to rural voters, among whom the Republicans feel they must make something of an old-time sweep if they are to be ascured success next November.

Those are the organization points in favor of Mr. Baldwin. The regulars know him and would be dealing in no uncertain quantity. If he should be a candidate it will be time enough to discuss what may be considered the points against him.

Dr. Sickman Gains Support for Congress

In the Washington-Greene County congressional district the organization is planning to back Dr. A. S. Sickman, of Charleroi, for the Republican nomination. He was a candidate in the primary two years ago against Dr. Henry W. Temple, who won that fight, but was defeated in the general election by Congressman Charles I. Faddis, of Waynesburg, again to be backed by the Democrats.

The Republican organization backed Dr. Temple in 1932, but the same leaders who were for him then are switching to Dr. Sickman. The latter was popular with soldiers, and in the face of the opposition presented made a surprisingly strong fight two years ago.

Philip Dewey, Secretary of Internal Affairs, is not viewed with enthusiasm by the Republican organization as a candidate this year, though he has declared himself for re-election. Dewey was elected four years ago when the Vare organization in Philadelphia, wishing to get some rural tone to its own gubernatorial candidate, Francis Shunk Brown, sidetracked the late James M. Woodward, of McKeesport, who had held the office for 12 years.

Senator Harry B. Scott, of Centre County, is favored by some, though a growing belief that Senator Scott can be re-elected to the Senate may change the plan to push him for the state-wide place. County Commissioner Harvey Taylor, of Dauphin County, also has petitions out, and is being favorably mentioned by some of the highest leaders in state committee ranks.

Merle E. Coover, of Carlisle, is another who would like this comparatively soft governmental job. He may be linked up with an independent group, being attached to the legal bureau of the State Highway Department, which is Pinchot-operated.

Nothing will be done about this place until the organization finishes stumbling about on the governorship. In the parlance of the prize ring, the internal affairs candidates are just preliminary boys.

At the Bar Association hearing yesterday afternoon about the political activity of judges off the bench, their participation in campaigns, I was impressed by a strange lack of knowledge of human nature on the part of two judges, both members of County Court.

* * *

Tale of Two Judges And Human Nature

They were Judges Benjamin Lencher and Frank A. Piekarski, both named by Gov. Pinchot and subsequently elected. They were asked:

"The present Governor has announced his candidacy for U. S. Senator; do you propose to take an active part in his campaign? Does he expect you to do so?"

Both jurists answered "No" to the coupled inquiries. Commenting only on the response to the last part—the first is with the judges themselves and in language to which a profane expletive is almost imperative interpretation may I interject:

"The hell he doesn't!"

M'NAIR'S PLAN FOR FREE PORT IGNORED

U. S. Engineer Chief Fails to Comment On Idea

Mayor McNair's "make Pittsburgh a free port" idea was still just an idea today as Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of United States Army engineers, prepared to return to Washington.

Last night, at the Propeller Club of Pittsburgh's fifth annual banquet in the William Penn Hotel, Gen. Markham failed to comment on Pittsburgh as a free port, although Mayor McNair made a personal plea for this "improvement."

RIVER COMEBACK

Speaking first, Gen. Markham had time to predict that Pittsburgh is due to make a comeback as a river town. He will give his personal attention to the Lake Erie-Ohio River canal project after he receives a report on it in May.

Recalling that he has already favorably reported the "short" Beaver and Mahoning rivers canal to Struthers, proposed Youngstown River port, to Congress, he commented:

"I hear that some of the railroad men fear that the waterways will take their tonnage and reduce their income. That's what someone calls 'nerts.'

"If the railroads want the business, why do they raise the rate from the river to Youngstown from 77 to 90 cents? That rate increase removed all our doubts about the canal to Youngstown. Our recommendation to Congress was not only favorable, but enthusiastically favorable."

M'NAIR LATE

Mayor McNair, arriving an hour late, because "it took Jim Malone almost two hours to introduce me at another affair," launched at once into his free port sales talk. He said:

"If this good Republican town went to Washington and asked President Roosevelt for a free port, if he didn't faint first, he would give it to us."

And he cited Hamburg, Germany, as a city that became great because it has been a free port.

A. J. P. Vandermyn, the club president, and Arthur M. Tode, National Propeller Club president, voiced their confidence in the Corps of Engineers and urged that the administration place all PWA projects in their hands.

Peggy's Ex-Husband Sued for $125,000

MIAMI, Fla., March 16.—(AP.)—Damages of $125,000 are asked in a suit filed in Circuit Court here yesterday against James Stanley Joyce, Chicago lumberman and one-time husband of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, by Capt. and Mrs. O. M. Goodsell, of Miami, for injuries suffered by Mrs. Goodsell in an automobile accident here in April, 1933.

The accident occurred while Mrs. Goodsell allegedly was riding as a guest in Joyce's car.

P.R.R. SPENDING $9,000,000 ON PROJECTS

Improvement Program Made Possible by PWA Financing

Orders totaling $9,000,000 have been placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad since beginning its extensive improvement program, made possible by PWA financing, a month ago, it was announced today.

Simultaneously came the announcement of orders totaling $1,500,000 for lumber, steel and malleable castings for the construction of 7,000 freight cars, a part of the railroad's government-financed project.

Hundreds of furloughed railroaders have returned to regular duty, officials said, voicing expectations that thousands would return with the summer business peak.

American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Mahwah, N. J.; American Steel Foundries, Chicago and Indiana Harbor, Ind.; Birdsboro Steel Foundry and Machine Company, Birdsboro, Pa.; Buckeye Steel Casting Company, Columbus, O.; Cardwell Westinghouse Company, Pittsburgh and Chicago; Duquesne Steel Foundries, Pittsburgh; Edgewater Steel Company, Pittsburgh; Gould Coupler Company, Depew, N. Y.; W. H. Miner, Chicago; National Malleable and Steel Casting Company, Cleveland; McConway & Torley Co., Pittsburgh; Pittsburgh Steel Foundry, Pittsburgh; Pressed Steel Car Company, McKees Rocks; Scullin Steel Company, St. Louis; Union Steel Casting Company, Pittsburgh, and Waugh Equipment Company, Depew, N. Y.

PATRON CHASES ARMED THUG

Becoming excited when a patron in a restaurant at 3519 Butler street last night disregarded his order to "keep your seat," a youthful bandit fired a shot at the man and then fled to a car outside and drove away without any loot, police reported.

Herman Frankel, owner of the restaurant, and eight customers were held at bay by the armed youth. He ordered:

"Stick them up and hold your seats."

Liked Fire Siren's Wail, Police Charge

Joseph Daugherty, 26, of 939 St. James street, was arrested at College and Ellsworth avenues, early today, in connection with the sounding of a dozen false fire alarms in the district within the past three days, according to a police report.

All Insull Wants Is to Learn Name Of Gandhi's Tailor

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Consider the cause of Sam Insull. They don't want him where he is. He ain't where they want him.

Greece says he must scramm. His doctors claim he must stay in bed. America sends him an invitation. But Sam says he is too young for an "old home week" in Chicago.

Washington insists he can travel. His lawyers swear he cannot. He is suspended between sky and earth like the Damocles sword, Mahomet's coffin and the Prince of Wales at the Liverpool jump.

The poor old lad has been stripped of wealth, power and prestige. They say that he is trying to get to India so he can ask the Mahatma the name of his tailor.

SLOVAK MEET PROLONGED

Instead of closing their sessions tomorrow, as originally scheduled, delegates to the National Slovak Society convention will continue their meetings through next week, probably electing new officers Wednesday.

Members of the finance committee, the supreme court, and the editor of the organization's newspaper, John Mihal, of Dormont, today were to present their reports to the convention. J. A. Gallo, secretary, and A. S. Rodak, treasurer, will submit their reports tomorrow.

Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, yesterday made a hurried visit to the convention and speaking from the stage, announced again his candidacy for the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs. He informed the delegates that the cosmopolitan races outnumbered the "real" Americans six or seven to one in Pennsylvania and that in Pennsylvania they could vote without paying taxes this year.

Work on Pitt Doorway, 4 Stories High, Started

Stonemasons on Job Setting Portal at Cathedral

Stone masons today began setting the most intricate stonework in the Cathedral of Learning, the vault of the towering main entrance, four stories—40 feet—above the ground.

The huge portal, which faces inward on the Frick acres quadrangle, toward Bellefield avenue, is recognized by architects, according to university officials, as the largest and most elaborate doorway in America.

The work completed, university officials expect to tear away the muslin shields and wooden scaffolds, which now hide the stone, within the next two weeks.

Engineers point out that the portal really extends as far below the ground as above it, offsetting all danger of a sinking foundation. Supporting caissons reach down 40 feet to bedrock.

Much of the stone is still unCarved. Sculptors will not begin work until the mortar has set for at least 30 days.

Charles Z. Klauder, of Philadelphia, is the Cathedral architect and designer of the doorway. Previous to the Cathedral portal, his greatest work of this type was a Gothic doorway for the Peabody museum at Yale University, 25 feet tall.

RENT SUIT LOST BY APPOINTEE

Charles E. Jackson, Negro real estate broker, whose appointment as police magistrate by Mayor McNair was held up by Council, lost a case in County Court today to the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias, Negro.

A jury's verdict was returned before Judge Frank A. Piekarski for the grand lodge against Jackson for $195.25. The lodge contended Jackson had been employed to collect rents and had failed to turn over $171 when his services were dispensed with, November 1, 1931. The lodge sued for that sum plus interest. Jackson had won the first trial of the case but a retrial was granted.

JURIST BALKS AT BAR QUIZ QUESTIONS

Linked by His Silence As Pinchot Leader; 14 Others Heard

By MARK SHIELDS

The judiciary committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association, after a protracted hearing yesterday afternoon, knew today that no one of nine judges of Common Pleas Court and five from County Court was the Pinchot leader in Allegheny County. The 14 so testified.

Judge Ralph H. Smith declined to answer questions of the committee as to his political activity off the bench, and the committee by strictly legal reasoning has almost reached the opinion long held by every one conversant with politics in Allegheny County, to wit:

Judge Ralph H. Smith is the Pinchot leader in Allegheny County.

Judge Richard A. Kennedy, of County Court, and Judge Elder W. Marshall and M. A. Musmanno, of Common Pleas Court, had other engagements, and illness in his family prevented the attendance of Judge William H. McNaugher.

JUDGE SMITH APPEARS

The high spot of the hearing came when Judge Smith, called after his seniors had been heard, refused to answer any questions. The judge, repeating what he had written the committee several days ago, said:

"I would no more think of submitting the propriety of my personal conduct and attitude, separate and distinct from the discharge of my judicial duties, to your committee than I would sacrifice the independence of my judicial conduct to political influence."

W. A. Challener, chairman of the committee, began to ask Smith the first question on a prepared list which had been put before other judges. As Challener finished the first question, Smith said:

"I do not intend to answer questions or engage in a discussion with the committee or any member. My court work is up to date, I have lost only two days since I have been on the bench, and I ask that my correspondence with the committee be made part of the permanent record."

Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., another committee member, asked Smith if he wished the correspondence read immediately. The Judge answered that he did, but Challener said it would be a waste of time, and could be put in later.

LOOK FOR FIREWORKS

This correspondence contains an assertion by Judge Smith that he feels he not only has a right but an obligation, through political action, to assist in the achievement of various measures of advanced legislation and govern-

PASTOR TO MARK 100TH BIRTHDAY

Despite illness, the Rev. Jacob F. Snyder, of New Kensington, is planning the celebration of his one hundredth birthday.

He expects to recuperate by Saturday, March 24, his birthday, and receive friends in the home of his sons, Dr. J. M. Snyder and Dr. N. H. Snyder, of 261 McCargo street, New Kensington.

Special services will be held under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Synod of the Reformed Church in the Emmanuel Church, Export, where Mr. Snyder was pastor for 35 years.

During the Civil War Mr. Snyder was rejected as too frail for service in the Union Army and he was repeatedly turned down as a poor insurance risk—he is now the oldest living member of the Reformed Church.

MAYOR TALKS, 5 MEN INDICTED

Five men were under indictment today in connection with the robbery of the Winer Style Shop, 1342 Fifth avenue, after Mayor McNair and his police heads had testified in the grand jury's inquiry into the case yesterday.

The Mayor, Detective Capt. Frank R. Boyd, Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith and Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall and several city detectives were called yesterday, it was reported, to testify regarding activities of detectives in the case, concerning which there had been a dispute.

Those indicted on charges of entering a building were Frank Valenti, Peter Albenze, John Martina and Angelo Macri. The four and Charles Murgie were indicted for conspiracy to cheat and defraud Winer.

The grand jury ignored a bill charging Edward T. Leech, editor of the Pittsburgh Press, with libel. The prosecutor was City Detective John Dean, who took exceptions to a Press report on the recovery of stolen goods from the Winer shop.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

I was just thinking, if it really is religion with these nudists colonies, they sure must turn aethiests in the winter time.

Well, the St. Lawrence Canal, which Canada and U. S. were to build together, was defeated in the Senate. I always thought that sounded like a pretty good thing. There is nobody we would rather be partners with in something than Canada, in fact, both political parties thought it was so good that it's in both platforms (which, of course, don't mean anything).

Every senator voted against it if it didn't run by his house. The whole South was against it, but wait till they want to deepen the Mississippi. Then these other babies will get back at 'em.

Will Rogers.

City Engineer's Fight For Job Discounted

Louis A. Schwartz, assistant engineer in the City Bureau of Building Inspection, dismissed by Safety Director Ralph E. Smith and threatening court action unless reinstated, has no claim to Civil service protection, according to Miss Julia Marie Doyle, president of the Civil Service Commission.

Miss Doyle states that the Civil Service record shows that Schwartz was appointed "provisionally" September 8, 1930.

As such, she said, he may be dismissed at any time without the necessity of charges being preferred against him by the director.

Attorney Benjamin L. Steinberg, for Schwartz, in a letter to Director Smith declared that Schwartz was a duly appointed permanent employe and that his dismissal was for "political reasons." He demanded a reinstatement.

Under the Civil Service rules a provisional appointment is not supposed to continue for longer than 90 days. How many cases there were under the old administration where provisional employes continued holding jobs after that period had expired cannot be determined without a complete investigation of the records, according to Miss Doyle.

Since the first of the year a few provisional appointments have been made, all of which have been recorded, according to Civil Service officials.

COUNTY SLEUTH BUREAU HIT BY SHAKEUP

The prosecutor switched partners of the entire group of 35 men, divided the county into 11 districts and ordered the detectives to be on the field until 4:30 p. m. each day.

Park also created a special squad of picked men for important cases and investigations.

The new squad includes the crack investigators of the bureau. They are Walter Monaghan, former ace city detective who was quickly engaged by Park when dismissed from the city payroll; Peter Connors, another former city detective; Frank Ritz, Samuel Riddle and Charles Stewart.

Each detective assigned to a district must file a written report showing his whereabouts each hour during the day. Partners will be changed every six months.

Park said the action was to revamp various districts among detectives throughout the county. He said:

"The reason for this is to familiarize every detective on the force with every town, valley and nook in Allegheny County and enable them to understand the people in those towns. In case of an emergency any member of our force would be called and immediately would know the particular point to which he is sent. It will raise the efficiency of our force."

Park said as soon as detectives became acquainted with districts they would be transferred to other districts. Three or four months would enable a detective to learn all sections of a district, he said.

LEGAL LOTTERY PLAN AIRED

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—A plan for diverting the 50 million dollars estimated as the amount yearly turned into bootleg lotteries or spent on foreign lottery tickets in this state into a legally operated lottery which would aid unemployment relief is discussed by James Monahan in the April Cosmopolitan, now on the newsstands.

Monahan, who is an authority on sweepstakes and lotteries, bases his article on the plan for such a legalized lottery submitted to Gov. Lehman by Mayor LaGuardia and John J. Lyons.

Declaring that the Lyons plan is not without precedent, Monahan cites several instances of its successful employment. He says:

"Mussolini has announced his intention of raising the $100,000,000 necessary to electrify Italy's railroads by this means. Russia used it to help support the five-year plan. France counts on a revenue of $45,000,000 yearly from her national lotteries.

"Newfoundland takes care of her disabled soldiers and sailors and Panama defrays governmental expenses this way. Sweden and Canada have similar enterprises in prospect."

SEEK FREEDOM FOR DRUGGAN

ATLANTA, March 16.—(AP.)—Immediate release of Terry Druggan, former Chicago beer baron, from the federal penitentiary here where he is completing his 30 months' term for income tax violation, is sought in a habeas corpust petition filed in United States District Court.

It was learned today that Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood had signed an order late yesterday setting a hearing on the petition for 10 a. m. Saturday.

Druggan's petition claims that he has served all the time he legally could be required to serve under indictments to which he pleaded guilty in the Federal Court of the Northern District of Illinois at Chicago when he was sentenced in February 1932.

His total sentence was two and a half years' imprisonment, together with a fine of $5,000. The petition recites that the government seized funds, had some of his property sold and took other methods to obtain money to be applied to his income tax delinquency, and claims that the former beer baron cannot be punished, made to pay a fine and have confiscatory actions against him at the same time.

Jack Kearns Faces 'Love Child' Suit

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—(AP.)—John L. McKernan, better known as Jack Kearns, boxers' manager, was sued for $23,400 today by Elizabeth Williams, who claimed he is the father of her daughter, Mary Helen, McKernan, 8.

Richard H. Sampson, attorney for Miss Williams, said she formerly was a cigar counter clerk at a hotel owned by Jack Dempsey.

PET CAT KILLS RATTLESNAKE

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—"Popeye"—Mrs. Mar Welch's orange Persian cat—doesn't eat spinach, but he is as tough as his namesake.

While Popeye was sunning himself on the fence a rattlesnake with six rattlers invaded the Welch backyard.

Without hesitation the cat sprang to the attack and sank his teeth into the rattler's neck just back of its flat head.

"Popeye" was up. He was down. No . . . He was up . . . Down . . . No . . . Up . . .

And so it went for half an hour. The reptile fought desperately, but "Popeye" would not let go. At last the snake was killed.

580 ADDED TO CWA ROLL

More than half the staff of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association was transferred to the state CWA payroll today following approval by Eric H. Biddle, state CWA head, of a project adding 580 new workers to the CWA job list here.

George Mills, Relief Board director, said the move was made to lighten the expense burden of county relief. The majority of supervisors, clerks and case workers employed by the association will now be paid by the federal government.

Continuation of the CWA beyond March 31 with few changes other than that in name was predicted here today by Civil Works officials.

Biddle has advised James L. Stuart, local administrator, that he will be retained as director of relief employment in the county. Those now employed by the CWA on "desirable projects" will be transferred on April 1 to relief work divisions that will be coordinated with the Emergency Relief Administration.

Biddle recently ordered CWA workers in the county to be reduced to 23,000 by March 31. Officials here believe that number will be enrolled in the new relief work corps the first of next month.

NEED FOR CHILD FEEDING LESS

Unemployment relief administered by the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board has eliminated the necessity of feeding pupils in most public schools here, according to a report by the Family Society.

Though 12.6 per cent of the city's school pupils were found to be weak and sick from undernourishment in 1931 and 1932, conditions are believed to have improved substantially during the past year.

Even so.. you can say Chesterfields are "not like others"

NO two people in the world look alike . . . act alike. So it is with tobacco . . . just like folks.

No two leaves are the same.

Furthermore, not only are the tobaccos different, but the way the tobaccos are handled is different.

This, you can understand.

You know just as well as we do that no two manufacturers use the same kinds of tobaccos, or blend them or cross-blend them or weld them together in the same manner.

We do everything that science knows and that money can buy to make CHESTERFIELD as good a cigarette as can be made.

SEX LIFE QUIZ FACES TABOO AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 16.—(AP.)—Several thousand Harvard students were confronted with a demand for intimate facts of their sex life in a questionnaire pushed under dormitory doors yesterday.

The questionnaire set forth that the "Cambridge Society for Psychological and Social Study" was anxious to compile the facts for serious study. No student was asked to sign his name and the return address was a postoffice box.

Last night Harold Saxe, Omaha, Neb., president of the Harvard Critic, an undergraduate magazine, and a student of psychology, told newspapermen he and several companions were responsible for circulation of the questionnaire as a part of a "conscientious psychological experiment."

University authorities, when apprised earlier in the day of the existence of the questionnaire, asserted that such dissemination without approval of the university was in violation of college regulation. They said steps had been taken to prevent its further distribution.

BURNS HIS BABY IN FURNACE

AKRON, O., March 16.—(AP.)—Detectives asked Howard K. Gross today why he thrust his infant son into a glowing furnace. They quoted him as replying:

"I sacrificed my boy because the Lord told me to."

Blue-eyed John Gross, 2 years old, was the victim. He died last night in a hospital.

Telling his wife, Elsie, he wanted to clean the mud off his shoes, he went into the cellar, taking the child with him.

"An urge came over" him, he said, and he thrust the boy into the furnace. Attracted by the screams of the mother, a maid draged the child from the furnace and called aid.

Police said Gross had been "talking strangely" since the auto accident. He was to have a sanity hearing.

RAIL EXPERTS PREDICT GAIN

A business gain of 9.1 per cent over the same period last year was forecast by speakers at the spring meeting of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board in the Hotel Schenley yesterday.

Speakers were A. R. Kennedy and former Judge R. V. Fletcher, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives and the American Railway Association. Judge Fletcher spoke on the first two reports of Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of railroads, which he said "bear the stamp of careful and unprejudiced reflection." He said:

"This is not to say that one must agree with all of the co-ordinator's conclusions, although there is a feeling of satisfaction that the diagnosis of railroad ills was entrusted to such capable hands."

He lauded Eastman's findings upon railroad capitalization. The co-ordinator, he said, emphasized his belief that the railroads are not now overcapitalized or possessed of watered stocks.

Thieves Get 1,000 Tokens in Farebox

A street car fare box, containing 1,000 tokens, valued at $85, was stolen from the Glenwood Car Barns, Second avenue, early today, according to a police report.

mental responsiveness to which he is committed.

Judge Smith then left the hearing in the rooms of the Bar Association on the ninth floor of the City-County Building and so did a large part of the crowd, which had been looking for fireworks with his appearance. It was evident that some of the spectators believed that the entire inquiry was aimed at the political activities of Judge Smith, and the text of some of the questions were of a nature which it seemed could apply only to Judge Smith in his role of Pinchot leader.

One question, the last, read:

"The present Governor has announced his candidacy for U. S. Senator. Do you propose to take an active part in his campaign?"

Some committee members, as the hearing proceeded, recognized the bias of this question in that it did not ask judges if they would support any one other than Gov. Pinchot. Nothing was asked as to their attitude toward Senator David A. Reed or any candidate for Governor, the Legislature or Congress.

PINCHOT'S CAMPAIGN?

Judge John P. Egan precipitated a discussion in the committee when he replied:

"Does that question apply only to Gov. Pinchot's campaign?"

Some committee members argued that the question should be rephrased, but it was finally decided that other judges had answered it in that form, and it should so continue. Later Challener said the committee probably would reinterrogate the judges by letter, asking them if they were going to be active in the campaign of any candidate.

All judges answered the original question in the negative, though County Judge Joseph A. Richardson, appointed by Pinchot, said he would be an ingrate if he did not tell inquirers that he thought him a good Governor.

The questions hinged about Canon 28 of the American Bar Association, discouraging the activity of judges in political movements. All said they subscribed to the canon with the reservation that they believed themselves justified in urging the re-election of a fellow-judge.

Judge Frank P. Patterson said he had made speeches in the last campaign for his brother, a candidate for City Council, and he and Judge Thomas M. Marshall said they felt the right to defend a friend who, as a candidate for any office, was unjustly attacked. Judge Richardson said he thought it would be all right to advise the election of a good man against one palpably unfit.

NEEDY VISITORS

All judges who testified said they had no office except their chambers, and that the people who came to see them on other than official business were needy persons seeking help in getting a job.

Judge James H. Gray said he had made a declaration for District Attorney Andrew T. Park in 1931, and felt justified. Judge Ambrose B. Reid said he had recommended one judicial appointment; Judge Gray, two, and Judge Marshall, three, and each had a perfect record of rebuffs.

At the beginning of the hearing Challener called for J. Garfield Houston, author of the resolution which started the investigation. Houston was absent, but appeared later and said he had nothing to offer but newspaper clippings about the activity of Judge Smith and gossip among lawyers and laymen.

Newspapermen present were asked if they had any aditional information to offer the committee, and none did, standing on the accuracy of printed stories. No irate citizens appeared in response to an invitation, though at the conclusion of the hearing M. H. Bloom insisted that the committee had been unfair in its last question about Pinchot's candidacy.

Bloom was ruled out of order.

LIST OF QUESTIONS

The list of questions, furnished to newspapermen by the committee after the hearing, follows:

Since your election to the judgeship do you have any idea of the number of persons calling on you at the Court house before court convenes in the morning or after court closes in the afternoon on matters not connected with your judicial duties?

Will you state the number of people so calling upon you approximately and over what period of time it has been going on?

How much of your time has been taken up in conferring with callers of the class mentioned?

Do you maintain an office or other place where you receive callers of the class before mentioned, that is callers who desire to see you upon matters not connected with the performance of your judicial duties?

How many such callers do you have per day on an average?

How much time do you give on an average to receiving and conferring with these callers?

Do you think that the amount of time used in receiving and conferring with these callers is interfering or is likely to interfere with your ability to give proper attention to your judicial duties?

Have you now or have you previously had arrangement or understanding with present or past Governors of Pennsylvania that no judicial appointment in Allegheny County will be made without your recommendation or concurrence?

How many persons have you recommended for judicial appointment since your appointment to the bench?

How many have been granted, how many have been refused?

It will be assumed that you always recommended for appointment only those persons who in your judgment were fit for the position, but the committee would like to know whether the Governor of Pennsylvania has to your knowledge required that the applicant for appointment pledge himself to further the future political interests of the Governor?

Have you, yourself, required or given any applicant who sought your recommendation for appointment as a Judge, to understand that your recommendation would be conditioned upon the applicant's pledging himself to support the political aspirations and interests of the then Governor of Pennsylvania?

In case any candidate for appointment has not secured your own recommendation, have you opposed his appointment on the ground that said applicant was not committed to the political interests of the Governor?

Have you told or given any candidate for judicial office to understand that he would be expected in the event of his appointment to take an active political interest in support of the interests of the Governor of Pennsylvania?

Have you any understanding with any elected official as to appointments other than judicial?

Has any elected official consulted you about such appointments?

If so, on how many occasions?

How often have you consulted in person with any elected official about political matters since your appointment to the bench?

How many days have you been away from court because of such consultations?

The present Governor has announced his candidacy for U. S. Senator. Do you propose to take an active part in his campaign?

Does he expect you to do so?

'PEKING MAN' EXPERT DIES

PEIPING, China, March 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Davidson Black, noted scientist and authority on the so-called "Peking Man," whose explorations led him into many dangers from which he emerged unscathed, died today in the prosaic quiet of his office.

Death from heart disease came to him as he sat at his desk. He was 49 years old. He was born at Toronto, Canada, July 25, 1884.

His greatest contributions to the field of anthropology came in his work with the "Peking Skull," unearthed in the quarries of Chow Outien, 30 miles from Peiping, late in December, 1929.

Although known as the "Peking Man," the skull generally has been accepted as actually that of a woman.

THREE HELD IN COAT THEFT

Accused by police in the theft of a woman's fur coat, Mr. and Mrs. James Bulger and Mrs. Minnie Hoffman, of 448 Ruxton street, were held for larceny today following a hearing before Police Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Central police court.

They are charged with stealing a $165 wrap from Miss Eleanor Walsh, 632 Lillian street, while Miss Walsh was bowling last night in the Club Bowling alleys on Masters Way. The coat was recovered, police said, in a shopping bag carried by Bulger.

Just since last winter an astounding advance has been made in the treatment of coughs and colds.

The way has been found to use Primary VITAMIN A. This vitamin is Nature's "Anti-Infective" agent. It is the weapon that your body must have to fight coughs and colds.

Now Smith Brothers Cough Syrup not only gives you fast, pleasant cough relief. In addition its Primary Vitamin A aids Nature in DRIVING the cough and cold out of the system faster. And Vitamin A raises your resistance against re-infection with new coughs and colds. Nature herself leads you back to vigorous, "million dollar" health.

Remember: the only cough syrup giving you these benefits of Vitamin A is Smith Brothers'. Today, get a bottle. New health will be yours.

100 HOMES TO BE RAZED

Steps have been taken by city authorities in preparation for razing 100 houses, most of them in the Hill district, in co-operation with the government's slum-removal campaign.

Health Director Ray P. Moyer has announced that Council will be asked to approve an application to the Civil Works Administration for $18,000 to pay for labor and trucking to remove the first group of dwellings, which fall short of the city sanitary rules.

A special committee, working under the direction of Mayor McNair has started to obtain consents from owners for the razing of buildings. Where consent is not granted, city officials have stated they will use police power to take down buildings.

Houses which are a menace because of possibility of collapse or from a health standpoint can be removed by the city after proper notice.

The first houses scheduled for razing are 1214-16-18-20 Hazel street, 143-45-47 Fullerton street, 1825-27 Wylie avenue, 69 Arthur street, 1816 Enoch street, 1528 and 1840 Clark street, 24-26 Tannehill street, 2203 and 1012 Kirkpatrick street, 18 Townsend street rear, 1210 Bedford avenue, 1923 Fifth avenue, 1544 Webster avenue, 2810 Breckenridge street, 6 McClarren way, 2150 Rose street and 2535 Wadsworth street rear.

Ordinarily the cost of removing the houses would be placed on the owners. Virtually all houses included in the program are vacant.

ROOSEVELT SON BACKS TRACK

International News Service.

LENOX, Mass., March 16.—Plans are being completed for the construction of the $7,000,000 horse racing track on the property of the new Berkshire Hunt and Country Club, it was reported today.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, and former Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, are among the sponsors of the project, it was said by local officials.

Construction of the racing plant will hinge on passage of a parimutuel racing bill now before the Legislature, for which young Roosevelt recently appeared before a committee studying the measure.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises, clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

WARNING GIVEN PA. AUTOISTS

HARRISBURG, March 16—(AP)—Municipal authorities throughout Pennsylvania are warning motorists who wilfully drive through stop signs, and one burgess has suggested that his town enforce the red signal law rigidly or throw itself wide open to violators.

Town councils are receiving heaps of complaints, and police say disregard for traffic regulations is on the increase, particularly in smaller communities through which main highways run.

TWO MEN HURT IN COLLISION

Two men were injured last night when automobiles in which they were riding collided at Penn avenue and Barbeau street. Frederick H. Noall, 36, of 1031 Uvilla street, was taken to Mercy Hospital with a scalp laceration and possible internal injuries. He was a passenger in a car driven, police said, by C. R. Powelson, a brother-in-law, of the same address.

Michael Moran, 51, of 1031 Marena street, a passenger in the auto of L. C. Knirnschild, 713 Evergreen avenue, Millvale, was slightly bruised. Drivers of both cars were arrested on reckless driving charges, according to police.

LATIN BANNED ON RUSHMORE BY ROOSEVELT

EDWARD L. RODDAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—President Roosevelt has accepted the chairmanship of the national committee that will determine the character of the inscription to be carved on the west wall of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial in South Dakota.

The President consented to serve in reply to an invitation extended by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, and a group of Senators who called at the White House yesterday.

A national competition, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers, is being conducted to select an appropriate 600 word inscription, memorializing the spirit and growth of America, to be carved on the granite slope of Mount Rushmore.

The final character of this inscription will be determined by the committee on which President Roosevelt consented to serve.

Mrs. Roosevelt will also be invited to serve.

In accepting Mr. Borglum's invitation, the President said:

"In writing the inscription for the Rushmore memorial let us stick to good simple Anglo-Saxon words. There should not be a single word of Latin derivation in the inscription. The simpler it is worded the better it will tell the story."

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Senators Norbeck and Bulow, of South Dakota; Sheppard and Connally, of Texas; McNary, of Oregon; Johnson, of California; Pittman, of Nevada, and Cutting, of New Mexico; Representative Isabella Greenway, of Arizona; Mrs. Mary Rumsey, Fred Sargent, chairman of the Mount Rushmore Commission; Robert Sproul, president of the University of California; Dr. Julian A. C. Chandler, president of William and Mary College, and Borglum.

The Senators were selected to represent such territories as the Louisiana Purchase, the republic of Texas, and the Oregon territory, which were acquired in the great westward expansion of the country, Borglum said. He added:

WOMEN RECOGNIZED

Explaining why women were asked to serve on the committee, Borglum said:

"For historical reasons and from the fact that probably 50 per cent of the inscriptions will be written by women, it is considered appropriate that there should be at least three women outstanding in the affairs and culture of the nation, present on the final committee and to take part in the final decision."

Borglum was accompanied to the White House by Senators McNary, Bulow, Pittsman, Connally and Cutting.

Borglum said the President and his committee, in accepting the invitattion of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission, unanimously expressed the belief that the competition, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers, is a stupendous effort to capture for posterity, America's own viewpoint of its national achievements.

PRESIDENT QUOTED

Announcement of the President's acceptance was made at the White House by Borglum, the sculptor of the memorial, who said President Roosevelt told him:

"This great idea must stress one thing above all else—and every competitor for the honor of influencing that inscription must bear in mind that the pioneering spirit—the creative urge which led our people to populate the various areas which from time to time came into this nation was of far more importance than any territorial growth.

"The spiritual development inherent in each new movement was the vital and essential thing. If those who seek to write the permanent memorial of America's greatness can emphasize that thought in their interpretations—we shall probably have—not one—but several really great texts from which to choose."

SCULPTOR DELIGHTED

Borglum and the Senators who are members of the committee spent nearly an hour at the White House. Borglum, after the conference:

"It is impossible for me to convey the delight which I feel at having President Roosevelt's enthusiastic co-operation. Nothing could be more fitting than that the head of the American people should participate in so tremendous an undertaking as this competition is bringing forth.

"The project is so vast as to sink every possible human division of class, party, or faction into complete oblivion. Few people can realize the sense of responsibility which rests upon those of us upon whom this task devolves.

"But with the spirit suggested by the President animating all those millions of men, women and children, whose pens are today trying to find our permanent expression—we cannot fail to make Mount Rushmore's message one which will stir our future people more than any monument of antiquity stirs us today."

Members of Congress and Borglum were enthusiastic over President Roosevelt's acceptance of an invitation to serve as chairman of the national judges to select the inscription.

GAINS NEW ZEAL

Borglum said:

"The President's acceptance of the chairmanship, his wholehearted indorsement of the Rushmore memorial and the method adopted to obtain an appropriate inscription fires me with a new zeal for my work.

"I concur most heartily in the President's suggestion that the inscription contain only good, simple Anglo-Saxon words and that all words of Latin derivation be omitted.

"The President's acceptance is certain to add new impetus to this nation-wide quest for an inscription in which millions already are participating."

HAT BRIMS GET OUT OF FUR COLLARS AT LAST

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Midnight blue slipper satin makes this effective pirate hat, intended for semi-formal wear.

THE TIME is at hand when even the most careful woman can imagine unmuffling her throat so that she can wear one of the new hats which sport a brim that must be seen to be appreciated. There has been too much weather of late which causes hats to hibernate snugly under the wall of one's mink or pussy cat collar; the spring holds no pleasanter promise than that of many hats right out above the neck and shoulders where they can be most effective.

One of the prettiest models of this moment's favor is the swash-buckling, cavalier pirate hat, which has a deep pointed, or rounded brim, at either side and behind the face. It is a honey for the girl who dances at tea time, for there is no brim whatever over her face to tangle in her partner's mustache or eye glasses.

The sailor that has taken its cue from Mexico, and is round all around and rather large at that, is another hat which never got on so well with a high coat collar fastened close to the throat, and which will be seen a lot from now on.

* * *

BOTH THESE hats, one will find, can be worn comfortably with fur neckpieces twisted to one side in the usual manner of sables and silver foxes, and for the woman who wears no furs there are loads of scarfs worth ensembling with the new hats, or which are deliberately designed of matching fabric to wear with them. A great big bowknot or an ascot tie still remains the easiest way to wear such scarfs. Most dashing of all, however, is the plain taffeta scarf in a color which links hat and frock together harmoniously, and which is fastened with the ubiquitous twin jewelled clips.

For the casual hat, perfectly plain felts are enjoying great popularity just now, for they may be bent, despite Descat doings on the crown, into saucer, Breton brims, cavalier sweeps that go up abruptly at side or back, or off-the-face sou'westers. The range of colors is heartening, for it includes every conceivable tone that shows off or complements spring tweeds. Grosgrain bands with pleated gadgets to finish them are the usual total of trimming on such hats, whose brims are quite amenable to closed or thrown back coat collars.

* * *

THE IMPORTANCE of the hat, scarf and bag ensemble is increasing all the time, with a greater variety of materials being used. Such outfits are no longer limited largely to sports effects. One milliner has imported chenille striped taffeta for her special ensembles, dedicating them to the titivation of the plain navy tailleur which is prophesied as the incoming winner for spring.

Former Assembly Candidate Dies

CALIFORNIA, Pa., March 16.—Richard Hawthorne, 58, justice of the peace, bank director and realtor, died yesterday. A Democrat, he ran for an Assembly seat in 1929.

GREAT EPISODES FOR TEXTS

Here are the nine episodes in American history that the Rushmore National Memorial Commission plans to include in the inscription on the monument in South Dakota:

1—Writing of the Declaration of Independence.
2—Drafting of the American Constitution.
3—Purchase of Louisiana.
4—Ceding of the Floridas to the United States.
5—Rise of the Republic of Texas and its entry to the Union as a state.
6—The Mexican War and the acquisition of California.
8—The Alaska Purchase.
9—Building of the Panama Canal.

DUCHESS SUED BY JEWELER

Universal Service.

LONDON, March 16.—Cartier, Ltd., jewelers to the court of St. James, have served a judgment writ on the solicitors of the Duchess of Marlborough, the former Gladys Deacon, of Boston, the London Daily Express said today.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, whose marriage 13 years ago united an American fortune with one of England's oldest titles, have been living in separate establishments since last September, when the duke seized their town house and forced her to take up residence in a hotel.

Parent-Teachers Head Lauds Rushmore Plan

A tremendous influence was added to the student interest in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial competition as leaders of the Pittsburgh Council of Parent-Teachers Association today considered plans for active support to the historical movement here.

In the nation-wide quest for America's epic in 600 words—the nation's history suitable for inscription high on the western slope of the mountain of living granite in South Dakota's Black Hills—the association's president, Mrs. W. E. Brosius, sees a "powerful character builder" for the youth of America.

BUILDS CITIZENS

Expressing enthusiasm to the Sun-Telegraph, which with associated Hearst newspapers, is conducting the competition for the National Memorial Commission, Mrs. Brosius said:

"The trend in education today is toward the building of better citizens. It is finding expression not only in the propaganda of great educational and patriotic organizations but in the training of boys and girls from the kindergarten through the college and university.

"As the great drama of the centuries takes shape in the granite of Mount Rushmore, it will not only inspire men and women, but will plant seeds of patriotism in America's every school room.

"Hero worship is a powerful character builder. As the children of this generation watch the colossal figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt carved from the mountainside, a spirit of partiotism will be instilled in the men and women of tomorrow; as the characters of each great episode become glorious to the children of today, the monument will become the heroic shrine of the future."

MANY WRITING

Meanwhile individuals from every town and city are writing in for news of the competition—how to enter—what to write—when to send them in. But do not rush your own attempt! There is plenty of time!

Time for you to read in the Sun-Telegraph every day some new fact which may help you to form your own thought on the nine epochs which constitute the material of the text. Time to read every one of the special articles on the various epochs, especially written for the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers for your benefit.

On Sunday the first of this series—dealing with the settlement of the Oregon boundary dispute—and written by Dr. Joseph Schaefer, of the Wisconsin Historical Society, will appear. From it you can know all about how the struggle to maintain our physical territory was experienced, and something of what that struggle has meant in our national life today. Order your copy of next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph now!

And remember that fancy writing is not essential. It is not even what is wanted.

Rushmore Contest Prizes

Following is the complete list of prizes and awards for the competition inaugurated by the Hearst newspapers in connection with the inscription for the Mount Rushmore National Memorial.

These awards will be made by a national committee, the personnel of which will be announced at a later date, in accordance with the rules of the competition published elsewhere on this page.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

So many of the smart audience at Louise Lerch's concert last night in the Hotel Schenley ballroom knew each other, so many were friends of the soprano and her aides, Samuel Kliachko, cellist; Milton Lomask, violinist, and Earl Mitchell, pianist, that it seemed more like an evening in a friend's drawing room than a formal concert.

Helping to create the socially festive air were the young ushers—a group of pretty young debs of the past fall, all of whom had corsages to deck their smart evening gowns. And at the end of the first half of the concert, four of them paraded down the aisle bearing armfuls, literally, of roses for Louise Lerch (Mrs. Donald Brien, of Maryland avenue, in private life).

One of the most attractive frocks was that of usher Vardi Marshall. It was a graceful gown of flame crepe, with fine pleating extending from the waistline in back into the train. Eloise Dorrance, chairman of the ushers, was in deep purple-blue crepe with double wind-blown revers of the same material and of dusty pink crepe.

Black Gowns Favored At Lerch Concert

In the audience were Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock in a blue-green frock brocaded in silver; Mrs. D. M. Clemson in a smart black satin gown having a white diagonal pin-line stripe; Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., in hydrangea blue lace with a matching jacket; Mrs. John E. Nelson, Mrs. Jacob S. Payton, Miss Marie Dermitt and Mrs. Hugh Campbell Shaw.

I also had a glimpse of Miss Suzanne Beatty, William R. Shulgold, Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance, and many others. One of the most charming young women there was tall, slender blonde Nancy Jane Longenecker, who wore a bright, deep blue crepe gown.

Bridge One of Many Irish Cabaret Features

Bridge is just one of the many things planned to entertain guests at the Irish Cabaret the Woman's City Club will stage tomorrow afternoon in the Chatterbox, William Penn Hotel, to celebrate St. Patrick's day.

There'll be a floor show, an Irish wedding, and music—including Irish songs, of course. Percy Dorrington, accompanied by Edward W. Koontz, will sing, for instance, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Danny Boy" and "Mother Machree."

The Woman's City Club's own choral will sing some Irish ballads, too, which will be taken up by strolling singers. There'll be an Irish thatched cottage to house "fortunes" and a grab bag.

A few of the many young aides, who'll wear gay Irish green costumes, will be Barbara Heinman, Peggy Searles, Betty Phillips, Jean Keister, Georgette Casselman, Polly Buchmaster, Alice Ann Semmons, Betty Brostus, Margaret Heckman, Anne Lou Enzian, Marion Black, Jane Phillips, Betty Cruikshank, Carolyn Parry, Helen Ruth Deike, Mary Elizabeth Ingram, Elizabeth Harris, Clarice Haudenshield, Margaret Phillips, Louise Baton and ever so many more.

City Club Irish Cabaret Patronesses Announced

And of course there must be patronesses for any event. On the list are Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Mrs. Biddle Arthurs, Mrs. William L. Affelder, Mrs. E. V. Babcock, Mrs. George S. Baton, May Beegle, Mrs. George S. Baton, Miss May Beegle, Miss Lucetta Burns, Mrs. A. E. Braun, Mrs. Donald G. Clark, Mrs. W. Eugene Gary, Mrs. J. P. Hoelzel, Mrs. James H. Hammond, Mrs. George Holliday, Miss Adelaide Hunter, Mrs. Walter Laird, Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. David I. McCahill, Mrs. W. Norton McCutcheon, Mrs. Charles G. Noble, Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Roessing, Mrs. Clark Hammond, Miss Harriet L. Parks, Mrs. Pauline Y. Merrill, Miss Marian E. Jobson, Mrs. A. S. F. Keister and many more.

Bird Talk, Film Planned for Children

Little girls and little boys, most of whose acquaintance with birds does not extend beyond the sparrow and the robin, will hear some unusual stories of many birds, common to this part of the country but seldom seen in city trees, tonight in the chapel of the Volunteers of America, East Diamond street, North Side.

The occasion is a children's feature of "Remembrance Week" which is being celebrated throughout the world in honor of the founding of the Volunteers of America, 38 years ago by General and Mrs. Ballington Booth. The Women's Auxiliary has arranged tonight's meeting at which John D. Meyer, former president of the Audubon Society of Pennsylvania and former United States District Attorney, is to be the speaker. In addition to the talk, the Volunteers will give a motion picture show dealing with bird life.

In Pittsburgh, "Remembrance Week" is being observed at all the Volunteer institutions, such as the Home for Girls, North avenue, which has recently been refurnished and renovated, at the Day Nursery and at the Volunteer Post headquarters.

Through the Spyglass

Viewing The New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

Should you happen to be the proud possessor of a great big "he" whose shoulders are hard to fit . . . then harken to this tale.

For we hear that there are goings-on in town . . . to the effect that some new suspenders with a patented clasp have made an appearance. Suspenders which stick affectively to masculine shoulders be they of square or round peg variety. The clasps eliminate buttons . . . fastening to the trou almost anywhere. And they come in narrow band styles at $1 . . . or wide ones with leather ends at $1.50. Might be a thought to have one of these for his new Easter suit!

* * *

tall, thin, striped dizzily with red and gold, green and gold, orange and gold. (And the gold is fired on which means it lasts longer than other inexpensive bandings of this kind.) Priced at 6 for 95c

Or if tomato juice is more to your taste . . . there are fruit juice glasses included, as well as tumblers and little whisky glasses.

* * *

Being as how statistics show that we women use so many umpty-ump dollars worth of cosmetics each year, we suppose news about the new hand-pressed dry rouge would not come in amiss. Especially now that we are about to embark upon Spring with brand new clothes. Why not a brand new complexion?

Said rouge is put out by a well known cosmetic house . . . oh, very well known . . . from France . . . and has the advantage over machine pressed rouge in that it is so much softer, more filmy. We ran our finger over it gently, and it was like touching a misty piece of velvet (if velvet IS misty). The newest way to get that "rosy glow" you hear so much about. 75c a large box.

* * *

One-and-a-half-minutes to go! We are merely timing the making of the new mayonnaise that is being beaten up in the town. Arm yourself with a can of the salad oil . . . one of the new beaters and jars which are being given away with each can . . . and you are ready for the best mayonnaise you've tasted in many moons, or suns! Only 49c for the combination. What ho for the salad!

* * *

Never mind about the April showers to come. March showers right now are twice as interesting since the new shower curtains "came out."

Just perchance we came upon them . . . oiled silk ones in the most beautiful hand-blocked designs and colorings we've ever seen! There is a gorgeously violent plaid in greens and yellows that looks as if it had been cut from the same piece of silk as your new blouse! Another with watery-looking wiggles running up and down, and fish swimming vertically (NOT a fish story either). And another with jonquils . . . those emblems of Spring . . . sprouting hit and miss all over it.

The beauty of these is—they won't crack, peel, stick or hold dirt . . . and they're guaranteed for a year. At $5.95 . . . which is what you have to pay for ANY shower curtain of even decently ordinary type!

* * *

P. S. . . . We thought we'd covered the town enough for today, when this piece of news just fell into our lap.

That . . . one of the shops is having a special offer on hose (hose again, we say!) . . . at 89c the pair, or 3 pairs for $2.50! It's a famous, Famous, FAMOUS make (whose name we daren't disclose or off comes our head!) and is about the most super-extra value we've come across in eons!

AND . . . a whole box of a well known brand of soap flakes is being given away with every purchase. Mark it well!

—DOROTHY RANDALL.

Here Are Words That Baffle Students

Carnegie Tech underclassmen have their word "jawbreakers" like anybody else. Prof. H. H. Kirk-Patrick, professor of English at Tech, has collected a list of words during the last few years which the Tech students misspell frequently.

They are possession, analyze, fallacious, innate, vicissitude, efflorescence, embarrass, verbiage, virtuous, criticize, strenuous, separate, paraffin, gullibility, eustachian, adherence, euphony, viscous, paradigm and conscientious.

C. W. Peters, assistant superintenden of county schools, who is directing the spelling bee in the county district, said the following 10 words in common usage are frequently misspelled.

SPELLERS LOOK TO FINALS

Eighteen "spell-downs" will be held in Pittsburgh high and county township schools tonight as part of Allegheny County's old-fashioned spelling bee, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Meanwhile plans are being made for county championship bee to be held in Schenley High School at 8 p. m. Tuesday. About 80 preliminary contsts winners are expected to compete.

To the winner and alternate of the county finals will go a trip to Harrisburg on Wednesday, April 4, for the state contest. The Sun-Telegraph will pay the expenses of the trip.

Three money prizes totaling $50 will also be awarded. These are:
Third prize $25.
Fifth prize $10.

If the contest in your school district has not yet been held, there is still time to enter the spelling bee. You have until the start of your local "spell-down" to enter.

The spelling bees are being held in every county in the state by the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg. The department has announced that it will give each county winner some recognition—the "big prize" going to final winner.

Last-Minute Entrant Wins Spelling Match

Girl From Audience Competes With No Study

Miss Nellie King, 21, won McKees Rocks spelling bee last night rather unexpectedly and without even a minute of dictionary study.

Miss King, who lives at 1019 First street, McKees Rocks, said:

"I went over to the Hamilton School to listen to the spelling contest and they coaxed me to enter. I was more than surprised to win.

Clara Briscol, of 208 Gaydon avenue, McKees Rocks, won second place. The word "pickerel" decided the contest.

Taylor Allderdice High School's bee was decided with the word "kimono." Miss Beatrice Klingensmith, of 1023 La Claire street, won first honors and Mrs. Sam Jubelirer, of 2649 Beechwood boulevard second. Eighteen persons competed.

Mrs. Fred J. Smith, of 1913 Wharton street, won the bee at South High with D. J. Stefanosky, of 2336 Saraah street alternate. The deciding word was "consensus."

Dr. C. J. Ottie, of 7936 Madiera street, won Fifth Avenue High School's bee when Edward Ayoob, of 1316 Webster avenue, the "runner-up," misspelled "replevin."

Langley High School's contest was won by Walter D. Bruce, of Sheraden. Mrs. H. B. McLaughlin, of 2936 Merwyn avenue, lost out on the word "stationery."

Cleone McLaughlin, of Pine Hollow road, a Carnegie Tech graduate, won the "spell-down" in Kennedy Township. Second place went to Gertrude McNulty, of Coraopolis, R. D. 1. The final word was "pickaninny."

Mrs. Florence Kerr, of 221 First street, Aspinwall, won the bee at the Aspinwall High School, defeating George A. Girty. The deciding word was "liquefy."

Brentwood's spelling contest was won by George M. Murdoch, of 3347 Brownsville road. Second honors went to William Metz, of Willett road, Brentwood, who misspelled "employee."

Dravosburg's winner was Thomas Little, while the alternate was Mrs. Andrew Jarrett. "Beefsteak" was the word that decided the bee. Nearly 250 persons heard the 16 contestants spell.

Miss Alice Schofield, of 277 Dawson street, Glenfield, won the Glenfield spelling bee. Mary Goydick got second place, losing out on the word "carnivorous."

Mrs. John Stewart was the winner and Mrs. Elvin Beavers the runner-up in the contest held in the Neville Township public school.

LIBERTY AT OLIVER — ATlantic 6200

Washing for eight children can be no small job, yet "I don't really mind it," smiles Mrs. George H. Hale.

Chipso's good suds SOAK dirt out. Hard rubbing is SAVED when you use CHIPSO. Yet Chipso is not harsh. "I have no trouble with colors fading," Mrs. Hale says. "We have used Chipso for years. It is as safe for the silk underwear and stockings as it is for the cotton pieces.

"Chipso suds are grand for dishwashing, too. They are not hard on my hands and they seem richer than other soaps."

Chipso is not adulterated with harsh, "dirt-cutting" ingredients. It speeds up your washday with RICHER SUDS that are SAFE. Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get a big box of Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, you will find it the best value in rich, safe soap on the market today.

Hymn to the Hills ..... Harvey Gaul

Earl Mitchell was at his best again as accompanist. Samuel Kliatchko, 'cellist, and Milton Lomask, violinist played beautiful obligato parts to Brahms and Mozart; there were many songs of the masters that no one else does nowadays, and two manuscript songs of Pittsburgh composers. The singer, though obviously suffering with cold, often surpassed her usual self.

Mr. Lissfelt

Miss Lerch came out of the best musical schooling, for one sees frequently the mark of her great teacher Sembrich than whom there never was a greater artist in the song world. She comes with a reverence for Mozart and a knowledge of his style which stands her in good stead in all else which she sings, a feeling for the finely modeled phrase, for gentle nuances, and for an acquaintance with the vast literature of song.

In the program last night were excellent works of the older and neo-Italian schools, one of Mozart's greatest airs, a group of most difficult Brahms and also of Hugo Wolf, with some English songs.

I still feel that Miss Lerch has never known the full capacity of her voice. During the Brahms and Wolf's "Verborgenheit" she gave us tone that must have surprised those who heard her some weeks ago in the Mosque, tones of real dramatic power and color. That, to me, has always been the Lerch voice.

Her manner of using head tone, secure enough of itself, has a strong tendency toward monotony, and unless the dramatic content of the song counteracts it we hear the same spell in too many songs.

Of the two Pittsburgh songs, William Wentzell's "Wind Song" was the immediate hit and had to be repeated because of its spontaneity. Harvey Gaul's "Hymn to the Hills" is more deliberate, built on a grander style, but likely too long.

Giannina Mia ..... Frimi

The Twentieth Century Club, pursuing its policy of offering a program by local talent each year, presented the "Fireflies" in recital yesterday afternoon. It was the largest audience of the year, perhaps curious to hear singers whom it has heard over the air.

This trio includes Letha Rankin, soprano; Jean Newman and Viola Byrgerson, contraltos; each understands how to subdue her voice that ensemble is nicely blended. That we should expect, but further we heard a trio whose rhythms are as excellent as a pas-de-trois of the best Russian ballet dancers. There was a smartness about their music that kept one's interest throughout the long program.

Much of the music is arranged from already popular songs, many of them improved a little in the process, the Strauss songs damaged beyond repair. The Gries "Anitra's Dance" I could hardly accept, either. But Leroux's "The Nile," Farley's "Night Wind," the Negro spiritual, "Swing Low," were admirable. The very effects which make the trio a success, the sharply defined phrases in Strauss' "Serenade," just should never happen in that song.

Marian Bolliger played accompaniments and also a group of piano works. It was fine to hear her clear technique, and what a robust tone she had for the Brahms "Rhapsodie!"

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Fish Offers Housing Sites to New York

NEW YORK, March 16.—(Universal.)—Following the lead of Vincent Astor, Stuyvesant Fish yesterday offered to sell to the city at assessed values 47 parcels of slum property so that the city might build model housing developments.

Tenement House Commissioner Post, however, said that he did not believe the city could pay even the assessed price for the land. He said that the federal loan now earmarked for the housing plan was only $25,000,000 and it would cost $1,500,000,000 to rehabilitate the city as he proposes.

Burglars Net $300 From Dealer's Home

Thieves broke into the home of E. P. Samson, automobile dealer, at 5524 Beverly place, East End, last night, and stole jewelry and silverware valued at $300 and $9 in bills and old coins, he reported to police.

After gaining entrance by breaking the glass in the front door, the thieves ransacked various rooms in the house during the family absence.

Luncheon and Party Delicacies Are Suggested

Even if the trees are not budding and the ground is more apt to be snowy rather than grass-sheathed, Easter bunny's well on his way to filling gay straw baskets with chocolate bunnies and jelly beans, and just every other kind of goodies youngsters could want.

Nor are filled baskets the only item of Easter delicacy. All sorts of novel dishes may be found, reminded of the day. A glance through today's prize winners and you'll find two very fine, and what's more unusual ones, gelatine Easter eggs and Easter apple salad. For parties, lunches, deserts, whatever you will, they're attractive, inexpensive and ever so good to eat.

Your ideas are just as good as your neighbor's, so send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. In a very few days your mail box may disclose for you a $5 check or one of 10 $1 checks awarded daily. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MISS VERDA LEMMON,
New Stanton, Westmoreland County.
SAUSAGE ROAST

Allow one half cup of fine bread crumbs for each serving with salt, pepper and minced parsley or white celery leaves. Add butter and work in as for filling a fowl, add just enough hot water to hold crumbs and lightly shape into loaf. Put all over loaf about one inch of fresh sausage, turn loaf over carefully and put a layer of sausage over bottom of loaf. Place loaf in center of large narrow greased pan so that oven heat may reach sides and top of loaf alike. Bake in very hot oven for 30 minutes at least or until richly browned. Remove from oven and pour fat from pan and place pan on folded towel or newspaper and cover loosely with paper. Let loaf stand for at least five minutes to accept loaf before removing. Slice as meat loaf and serve with gravy made as follows: Two tablespoons fat from loaf pan, one tablespoon butter, three tablespoons flour, one tablespoon cornstarch, seasoning, blend. Work in slowly one cup hot milk, add one cup boiling water, bring to boil, serve.

DELMONICO'S OWN CHOCOLATE FILLING

One cup granulated sugar.
Three-fourths cup grated chocolate.
Whites of two eggs, beaten stiff.
Two tablespoons milk.
Two teaspoons vinegar.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Dissolve sugar and chocolate; add milk and vinegar, and fold in the egg whites. Cook in a double boiler for one-half hour. When done add vanilla.

ESTHER DAETWYLER,
Clarington, O.
QUICK CAKE

One scant cup sugar.
One and one-half cups flour.
One and one-half teaspoon baking powder.

Stir all together thoroughly. Break one egg into cup, add three tablespoons melted butter; then fill cup with milk, add to above ingredients and bake quickly.

LUCILLE MILLS,
Tylersburg.
ANGEL FOOD SPICE CAKE

One and one-fourth cups of egg whites.
One teaspoon of cream of tartar.
One-fourth teaspoon of salt.

Beat the egg whites to a froth. Add the salt and cream of tartar and continue beating until they hold a point. Sift three times one and one-half cups of sugar and add gradually to the egg whites. Fold in one cupful of cake flour which has been sifted four times with one teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoon of cloves and one-fourth teaspoon of allspice. Add the flour mixture a little at a time and blend carefully. Fold in one teaspoon of vanilla. Bake in a slow oven. Let cake cool before turning out of pan. Serve with sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

MRS. H. W. DAVIS,
MOTHER'S DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

Cook over low fire, stirring constantly
One-half cup milk
One egg yolk
Two heaping tablespoons cocoa.

When thick, take from fire and add one-fourth cup lard, one cup sugar. Sift together one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon level full soda, one half teaspoon salt. Add these alternately with the other one-half cup of milk and one teaspoon vanilla. Use egg white for icing. This makes one large tubepan cake, or layer cake, or 20 cup cakes.

MRS. FREDA WARNER,
1116 Island avenue, McKees Rocks
MOCK OYSTER SOUP

Boil six or eight medium size potatoes, drain off water, add liquid from one can peas to potato water, add one-half cup milk, piece of butter the size of an egg, salt and pepper to taste.

MISS MARTHA McCLEARY
GELATINE EGGS FOR EASTER

Make a hole about as large as a lead pencil in small end of egg. With long needle mix yolk and white so that they come out easily. Egg white may be taken out separately if desired, but yolk will have to be broken. Rinse shells with cold water. Dissolve different flavors of gelatine using one pint warm water for each package. Fill egg shells with it, using funnel. Set on end in egg container. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, break away shells. Serve in nests of coconut. Garnish with small candy eggs or fruits cut in small pieces. Lemon or lime eggs make a pretty salad served in nests of shredded lettuce with mayonnaise.

MARY CONSTANCE WILHELM,
807 Warrington avenue.
POPPYSEED CAKES

One cup sugar.
One half cup butter.
Two eggs.
One cup milk.
Two cups flour.
Two tenspoons baking powder.
One tablespoon poppyseed.

Stir butter and sugar together. Beat the eggs in separate dish and add to sugar and butter. Add milk. Add baking powder, flour and poppyseed sifted together. Bake in paper cups about 15 minutes.

MRS. L. B. BROWN,
424 Pressley street.
EASTER APPLE SALAD

Six eggs.
6 whole cloves.
Six green leaves.
Few drops red vegetable coloring and salad cream. Hard cook eggs in the top of a double boiler half an hour. Shell and while hot press between thumb and forefinger into a shape resembling an apple. Dissolve coloring in cup of water, and drop each egg into the coloring, leaving until delicately pink. Insert a clove in one end to represent blossom end of apple and a leaf. Hothouse rose or artificial leaves may be used to represent stem end of apple. Place the apple in a bed of crisp lettuce and serve with salad cream.

MRS. C. R. VENN,
317 Deer Lane street, Rochester.
GRAPEFRUIT A LA ST. PATRICK

One ounce (two tablespoons) granulated gelatine.
One-half cup cold water.
One-half cup boiling water.
Fresh mint.
Three fourths cup sugar.
One cup ice water.
Two cups grapefruit pulp and juice.
Maraschino cherries.

Keep the grapefruit skins in halves. Simmer a few sprigs of fresh mint in the boiling water until the flavor is extracted. Follow standard directions for making jelly. When jelly is firm, cut into cubes and pile them in grapefruit shells. Garnish with sprigs of mint and cherries.

MRS. VERNE HILL,
Box 74, Allenport.
APRICOT

One can apricots.
One tablespoon lemon juice.

Recipes Give Chance To Collect Cash Prizes

Two tablespoons gelatine.
One-third cup sugar.

Take one and one-half cups juice. Add enough water to make two cups, and heat. Then add one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons gelatine soaked for five minutes in one-fourth cup water and one-third cup sugar. Boil for five minutes. When cool, whip, then add apricots, which have been rubbed through sieve. Fill glasses that have been lined with lady fingers and serve with whipped cream.

BEAMISH URGES VOTING AT 19

HARRISBURG, March 16—(AP)—Secretary of the Commanwealth Richard J. Beamish today urged that the voting age for men and women in the United States be reduced to 19 years.

Addressing the senior class of the William Penn High School, he said the immediate effect of that change on every boy and girl over 19 would be an intense and absorbing interest in every governmental problem. He said:

Beamish also advocated a federal corporation law, declaring that under the present system fewer than 200 corporations virtually control all the business of the United States.

WHAT TO COOK, HOW, TOLD BY PRUDENCE

Below are a number of interesting and unusual recipes that have received an "honorable mention" in the Prudence Penny contest:

CASSEROLE OF RAISINS AND CARROTS—4 cups shredded raw carrots, 4 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt and dash of pepper, ½ cup raisins.

Wash raisins in hot water, mix with carrots and place in a casserole, dot with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover dish and bake one hour. Submitted by Mrs. Joseph Oliver, Wellesley avenue.

* * *

JELLIED TOMATO NUT LOAF—2 tablespoons gelatine, ½ cup cold water, small onion minced, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cloves, ½ teaspoon mustard, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 cup cold cooked rice, 1 cup broken walnut meats, ½ cup finely diced celery, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Soften gelatine in water. Cook tomatoes, onion, sugar, salt, cloves, pepper and mustard for 15 minutes. Strain and add gelatine. When beginning to set stir in one cup cold cooked rice, one cup broken walnut meats and half a cup of finely diced celery. Serve with mayonnaise. Submitted by Mrs. Walter Nicholas, Verona, Pa.

* * *

BAKED DEVILED EGGS — Baked deviled eggs are cooked in a casserole. First boil 6 eggs, slowly, until hard. Cut them in half lengthwise, remove the yolks. Mash the yolks well, and then season it to taste with salt, pepper, a little dry mustard and some Worcestershire sauce. Then moisten with undiluted evaporated milk or cream. Stuff the whites with this savory paste. Grease a shallow baking dish and arrange the egg-halves in it. Then cover with this sauce: Melt ½ tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Stir in ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon salt. Then dust in 1 tablespoon flour. Cook for three minutes. Then blend in 1½ cups milk. Add ½ cup chopped green pepper. Pour over eggs and dust lightly with pulverized cracker crumbs. Bake in moderate oven until top is browned. Serves six. Submitted by Miss Ann Freelisky, Center avenue.

* * *

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS SOUP—4 cups strained asparagus pulp, 5 cups milk, 7 tablespoons butter, 9 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Melt the butter, add the flour, salt and paprika. Mix well and gradually add milk and asparagus.

Cook about two minutes until slightly thick. Serve hot with croutons.

* * *

CROUTONS—8 slices of bread, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cut the bread into one-third-inch cubes, add the butter melted and salt. Mix well and brown in a moderate oven, stirring occasionally to permit the bread to brown evenly.

Submitted by N. M. Niehous, McKeesport, Pa.

MOTHER HUBBARD MEAL—Bake a Hubbard squash whole in a moderately hot oven (375 degress F.) 1½ to 2 hours, or until it is tender. Try it with a sharp pointed knife. Remove from the oven; cut a rather thick slice from the top of the squash; remove the seeds and then scoop out the squash itself. Mash and season the squash with butter, salt and pepper.

Have boiled together in salted water until tender 6 whole small onions, 3 four-inch slivered carrots, ½ cup chopped green pepper and flowers of cauliflower from one small head. Fold these carefully into the mashed squash and return to the shell, piling mixture about the top. Cover with buttered bread crumbs, top with grated cheese, return to hot oven (400 degrees F.) to brown, about 20 minutes.

SCHOOLGIRLS . . . AMONG 300 THEY'RE GOING ON A SPECIAL TRAIN TO VISIT WASHINGTON

Trip to Washington Sponsored by Sun-Telegraph

On to Washington! Tonight a party of more than 300 schoolboys and schoolgirls will leave Pittsburgh by special train on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for the nation's capital where they will make an all day educational tour Saturday as guests of the Sun-Telegraph.

While the majority of these youngsters are from Pittsburgh there are many from cities and towns such as McKeesport, Butler, Clairton, Greensburg, Mt. Pleasant, Jeannette, Pa., and Martins Ferry, O. They are all winners in a subscription campaign just closed. They will be accompanied by 20 representatives of this newspaper and a program has been mapped out that will give an opportunity to see all the interesting sights of Washington that can be seen in one long day.

This will include arrival in Washington at 6:30 A. M., breakfast and then sight-seeing including Washington's Monument, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, Smithsonian Institution, White House, Capitol, Lincoln Memorial, Arlington and Mt. Vernon.

It is expected that the Allegheny County delegates of the House and Senate will meet the party during the day. Of the 37 girls in the party, five are from St. Mary's High School, Webster avenue. They are Helen Johovics, 2469 Toner street; Margaret Swetonic, 3429 California avenue; Nancy Jones, 1817 Beaver avenue, Ruth Glannon, 44 Dewey street, and Mary Radosevich, 117 First street. The party will be home Sunday morning in time for church.

Colorado Counties To Be Consolidated

DENVER.—A detailed plan for consolidation of Colorado's 63 counties into 43 was recently announced by John R. Seaman, a member of the State Tax Commission, as a means of reducing taxes. Seaman would discontinue county government in areas having an assessed valuation of less than $6,000,000. In some instances, three counties could be combined.

Syrian Desert Route Run By Fast Train

BAGDAD, Iraq.—(INS.)—An automotive train of American manufacture consisting of a 35-horsepower semi-trailer caravan coach and a 20-ton semi-trailer freight car is soon to be placed in operation on the trans-Syrian desert route from Damascus to Bagdad. The train will be powered by a six-cylinder Diesel engine of 185 brake horsepower and is expected to make the trip across the desert in 16 to 18 hours compared with 10 days to two weeks formerly required.

THE PROBLEM: How can I vary my meatless meals?

Tested and Approved by the Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health of Good Housekeeping Magazine

HERE is a food so versatile it deserves a permanent place on your pantry shelf. You can fix Breast-O'-Chicken tuna in dozens of nourishing, hunger-satisfying ways . . . . its distinctive flavor blends with other ingredients to create main course dishes in a variety you never dreamed possible.

The free recipe folder, shown at the right, will give you many suggestions. Ask your grocer for it this week.

HOT TUNA LOAF

To 1 tin of Breast-O'-Chicken Tuna Fish, add 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, chopped parsley and green peppers, salt and pepper to taste. Mold in a loaf pan or ring mold. Fill center of ring with string beans, or if baked in a loaf arrange around outside. Serve hot.

YOU SAVE money when you buy Breast-O'-Chicken brand Tuna Fish because you are never disappointed with the uniformly high quality of the finest of all California tuna! Every ounce in the tin is useable, furnishing rich protein energy to your menus together with vitamin A and the "sunshine vitamin" D, so rare in modern foods. Serve it in some way every few days!

Food With Iron Essential To Bodily Health

While Some Minerals, Such as Lime and Phosphorus, Accumulate Reserve Supplies Stored Up in the Body, The Most Vital Mineral Depends on Right Selection Of Daily Diet.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City. United States Senator from New York.

In the composition of the human body are included a great many minerals. Some appear in comparatively small quantities, but all are vital to the growth and proper functioning of the body.

Nature is extremely provident. She does not limit our supplies of the essentials. Indeed the body is like a storehouse where the necessary elements are kept in reserve for future use. These reserves can be called upon when, for one reason or another, the regular intake of the minerals is impossible. .....

For example, in the bones of the body are found reserves of lime and phosphorus. If the food does not furnish these elements in sufficient quantities, call can be made upon the reserve supply. Unless the ordinary supply is cut off for a long time, no harm results from the temporary use of the stored up materials.

What I have said, however, does not apply to all minerals. For instance, reserve stocks of iron are not found, and on this account it is necessary for the body to have a regular supply of iron, or serious damage results.

The hemoglobin of the blood has a most important function. Without a steady supply of iron this function is disturbed.

LIKE FREIGHT CARS

The red corpuscles are like 7freight cars carrying oxygen to every part of the body. While the figure is somewhat strained, it may be said that the hemoglobin corresponds to the persons who load freight cars. Even though there is an abundance of cargo waiting to be put on the freight cars, they cannot be loaded unless the men do their work.

It is just the same with oxygen and its transportation to the remote parts of the body. Unless the workmen, the hemoglobin, do their part, the red cells will make their trips without being properly loaded.

PROPER FOODS NEEDED

The chief constituent of the hemoglobin is iron. Without this iron the red corpuscles cannot function. The wise man sees to it that this iron supply is provided for every day.

You cannot get this iron you need by taking iron filings or chewing carpet tacks. You cannot get the iron you need by taking pills or powders. You cannot get it out of a bottle. The way to get iron is by selection and eating of proper foods.

Among the foods carrying iron are lean beef, egg yolk, oatmeal, whole-grain wheat, dried beans and peas, spinach, prunes and almonds. Be sure to include these essential foods in your diet.

EDITOR ROW UP TO ROOSEVELT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 16.—(AP.)—The furore over the "psalm of politics" has been carried to the White House.

Because the Louisville Courier-Journal still declines to tell a now-famous secret, the Kentucky House of Repesentatives seeks to have Robert W. Bingham, the paper's publisher, recalled as ambassador to London.

The "psalm" appeared in a letter in the Courier-Journal over the signature, "A Member of the House of Representatives." Legislators called it a calumny on their body and sought to punish the editor, Vance Armentrout, for refusing to furnish the name of the writer. He said it was a confidence he could not ethically break.

Yesterday, after Armentrout filed a $50,000 suit seeking damages for false arrest, the House voted 44 to 39 to ask President Roosevelt to recall Bingham unless the secret were bared in six hours.

The Courier-Journal indicated plainly that it had no intention of meeting the demand, now or ever. At the expiration of the six hours, the House resolution was telegraphed to the President.

Chile Editor Gets 60-Day Jail Term

SAN CARLOS, Chile, March 16. (AP.)—The editor and owner of the newspaper El Heraldo was in jail today under sentence of 60 days for failure to comply with a law compelling filing of four copies of the paper in the national library. He went to jail in lieu of paying a heavy fine despite his plea that someone stole the papers, which had really been sent to the library.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS!

Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance

By MARION BRUNOT

Desire Is to Give Assistance Where It Is Needed

One of my very good friends is WORRIED ABOUT ME. She says I am not HIGH BROW ENOUGH. She insists this column is not EXPRESSING THE REAL ME. For she feels certain I am one of the kind who in reality is always floating up among the zephyrs. I am one of the UPPER TEN in INTELLECT.

She has known me for a long stretch of years, and she says with conviction my way of thinking is up among the BLUE. That I should be writing about technology and why during the early ages, the trend of civilization was toward the West, and what is the psychological reaction of modern thinking upon the entire world as we know it today.

That this incessant writing on love and domesticity and its general influence is a FLOP so far as I am concerned.

This friend of mine is utterly sincere. Her disappointment in me is so genuine, that I feel sorry whenever I meet her. But never have I felt quite sorry enough to change my writing.

There was a man named Erasmus Wilson, who was an early columnist in Pittsburgh. In fact, he wrote a column on the old Gazette Times before the days when everyone who was alloted a specific space in the news was nomenclatured columnist. He wrote when his articles were referred to as "pieces in the paper."

Erasmus Wilson spoke of corn huskings, and bobsleds and maple syrup pouring out of the trunks of trees, and into tin buckets. He talked of the homely, everyday doings of the people of Western Pennsylvania, and seldom did he wander into the category of three-syllabled words. And he kept right down to doing this very thing for years, and his great bulk of a human figure was welcome everywhere. For everybody knew the genuineness of the man and loved him.

MEMORIES LINGER

And although he died in the early twenties of the present century, he is still remembered by thousands of the elder generation. And when I referred to him recently even to a very youthful reporter who was interviewing me for a tale in a local weekly, the young fellow said:

"Oh, Ras Wilson. He was the greatest of Pittsburgh columnists."

And yet he was never a HIGH BROW. He never mentioned the weighty and problematical dissertations of his era. Rather did he prefer the Whitcomb Rileys and the Wheeler Wilcoxes. He liked to traipse up to the home of the Roycrofts when the summer was green and stay there and sit on a bench in the Roycroft grounds with Elbert Hubbard. And as we all know Elbert was not rated among the first in the bluebloods of the mind. But rather as an Immortal.

Elbert's "Little Journeys Into the Homes of People" were not erudite. Rather were the human interest documents.

Among the visitors in the office of Erasmus Wilson were the lowly. The man with the tin cup was his reader. The old and the heavy laden came to him. And none of them went away empty-handed.

This big man also was received warmly by governors of state, by great educators. His was a keen understanding of the frailties of all men, whether great or small.

NOT WORRIED

So I am not worried very much when even one of my best friends chides me for being simple in my thoughts. I am not trying for the halo of the HIGH BROW. For rather would I feel that in some living moment I was an aid to the young girl who needed help while she still has plenty of time to make her youth count. Rather would I be thought by some poor boy to be worthy of rehearsing his hopes and his troubles into my ears, than to be looked upon by a few as an Aristophanes.

Maybe I couldn't be like that ancient philosopher, anyway. Perhaps I haven't lugged enough heavy books away from the library. I may have too many emotions within me. Tears may come too readily to my eyes and laughter to my lips. I may not have the right angle on the bread line to be appreciated by the high minded.

Yet, thank God, I haven't to put on my glasses to see the beggar and the delivery boy at my rear door. Neither do I have to leave off my everyday vocabulary when I write an honest-to-goodness opinion upon an ordinary situation.

Fay King Writes About the Poverty That Lies in Wealth

By FAY KING

In how many cases we may compare a rich man with a poor man and see how much more the latter is getting out of life.

How many fine houses with elegant furnishings are really empty-empty of the best things in life?

In others where there have been children, they have grown up lacking in strength of character or ambition of mind to make the most of the wealth and opportunity to which they were born.

They are hardly more than the relicts of life, except for a background of family name and funds that can hide their failings.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Second Hand High!!!

Contract bridge, just like any other game or form of human activity, has its fair share of meaningless platitudes, most of which are carried over from the old days of Whist. Some of these are: "Always cover an honor," "Never lead away from a King," and "Second Hand low." Generally speaking, there is a modicum of truth in all these so-called rules, but the advanced Bridge player of today realizes that there are numerous occasions when he should break them and recognizes the times when it is proper to do so.

Today's hand, which is Hand No. 8 of the recent World Bridge Olympic, involves a situation wherein a defensive player should jump up with a King as Second Hand—a spectacular but basically sound play.

West, Dealer.

	♠ Q J 10 5 3 ♡ A 7 6 ◇ 6 3 ♣ J 8 3
♠ A 6 4 ♡ Q J 9 ◇ A K 7 4 ♣ K 10 4	North West East South	♠ K 2 ♡ 8 5 4 2 ◇ Q J 9 5 ♣ A 6 5
	♠ 9 8 7 ♡ K 10 3 ◇ 10 8 2 ♣ Q 9 7 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	1 ♠	2 ◇	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding needs no comment.

North's natural Opening against the three-notrump contract is the spade Queen. The Declarer, knowing at least two hearts must be lost in order to set up his ninth trick, quite properly ducks this first spade lead in both hands in an attempt to eventually keep the North player from running possible setting tricks in spades.

The spade continuation is won with Dummy's King and a low heart now led. South must play his King on this trick in order to retain any hope of defeating the contract—without knowing for certain that his partner holds the Ace. This play furnishes the defense with the necessary additional tempo to establish North's spade suit before the heart Ace. North's only probable card of re-entry, is driven out. When South wins the trick with the heart King he removes the Declarer's last spade stopper. Now when North gets in with the heart Ace, which he must eventually do, he can cash two spade tricks, which will defeat the contract. Incidentally, the play of the heart King could lose a trick or tricks only in those rare instances in which North might hold a singleton honor or the Ace-Queen or Ace-Knave alone. From the bidding this is most unlikely. The play of the heart King, although seemingly a very difficult one, particularly for the beginner, should be made by all careful students of the game.

Tomorrow's Hand

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A ♡ 10 9 4 ◇ A Q 5 ♣ K J 8 7 3 2

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Hints for the Household

If a cake is burnt, scrape it carefully and brush it with well-beaten white of an egg. Then dust with castor sugar and bake for five minutes. All signs of burning will then have disappeared.

Pear porcupine is an excellent party sweet. Allow half a pear to each person. Stewed or tinned pears will do. Put the half pears in individual glasses and pour over each some melted jelly, any flavor that is liked. Set aside to cool and set. When cold cover with whipped cream and garnish generously with blanched almonds, which should be stuck in hedgehog fashion. Peaches may be treated in a similar way.

To remove grease marks from white enameled woodwork, use a soft cloth wrung out of warm water to which liquid ammonia in the proportion of one teacup to a pint of water has been added.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Reviews Years of Her Childhood

As I uttered my tremulous, thankful query to my father, after Lee Chow's exit from the room, he smiled down at me with infinite tenderness.

"I think sometimes I am psychic concerning any need of yours for me," he said. "Perhaps it is because for so many years I wandered a parish seeking you, that you became the one obsessing thought of my life."

His rich, organ-like voice broke ever so slightly, and I put my arms about his neck and my face close to his.

"I know, dearest and best of fathers," I murmured, and for several seconds we stood locked in that close embrace, while my memory gave me lightning-like glimpses of that time of which he was speaking.

I never had any childish memories of my father. When I was four years old, he had deserted my mother and me and gone away with my mother's best friend. I had been raised to implacable resentment against him, but my mother on her deathbed had charged me to love and forgive him, if he ever came into my life and needed me. Something in that solemn injunction had made me realize that my mother was remorsefully admitting to me—and to her own soul—that she had been partly at fault for the cataclysm which had destroyed her life.

MEMORIES

That the other woman had been but an episode in my father's life, and that my mother had been for him the "one woman" ever after denied him, I knew. He had asked for a reconciliation not long after his desertion of her, but met with a stern denial and an edict forbidding him ever to come near either her or me.

Then he had disappeared from our lives until after my marriage, when his long search for me—which had given him the sobriquet of "The Questor of Broadway"—had ended in his recognition of my likeness to my mother.

I have been able to make his later years a happy as his remorseful memories of my mother will permit, and his children are considering the task of healing his sorrow. He adores Junior, but I know that Baby Faith, given at his request a name of my mother's which he alone used, and bearing a startling resemblance to me and to my mother, is the most precious thing on earth to him.

I guessed that memories were sways on my father, too—memories that went back farther than mine. I knew it when he tightened his clasp of me, and said wistfully:

"Have I been a good father to you, my darling? God knows I have meant to be, but a man cannot understand sometimes."

WORTH THE COST

I took an arm from around his neck and laid my hand firmly across his lips.

"You always have had the most divine understanding," I whispered. "Please do not underrate yourself. I never, never can tell you what you have been to me."

He bent and kissed me fondly.

"You do not need to tell me anything," he said. "You have shown your love for me every moment of our life together. You and your children have healed wounds that I did not think could be healed. And I want you always to remember that all my life is at your service."

"Now, let me answer the question you asked me just now. I knew you needed me, because I had been watching you, or rather watching Lee Chow, through that balcony window outside."

He pointed to an odd little window several feet from the ground, high up in the wall.

"Father!" I gasped. "How ever did you get up there?"

"I was an athlete once, my dear," he said, "and I had a strong incentive for the climb. I knew that I must watch Lee Chow, and find out what he was trying to do."

I swayed against him at a sudden memory.

"His eyes!" I whispered fearfully. "Did you see his eyes?"

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

Note of Thanks

Dear Mr. Beekman:

I received a pretty card and a very lovely handkerchief from my boy friend's aunt in a distant city.

I am in doubt as to whether I should send her a note thanking her for her thoughtfulness, and also my appreciation, as I have only met her once. If this is proper, will you kindly give me a little letter of this nature?

B.

By all means, write at once and thank the friendly woman for her kindness. Something like this, perhaps:

Dear Mrs. Anderson:

How very kind you were to send me the beautiful card and long, long memories and in sending me, I feel, to express your delight in receiving "The Lady Elizabeth" is quite the loveliest one that I have ever owned.

I have such lovely memories of our meeting Mrs. Anderson, and I am looking forward with the greatest anticipation to seeing you again. [illegible] do let me see you.

All good wishes to you.

Devotedly,

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Once Dreaded Smallpox Still Menace to Health

Recently a worried mother asked a medical friend of mine whether his children had been vaccinated. When told that each of them had been vaccinated at the age of 6 months, she replied, "Well! if you allow your children to be vaccinated it must be safe and a good thing and I'll let you vaccinate mine."

Dr. Copeland

Too many persons have the mistaken idea that vaccination is a harmful procedure. Sometimes they compare it to the prick of a rusty needle, which may lead to serious and even fatal poisoning. Of course, this is an absurd comparison, because vaccination is a scientific, sanitary and painless procedure. It is the only safeguard against contracting smallpox.

At one time this was a world-wide disease. It afflicted rich and poor alike, in all parts of the globe. Before the discovery of vaccination by Edward Jenner in 1796, only five persons out of every hundred escaped this dreaded disease. About 25 per cent of those attacked by it died and the remainder became disfigured or maimed for life.

Today the disease is encountered in those regions only where facilities for vaccination are not available, or where the procedure is not enforced. I am confident that if vaccination against smallpox were universally practiced, the disease would soon be completely eradicated.

We never know when an epidemic of small pox may come to plague us. Certainly it is the part of wisdom to take every precaution against that peril. This can be accomplished by the vaccination of all children and adults.

Do not be misled by the belief that smallpox no longer exists in this country. Within the past decade more than a million cases of smallpox have been reported. It is true that this figure is small compared to the prevalence of the disease before vaccination was known, but the danger still exists. By thorough and periodic vaccination against smallpox, this number will be greatly reduced and eventually the disease will disappear.

I am glad to say that in certain states vaccination is compulsory for all children. No child can be admitted to a public school in the state of New York unless he can present a certificate of evidence of a successful vaccination.

If you live in a state where this law is not enforced, I would advise that you consult with your physician. Every baby should be vaccinated against smallpox before reaching its first birthday. Do not deprive your family of this safe and simple protection against a dreaded disease.

JUNIOR PATROL

But it isn't for school children—just for grown-ups.

We are going to find out now how well some people can spell. And you know, fellows, we kind of suspect that there are a lot of people who can't spell very well.

Maybe when they went to school they didn't study their lessons right. Maybe some of them didn't have a chance to go to school much. Well, spelling is important. Almost every time you write a letter or an essay you have to use some words that some people don't spell right.

Take "friend" for instance. You would think every boy and girl would know how to spell "friend" right, wouldn't you? And yet we get letters in which children spell "freind" and "frend"—looks funny, doesn't it? Watch your own spelling, fellows. Make it a rule to look up any word you are not sure of in the dictionary.

Here is a letter from a brother and sister, George and Edith Brown, of Baden, Pa. They have both been elected captain of a patrol, one for girls and the other for boys, and so we are sending them each an armband! Here is George's letter:

"I have a patrol of 11. These are pals of mine going to a country school. So I would like to have one of your armbands. The boys have all picked me for a captain. Mother is going to help me. Daddy got a radio for us and we listen to your radio program. Someday, I'm hoping our patrol will be able to do something on the radio."

And here is Edith's letter:

"I have 11 in my patrol, too. We are looking forward this summer to having a nice time at our meetings. Of course, mother will help because there hasn't been anything like a Junior Patrol out here in the country. We used to live in town. Mother was a Camp Fire guardian so you see she can help a lot. You'll be hearing from us later when we meet outside."

That's wonderful of your mother to take so much interest in your patrol, George and Edith. We are very glad you have started patrols in the country. Write and tell us more about it as soon as you can. Your armbands will reach you soon.

DOG MOTIFS — PATTERN 658

Dogs in Simple Embroidery

Dogs—droll—decorative—easy to embroider—what is more desirable for refreshment linens that should look smart but not take long to make? These dogs—done entirely in single-stitch, with just a bit of outline and lazy-daisy, are just the thing for towels for the kitchen. If there are some linen showers in the near future, these designs will certainly make acceptable gifts. There are sufficient motifs in this pattern for a variety of linens such as a teacloth, a bridge cloth and four napkins, or a bridge cloth and a cute breakfast set of runner, mats and napkins or a quantity of towels.

Pattern 658 comes to you with a transfer pattern of four motifs 3½x8½ inches, four bridge motifs 3½x5 inches and four napkin motifs 1¾x2¾ inches, yardage requirements and suggestions for using them on a variety of linens.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

HEINZ

In the early days of our country business was simple and neighborly—almost a family matter. Relations between the merchant and his customer were of a personal character. It was in those days that the old saying, "His word is as good as his bond" was born. It was in those days, too, that the Heinz business was born. And that is one reason why we continue to value so highly the intimate good will of our customers. We can never hope to know them all personally, because many of them live as far away as Tokio and Melbourne. But we try to deal with them just as honestly as though they were standing across the old-fashioned counter of other years.

Our Forefathers Faltered Over

OVEN-BAKED BEANS

LISTEN to some scandal about our straight-laced sires. They had a weakness, a grave, recurring weakness, for oven-baked beans! They could hardly wait for Saturday night supper. They would fret about the house all week long. They would hang around the kitchen on Saturday, getting in the way. They would sniff at the bean-pot in the oven. They would get a wild, wild look in their eyes.

That is how the trouble all began. Those old Colonial dames knew a bag of baked-bean tricks. And they used them.

They baked their beans slow and they baked their beans long. They baked them till they were munchy, and mealy, and sublime. They baked the moisture out of them and baked the rich sauce in. They baked them till our forefathers couldn't bear it any longer.

Then they watched our forefathers munch—and munch—and munch.

Now these beans, ladies, have the old sure-fire lure, if they're baked in the same old way. So we bake the Heinz Beans through and through in hot, dry ovens.

And the gentlemen still sniff and munch the way they used to do.

So hurry to your grocer's for a tin of Heinz Oven-Baked Beans. Heat them and serve them to your man.

And please do bear in mind that

HEINZ are really oven-baked BEANS

Baring intimate soul-secrets of HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP

Ssh! This is how we make that captivating, irresistible sauce of ours. This is how we give it that food-glorifying, appetite-goading flavor. Don't think it doesn't strain us to the uttermost. It does. Listen to the rules:

(1) Get the tomatoes! Cross-breed seeds. Cultivate plants. Keep at it till you get tomatoes more luscious, more wholesome than ever before.

(2) Get them FRESH! Watch the tomatoes till they are at their red-ripe prime. Then pick them, rush them to the ketchup kitchens, sort, wash, scald and sieve them. Quick—a few brief hours from the growing plants—set their lively goodness to simmering.

(3) Get the spices! Get the finest spices there are, with the keenest, most enchanting flavors. Go round the world. Select them first hand. But get the best!

(4) Blend them just so! . . . Enough, enough! The secret of this blending we will not bare. That is the deepest, darkest secret of this rare and wondrous sauce. Taste it!—and you will understand why we cherish the magic formula.

Well, that is how we make Heinz Tomato Ketchup. That is how we make it so utterly delightful that it has come to be

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

When you have a column to gather—you let the chips fall where they may—and often a stomp of the barbs summons mutual friends to get you to stop. . . . One of the movie actresses frinstance, did that only recently. . . . "He picks on me incessantly," she contended, "someone must have given him a wrong slant on me. I'm not like that, at all!" . . . But she is like that! . . . And the newest aggravation is considerable ill-making. . . . An actor, who was once a big-timer when she wasn't, was cast for her new flicker. . . . He had never bungled a line in his career—stage or screen. . . . He is an artist. . . . One of his passages called for him to say "The Duke and Duchess of Milan, etc." . . . He pronounced it Milon. . . . The star screeched: "No! Milon—MilAHN!" . . . The scene was done over again—and in his confusion and embarrassment before the others, he said Milon again. . . . The star screamed at the top of his voice: "Get me an actor who can speak the lines!" . . . The director, however, ignored her and permitted the player to try it again. . . . This time he did it to order. . . . This, however, failed to please the irritable woman, and she refused to go on until he was replaced. . . . And so he was fired—because he couldn't handle the broad "A". . . . She is better described as a waitress' idea of elegance.

The other evening I related a human-interest tale concerning an actress in Hollywood—so much different. . . . Her name is Joan Crawford. . . . The editor of a Peru (Ind.) newspaper had sent me the story. . . . It dealt with two lads, natives of Denver, Ind., nearby—who had been in Hollywood and broke. . . . While cleaning a restaurant they found a dollar which they returned to the boss. He was so impressed—he decided to tell it to Miss Crawford. . . . Not until the following Christmas did the boys learn that Joan Crawford was their benefactress, who helped them to get home in style, etc. . . . The editor, in jotting down his notes, confused Joan's birthday. . . . He said it was March 14—on which day the town of Denver, Ind., with 250 population, will celebrate in her honor. . . . The star long-distanced me. . . . "Thank you," she said, "for the nice story—but my birthday is March 23d!" . . . And so this is to correct the confused Hoosiers, and any others who intended sending their good wishes. . . . It doesn't matter how old Joan is. . . . Gentlemen, as the saying goes, remember a lady's birthday—never her age.

Returning voyagers bring the word that Ambassador Bullitt is studying how to become unpopular with Americans in the Soviet. . . . Because Bullitt had refused to let the Embassy staff supply them with American cigarettes. . . . They are priceless over there, and the staff had diplomatic immunity to bring in as many as they like. . . . And the locals in Russia were praying for official recognition just so they'd be able to get them! . . . Those of us who have ached for a ciggie and couldn't get one—will weep with those wretched Americans in Moscow. . . . The abuse bunched for Sheriff Holley, the lady from whose jail Dillinger is playing hookey, drew a nifty from Will Rogers. . . He said: "I feel sorry for her—she thought she was surrounded by men!" . . . A splendid thrust. . . . And quite an orchid for Mrs. Holley. . . . And if it is true that Paramount films are doing one on Dillinger's career, they are welcome to this title: "From Holley to Hollywood."

At the fights the other night Rudy Vallee sat in the next box and remarked that he never in his life made a wager on anything. . . . I persuaded him to lay the odds of $1.50 to $1 that there'd be a knockout in the bout then on. . . . Vallee won his first wager! . . . Thus did a city slicker and sinner tempt and lead astray a good little boy from Maine. . . . I was thinking of what I'd do if I owned a newspaper. . . . I would hire reporters and not journalists. . . . Alexander Woollcott would cover all the murders. . . . Percy Hammond's drama attacks would be on page one. . . . Anybody on my staff who carried a cane would have it broken on his skull—for fear the darn things might trip one of my good men. . . . I'd outbid all competitors to get H. R. Knickerbocker, who not only writes well but his luck is good, too. . . . He beat the world on the King Albert death. . . . And in a strange manner, too. . . . He was in an Austrian restaurant and overheard the boss tell it to the waitress! . . . I'd have Damon Runyon printed in gold ink.

I can't get enough of the newest of my time favorites—"You Ought To Be In Pictures". . . I like that contrib's last line to a long letter: "Well, even if none of this makes a filler or two for your column—it makes swell practice shots for the waste-basket". . . . The mail is getting too tough to handle with just the two of us here. . . . Therefore, unless self-addressed and stamped envelopes accompany contributions that are to be returned if not used, they will be wickered. . . . I don't blame the cast of "Sailor, Beware!" for wanting to quit—considering that they were asked to take a cut—after they helped the producer make a fortune. . . . Are producers people? . . . Of the similes I'd have recommended to the late Frank Wilstach's book of them would be Bugs Baer's "He had as much chance as a grand piano on a circular staircase" and Paul Sabin's "Deceitful as a girdle". . . . In Roget's Thesaurus (authorized American edition 1933) Willard Jerome Heggen, who edited and revised the work, in his introduction on page 25, has this to groan about: "Some writers, however, have indulged in a habit of fabricating new words and a new-fangled phraseology without any necessity, and with manifest injury to the purity of the language. This vicious practice, the offspring of indolence or conceit, implies an ignorance or neglect of the riches in which the English language already abounds, and which would have supplied them with words of recognized legitimacy, conveying precisely the same meaning as those they so recklessly coin in the illegal mint of their own fancy". . . . Whew! What a long sentence!

Mr. Heggen's criticism and his defense of wordage is certainly to be applauded, but hardly by me. . . . When I encounter arguments like his—I think of college professors and other learned men and women who are too poor. . . . As for example, Mr. Heggen's revised edition of a great work—which may be purchased in the drug store for 89 cents.

Travel Movie Barrymore Idea

By CINEMA

HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—Ladies and gentlemen, meet John Barrymore, producer of travel films in sound and dialogue and writer of homelife and camping stories.

Mr. Barrymore has just purchased a complete sound record outfit which matches up with his movie cameras. John plans to make a two or three-reel travelogue which marks the return to the screen of Dolores Costello (Mrs. John Barrymore) and the cinematic debut of John Barrymore, Jr.

John has written a camping-out yarn which has three locales—Yosemite, a bear hunt and salmon fishing in Alaska. As soon as he completes his stellar role in "20th Century" for Columbia, the Barrymore tribe will pack up and start their journey, photographing and recording as they go.

An idea such as this should prove tremendously interesting to all movie fans—and jaded Hollywood as well. RKO has made a deal to release the production when completed—if it turns out as well as John expects.

* * *

John T. Murray writes:

"Through you I would like my name to be put in nomination of the Academy award for the most consistent lay-off of the year. Other non-stop performances pale into insignificance."

* * *

Charlie Grayson, the youngish novelist, and Irene Harvey were actually talking things over! . . . Ted Fio-Rito's in town and busy resting up so he can overwork himself at the Cocoanut Grove, opening March 19. . . . George Hadden, the Fox megaphonist, has taken over the Chateau Marmont's penthouse and is making it a Chinese palace. Even the wallpaper is to be imported. . . . Ginger Rogers and Lew Ayres have been auto-smuggling it while gnawing on goodies at Carpenter's sandwich stands. . . . George O'Brien just blew himself to a new gasoline buggy. . . . Director E. H. Griffith is questioning exhibitors whether the title "Alien Corn" should be changed. . . . Here's a scoop! The Crosley ratings for radio stars—Eddie Cantor, 54; the Showboat, 45, and Rudy Vallee, 38; which means that out of every 100 other wave listeners, 54 tune in on Cantor and so on down the line. That is amazing, rawther. . . . Oscar Smith, Paramount shoeshiner, has appeared in 910 movies, which must be a record!

* * *

Gloria Stuart and Nils Asther will be co-billed for cooing in "The Humbug." Max Marcin's Universal celluloid. . . . Barbara Vizzarra is suing Rudy for divorce! . . . The Bela Lugosi-Boris Karloff feud is still raging. Bela brought his own chair on the set yesterday with his monicker painted in letters that big on it!

* * *

"Was the father surprised when the fellow said he wanted to marry the daughter?" questioned Bing.

"Was he?" cracked Errol. "So much so the gun nearly fell out of his hand!"

Will Rogers Is Fulton Star In 'David Harum'

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Will Rogers hits his "State Fair" stride again in "David Harum," grand comedy film in the Fulton, which packed 'em in from the word 'go" yesterday. In fact, from a time considerably previous to the moment that word is delivered by a starting judge in the funniest and most exciting horse race you ever saw on the screen, as the climax of a swell picturization of the Edward Noyes Westcott novel of the early nineties that was immensely popular.

All of the atmosphere of the book is preserved, which will be welcome news to those familiar with it, and some additions have been made that do not hurt it a bit. One might think that the period would make it somewhat out of date, yet, while that period is preserved, its human story and delightful humor is as fresh and welcome today as it ever was, and its locale, though originally in central New York, could just as well be anywhere in the United States where there is a country bank, country hotel and country characters.

Mr. Rogers, in the title role, does a grand job of portraying a country banker who loves to trade horses and spout home-made philosophy and pointed comments, some of which are peculiarly applicable to our present industrial and financial situation. He is shrewd in business and a slicker in a horse trade. Particularly when he trades with the Deacon, who has stung him, and with whom he evens up by selling him a handsome nag "that will stand without hitching, and which a woman can drive as well as a man." All being true, because the horse, faultless in other respects, is a balker, a fact that adds much to the comedy of the picture.

Yet the animal only needs the proper kind of persuasion, and he later wins a horse race.

Between his banking business and horse-trading Mr. Harum finds time to promote a romance between Kent Taylor and Evelyn Venable, and to fool the Deacon in his intention of taking over the property of a widow on a mortgage.

Miss Venable is lovely and charming as a city girl, long a friend of David, who becomes interested in his young bank clerk, played by Kent Taylor. The Deacon is a well-done characterization by Charles Middleton. Stepin Fetchit helps the comedy along, too.

Gieseking to Appear As Soloist

Making his third appearance in as many years as soloist with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, Walter Gieseking, pianist, will be featured at the orchestra's concert in Syria Mosque Sunday evening. He will play Rachmaninoff's Second Concerto for Piano and Orchestra. For the orchestral portion of the program, Antonio Modarelli, conductor, has chosen the First Symphony of Brahms and the Nocturne, "Fetes," by Debussy. Tickets are now available at Mellor's, and will go on sale at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Syria Mosque boxoffice.

All In A Day

By MARK HELLINGER

The Last Resort

OUTSIDE, the thermometer hovered around the zero mark. Inside the squalid flat, it was not much warmer. The woman, in a worn old sweater, lifted the lid of the stove and peered in at the dying fire. Her hands and lips were blue with cold.

"John, we've got to do something," she said anxiously. "I put the kids to bed so's they'd be warmer, but they're crying. They're cold. Hungry, too, I guess. Ain't there anything we can do, John?"

The man shivered. He moved closer to the fire, shrugged helplessly.

"I been to every charity organization in town," he declared. "They all promised to do something. Yeah, and not one of 'em has done a thing." His voice was bitter. "I been every place I could think of looking for a job. I don't know what more I can do."

"I'll do something," he vowed. "I'll get money for coal and eats, you wait and see. I'll get it, sure's my name is John Anthony."

His wife glanced at him fearfully.

"What are you going to do?" she queried.

John didn't answer. He was struggling into his overcoat. He pulled a battered felt hat down over his eyes. Then the door slammed.

In the dark hall outside, John stood uncertain. He hadn't answered Nell's question, because he didn't know the answer himself.

He knew of no way of getting money honestly, and John Anthony was, by instinct, an honest man. He had never committed a crooked act in his entire life. But then, up to the past year or so, he had always had a job of some sort.

That was all he asked from life, a chance to earn enough money to keep his family sheltered and fed. Now even that was denied him. If he was forced to take other means, dishonest means, to get the bare necessities of life, surely it was no more than any other man would do.

Thus John Anthony argued to himself, still uncertain. He realized the seriousness of the thing he was contemplating. But other men got away with it. Every day the newspapers were filled with accounts of holdups, successful holdups. It was only the habitual criminals who were caught.

Not a holdup, though. He decided quickly against that. For one thing, he had no gun. Even if he had, he would have been afraid to use it. His hands clenched desperately. There must be some way. He seemed to hear again the baby's whimpering sobs. He remembered Nell's face, pinched with anxiety and cold. A man couldn't stand by and watch his wife and kids starve. He'd do something. He had to.

He stepped out into the wintry dusk. The street was almost deserted. There was only one other individual in sight. A woman in a fur coat was turning the corner, carrying her purse under her arm. The sight of that purse caused something to snap in John's brain.

"This is it," he decided. "Now. Before I lose my nerve. She looks like she wouldn't miss a few bucks."

His heart was pounding loudly. When he tried to move, his knees shook so that he could hardly stand.

The woman came nearer. John lunged toward her, and his hand shot out, closed over her pocketbook. A quick tug and it was in his fingers. It was as easy as that.

John began to run. He heard the woman scream as he raced down the street. There was an alley between two houses a little further on, and he knew if he could make that he would be all right.

What happened after that was nothing short of disastrous. There was ice on the pavement that he failed to notice in his haste and excitement. His legs slid from under him, and he went sprawling on the sidewalk.

He was up again in scarcely a minute, but that minute was just long enough. He heard his victim shrieking. There was a rush of footsteps. Two or three people appeared suddenly, as though out of thin air. Among them was a cop, and John began to shudder in hysterical panic. Now his limbs were totally numb. He couldn't have moved from the spot.

He was yanked roughly by the coat collar, but in any event he would have made no attempt to get away. His face was twisted in a bitter grimace. He might have known that he couldn't have got away with it. Just his luck to have something like this happen. He tried to console himself with the thought that he had been left no alternative.

The woman whom he had robbed was babbling excitedly, and the officer continued to hold John Anthony firmly while he endeavored to dispel the rapidly-collecting crowd.

"You'll come along quiet and peacefullike," he said, "if you know what's good for you."

Then to the woman in the fur coat, "You'll have to file charges, lady. That okay with you?"

"Certainly, I'll do that," the woman promised. "There are too many of these criminals getting away with things like this. And I can't afford to be roobed.

"I'm a representative from a charitable organization," she explained further. "The purse that crook attempted to steal from me contained a meal ticket and some money for a needy family. I was on my way to deliver them to people right here in this block, people by the name of Anthony." . . .

Jean Is Frank About Age

"I'm 22," she says, "and I don't care who knows it. I don't want to be called 18, or 20, and I don't want it said I'm in the 'early twenties.' I'm 22. Ten years from now I'll be 32. That's that!"

Whether or not Miss Muir will stand by that agreement with herself when she is 32, only time can tell. Right now she is as determined about this as she is about anything—and she is a determined young lady.

It seems she has always been so. When she learned, only a few months ago, that she was to be brought to Hollywood under contract to the Warner Studios, she made up her firm young mind not to be like other young hopefuls who have invaded the film capital under similar circumstances in increasing numbers each succeeding year.

"I will be different," she promised herself. "I will always stay different."

To date she has kept that promise. Those who have occasion to run counter to the even course she has steered in Hollywood may call her obstinate. Those who have gone along with her believe the young heroine of "As the Earth Turns" and "A Modern Hero" is only exceptionally intelligent—and honest.

And her insistence that her age be reported correctly is quoted as evidence of both her honesty and her good sense. She's all of 22!

The Secret of Oxydol

That Makes Clothes Whiter, Sweeter Than Ever Before!

"How I used to scold poor Jenny when my things were not as white and clean as I thought they should be! This year things have changed. Oxydol cuts the labor of clothes-washing so tremendously and at the same time the whole wash is much whiter and sweeter than ever before!"

Mrs. C. E. Lasher, Astoria, N. Y.

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Lasher has found — then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory — the New and Improved Oxydol!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade, fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft, finger nails lustrous and uncracked.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. Oxydol SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved Oxydol will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. And the Oxydol you get here contains just the right amount of softener to fit it. You can see the results in the suds. Oxydol multiplies 500 TIMES in suds — suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that Oxydol, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And Oxydol is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8% to 30% more to get the same amount of soap. By buying Oxydol, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get Oxydol today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler measure Oxydol's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap — note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that Oxydol does soak out the dirt in 15 minutes!

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Many Deals Involve Ruel. Ancient Rowing Classic. Sarazen Hits at Jones.

The long-awaited and very welcome closing of the heavyweight title natural between Primo Carnera and Max Baer, set for June 14 in the Long Island City Bowl of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, means that the one fighter who appears normally capable of taking the world championship from Carnera is at last to get the opportunity. But to what extent, if any, Baer is going to profit by that opportunity will depend entirely on what the challenger can accomplish in the way of serious conditioning between now and the date of the battle.

Max Baer

Max has a lot of ground to make up, a steep hill to climb. Comparative form on paper indicates that at his best he could defeat the Man Mountain. He has the punch and all the rest of the necessary physical and mechanical equipment. But in addition to not having fought since last June—and you saw in the Hamas fight what a similar period of ring idleness had done to the clean-living Max Schmeling—Max has lived the soft and gay life of a playboy, which must have taken a heavy toll from his fighting side. Even at 25 a fighter can't hold his own against that game. Right now, Baer wouldn't have a chance against Carnera. It's up to himself and the degree of seriousness with which he trains in the meantime what sort of chance he will have on June 14. The hardest part of the fight for him will come before he enters the ring.

EX-DUKES FACE TEST IN FIRST PRO GAME

Stepping right out to become a professional team at the conclusion of their college playing careers, as did the Jewels, of St. John's, the graduating members of this year's Duquesne University basketball squad will be up against a hard test in their first game tonight, when they meet the Rosenblum Celtics in the Duke gym. However, there is a lot of speed and endurance in the combination of Reiter, Moore, MacDougall, Brenner, Feldman, Zerilla and Aubrey Davies, and those qualities ought to help them against the Celts, who are not so keen about a big floor.

Meanwhile Johnny Freund, who has booked the former Dukes for six straight playing dates, is going ahead with his plans to put them in the professional league proposed for next season in this district. The league promoters report favorable replies from clubs in Wheeling, Steubenville, Butler, Charleroi, Akron and Erie. It is stipulated that each team admitted must have a responsible sponsor who will agree to hire a coach of experience, preferably a mentor who has played professional basketball. For coach of the Pittsburgh team, Freund has in mind Benny Borgeman, formerly with the Celtics and also with several of the American League clubs.

RUEL IN THREE TRADES AND THREE SALES

Muddy Ruel, veteran catcher, who found a job with the White Sox this week as coach and extra receiver when the illness of Mervyn Shea left Manager Lew Fonseca short of backstops, has figured in a lot of trades and sales in his 19 years of service in the American League.

Ruel, now with his sixth club in that circuit, has been traded three times and has been passed along in the same number of cash deals.

Muddy Ruel

After the Browns shipped him to Memphis in 1916, Muddy was sold to the Yankees, and following the season of 1920 the Yanks traded him to the Red Sox, with Pratt, Vick and Thormahlen, for Waite Hoyt, present Pirate; Schang, McNally and Harper. After two seasons in Boston Ruel was swapped to the Senators, with Allan Russell, for Howard Shanks, of Monaca, and Val Picinich. Washington sold the catcher back to the Red Sox for 1931, and near the end of that season Boston traded him to the Tigers for Marty McManus. Sold by Detroit to St. Louis after the 1932 race, Muddy spent last season with the Browns, but was cast adrift in December during Rogers Hornsby's housecleaning operations.

CAMBRIDGE SEEKS ELEVENTH WIN IN ROW

When the crews of Cambridge and Oxford universities meet in their eighty sixth classic in England tomorrow, the oldest race in the history of college rowing, Cambridge will be striving for its eleventh straight victory. The fortunes of Oxford appear to have changed during the World War period. Up to 1914, the Dark Blue led with 39 victories against 30 for Cambridge, but since that time Oxford has captured only one out of 15 races. The lone victory came in 1923. In the meanwhile the honors have gone to Cambridge 10 times in succession, the record for the regatta. Oxford twice won nine straight.

The course is the famous Putney-to-Mortlake stretch on the Thames River, four miles and 374 yards, and the time record is 18 minutes and 29 seconds, set by Oxford in 1911. An eleventh consecutive victory for Cambridge was considered certain when the Light Blue recently did the distance in 19:31, inasmuch as the much slower time of 20:57 sufficed to win last year, but Oxford since has done a trial in 19:43, indicating that the Dark Blue may have a chance tomorrow after all. Last year's spectacle was viewed by 500,000 and it is expected that fully as many will line the river banks Saturday.

SARAZEN TAKES RAP AT JONES' TACTICS

In explaining why he has elected to go golfing in South America instead of taking part in the Augusta tournament late this month that will see Bobby Jones returning to competition, Gene Sarazen takes the stand that Jones ought to play in open tourneys regularly or stay out of them entirely. Gene charges that Bobby is doing the same thing now he did in the days when, as an amateur, he played in only one American open each year, the national championship event. That custom, says Sarazen, gave Bobby an advantage over the field, as the other stars had been barnstorming up and down the country for months.

Gene Sarazen

Gene remarks that if Jones had gone to Florida to play in the recent Miami Biltmore tournament, he (Sarazen) would have returned the courtesy by going to Augusta to play in Bobby's tournament even if he had to make the trip on a stretcher. "We're both in the game for money and glory," Sarazen adds, "and if he wants me to play in a tournament staged to glorify not only himself but the company for which he works, why shouldn't he do his bit for me and my company?" Gene expects he will be criticized and perhaps called yellow by some, but says he knows he is not yellow, his friends know it, and nobody else counts.

COLLEGE MAT, BOXING TITLE EVENTS OPEN

By JESS CARVER

The collegiate boxers are gathering their forces today for the annual invasion of West Virginia's ring in the big Mountaineer field house in Morgantown for the annual Eastern Conference championship tournament; the rah-rah rasslers are quartered at Penn State for the thirtieth annual Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association title meet and more than 700 scholastic swimmers representing 17 high schools and three states are due in town for the twentieth annual Pitt Interscholastic championships, on for tomorrow.

Also the Eastern Intercollegiate Association boxing championship got under way at Syracuse.

Every member of the Intercollegiate Conference has boxers entered in the title tourney at Morgantown, which gets under way tonight with preliminaries in all classes. The finals will go on tomorrow night. West Virginia, with men entered in each class, and good men, too, is favored to annex the high point honors and stands a swell chance of sweeping the card.

RECORDS IN DANGER

The local scholastic carnival and university championship meets promises thrilling action and some formidable assaults on existing records, both by the high school stars and the Pitt varsity and freshmen stars.

Eight place swimmers of last year's school meet are back for another crack at honors and records and all the athletes who participated in the orgy of record shattering in the university championships of a year ago are in the competition again.

Topping the list of high school is Brodie, of Duquesne, in the 100-yard breast stroke and the 40-yard free style; Orloff, of Erie Tech, the present champion in the 40-yard free style; Manko, of South, in the 40-yard free style; Hirsch, of Canton McKinley, in the 220-yard free style; LeLake, of Munhall, in the 100-yard back stroke, and Caldwell, of Taylor Allderdice, in the fancy diving.

Erie Tech is the pre-meet favorite to take home the team title, but will have plenty of competition from Canton McKinley, the 1933 winner, Erie East, Erie Strong Vincent and Wheeling.

MAT MEET OPENS

With the largest entry list in the association's history the mat warfare gets under way today at State College with representatives in the fray from Cornell, Columbia, Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Syracuse, Lehigh, Pennsylvania and Penn State.

Lehigh champion for the last four seasons, is favored to retain its title.

However the men from Bethlehem, Pa., face a stern threat from Penn State, regarded by some as a dark horse likely to trot away with the honors. Furthermore, Princeton and Harvard are hailed as dangerous contenders.

Jock Sutherland, Pitt football coach today decided that spring had arrived and ordered his Panther gridders to report at the practice field at 4 o'clock this afternoon for the opening of spring practice.

Hyatt's Oilers Gain Tourney Semi-Finals

KANSAS CITY, March 16.—The defending champions, the Diamond X Oilers of Tulsa, the Olympic Club, of San Francisco, the Hutchinson Renos, of Hutchinson, Kan., and the University of Wyoming have gained the semi-final round in the annual A. A. U. national basketball championship tournament.

In the semi-finals tonight, the Oilers meet the Olympic Club and Wyoming takes on the Renos.

Led by Charley Hyatt, former Pitt star, the Oilers defeated the Lifschultz Freighters, of Chicago, 40 to 38, yesterday.

MEMORY TEST

TODAY'S QUESTIONS

How good is your memory of sports events heroes, and dates? Can you answer these questions?

1—What are the names of the three Hyatt brothers who have starred in basketball here?

2—Who was the former heavyweight boxing star who later was boxing instructor at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association?

3—Who was the captain of the South High School basketball team which won the W. P. I. A. L. championship in 1918?

4—What position did Elmer Layden play when he was one of the Four Horsemen at Notre Dame?

SOCCER FINAL COMES HERE

The Chicago Sloboda soccer team will meet Heidelberg in the Western final of the national amateur cup at Greenlee Field, Sunday April 1. The committee of the national body arrived at the decision to stage the game here late yesterday afternoon, after hearing arguments from both the teams regarding the locale of the game.

Heidelberg will be making its fifth appearance in the Western final, the club having won the title twice. This will be the Chicago club's first appearance in the Western final, in fact it will be the first time that a club from the Windy city has gone to the final since the first year of the tourney in 1924, when the Chicago Swedish-Americans were defeated in the final rounds by Fleishers, of Philadelphia.

On Sunday the first semi-final game in the West Penn senior cup will be staged at Greenlee Field between Curry and Gallatin. The following Sunday brings Heidelberg and Moon Run together in the second semi-final.

The Keystone League will hold its monthly meeting at Rosie's Store, Bridgeville, tonight at 8 o'clock. Only one game will be played in the Keystone circuit on Sunday, Heidelberg and the Rhiels going into action at Heidelberg.

Lacrosse League Winds Up Season

The American and International Lacrosse Association season was closed here last night when the Chicago Blue Ribbons defeated the Yellow Jackets, 15 to 12, at Motor Square Garden.

The association has been finding it increasingly difficult to operate with only four member clubs, and has decided to throw in the sponge. In view of the fact that this is the only city in which the association really prospered, the closing of the season here means the folding up of the circuit. The lineup:

PITTSBURGH		CHICAGO
Condron	G	McArthur
N. Langevin		Sanderson
S. Langevin	D	Hayes
Core		Quinn
Boulanne	C	Bain
LaFrance	F	Braden

	1	2	3	4	T
Pittsburgh	1	4	3	4	12
Chicago	4	2	3	3	15

Scores—Pittsburgh, McLean, L'Heureux, Jenkins; Chicago, Barron, Baldwin, Crawford, Hatter.

Scoring—First period: Sanderson, 43 seconds; Bain (from Baldwin), 3:25; Barron, 7:34; Braden, 12:21; Penalty—P. Langevin. Second period—Boulanne, 7:42; McLean (from Jenkins), 8:51; L'Heureux, 11:46; Braden, 12:08; L'Heureux (from Core), 12:31; Bain (from Baldwin), 13:45. Penalty—Bain. Third period—Core, 5:36; Braden (from Baldwin), 6:03; LaFrance (from Core), 7:07; McLean, 9:42; Braden, 13:18. Penalties (from S. Langevin), 13:04. Penalty—P. Langevin.

Referee—Corey, Pittsburgh.

FIGHT RESULTS

CELTICS MEET DUKES' GRADS ON BLUFF

The Rosenblum Celtics, renowned professional aggregation, are to oppose a quint made up of Duquesne University Seniors in the headline attraction of a three-game basketball program at the Duquesne University gym at 9:15 tonight.

The Seniors' lineup of MacDougal and Feldman at forward, Brenner at center and Moore and Reiter at guard is sufficiently impressive to indicate that the game will be a real battle, rather than an exhibition affair. Chick Davies, the Dukes' coach, long has been a close student of the Celtics' style of play, and the Seniors schooled in the system, are well equipped to combat their rivals' methods of attack and defense.

The Dukes will be handled from the bench by Dave Kerr in tonight's fray.

The second game of the night, which is to start at 8 o'clock, almost matches the main attraction in appeal, for it is to give local fans a prevue of the Duquesne varsity quint of next season. Coach Davies is to send players who loom as members of his 1934-35 squad against the strong Frank Ferris team, of the North Side, and this fray should provide a pretty fair size-up of the possibilities of the 1934-35 Bluffite machine.

The Munhall Boys' Club is to meet the I. K. S. Ponies in the first preliminary game, at 7:15. The probable lineup for the Seniors-Celtics game:

SENIORS	POS.	CELTICS
MacDougal	F	Banks
Feldman	F	Hickey
Brenner	C	Lapcouch
Moore	G	Dehner
Reiter	G	Barry

Substitutes—Seniors, Zerilla and Davies; Celtics, Husta and Herlihy.

Sam Parks Shoots 73 at Charleston

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 16.—(AP.)—Ky Laffoon, young Denver pro who won the Atlanta metropolitan open Sunday with a great finishing round, came through with a fine 68 yesterday as the opening salvo in his bid for the Charleston Tournament of Gardens golf championship.

The 24-year-old Westerner came to the last green late in the afternoon after a pair of veteran pros, Harry Cooper, of Chicago, and Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., had posted earlier 69s.

Sam Parks, Jr., young pro at the South Hills Country Club, Pittsburgh, had rounds of 37 and 36 for a 73.

Young Scores Win In Cue Tourney

John Young, of Penn, Pa., who has been setting a fast pace in the West Penn pocket billiard championship tournament, defeated Jim Williams, of Squirrel Hill, in a tourney match at the Ritz parlors last night, 125 to 73.

PLANS FOR NEW ARENA HERE AT STANDSTILL

By CARL W. SHATTO

Reports than Motor Square Garden is to be razed and a new sports arena seating 15,000 fans constructed on its site, given a good airing a few months ago, were revived today only to be quickly riddled by C. C. McDonald, representing the Mellon interests, owners of the Garden.

McDonald today said that a report that the Garden was to be torn down early in April was a fabrication, and added that the plans for a new arena were no further advanced than they were months ago, when the idea first was considered. The original plan later was supplanted by one calling for extensive alterations in the East End arena, but this proposition, too, was shelved, and neither plan has advanced beyond the embroyic stage.

The report that the Garden was to be razed at first were given credence because of announcements that the lacrosse season had been declared closed here, and that no boxing shows would be staged in the Garden after April 2. McDonald explained these developments by saying that the lacrosse association had found it impossible to operate with only four member clubs and had folded up, and that because other interests required his attention during the spring and summer months, he deemed it advisable to close the Garden to boxing on April 2.

McDonald gave the impression that the Garden might be permitted to stand in its present state until it becomes a landmark.

MANGIN AFTER THIRD TITLE

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Gregory S. Mangin stood on the threshold of his third successive United States indoor tennis championship today.

The lone obstacle in the Newark vollever's path to equalling the three-straight record created two decades ago by Gustave Touchard is towering Lester R. Stoefen of Los Angeles. They play tomorrow for the title.

Mangin's triumph in the semi-finals over Sidney B. Wood Jr., 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, was expected but few had anticipated Stoefen would polish off big Frank Shields, America's No. 1 ranking star, in straight sets, 6-4, 11-9, 6-4.

COMMY STARS FOR REDS

International News Service.

TAMPA, Fla., March 16.—Laying down a barrage of 17 smashing hits after spotting the New York Giants four runs in the first inning, the Cincinnati Reds today had won their first exhibition game of the season, 13 to 7.

Ernie Lombardi, who blasted out two triples and a pair of singles, and Adam Comorosky, former Pittsburgh outfielder, who collected four singles, led the Reds' attack against Joe Bowman, Hal Schumacher and Clyde Castleman. Blake, Benton and Derringer hurled for the Reds.

Baseball Briefs

International News Service.

PUNTAGORDA, Fla.—The world champion New York Giants paused here this morning on their way back to their training base at Miami after taking a 13-to-7 drubbing at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa yesterday. Manager Bill Terry expressed himself as well satisfied with the work of his men on the trip to the Florida West Coast.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, was in camp today, but as yet his Two recalcitrant holdouts, Bill Dickey, catcher, and Lyn Lary, infielder, have not appeared to talk things over with him. The impression is growing among followers that Lary will seek to swing a trade for himself.

ORLANDO, Fla.—The desperate need of the Brooklyn Dodgers for a capable southpaw became increasingly evident today when Manager Casey Stengel announced that Art Herring, diminutive portsider from the Texas League, would probably start the season as a regular member of the mound staff.

LOS ANGELES.—The Chicago Cubs faced the Hollywood Stars today in an exhibition game. The National League team showed Manager Charley Grimm little to boast about yesterday, although the Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Angels, 3 to 2.

PASADENA, Cal.—The White Sox today were polishing their bats in preparation for the game tomorrow against their ancient home town enemies, the Cubs. Manager Lew Fonseca was grooming Hewing, Pomoski and Wyatt to do the hurling.

BILOXI, Miss. (INS.)—The arrival today of three more regulars, Johnny Stone, Fred Schulte and Johnny Kerr, rounded out the roster of the Washington Senators. With the signing today of Joe Kuhel, first baseman, and Heinie Manush, outfielder, the holdouts have narrowed down to Cliff Bolton, catcher, and Dave Harris, outfielder.

GUNNERS SET FOR AKRON

Pittsburgh's Gunner poloists will inject a formidable array of mallet wielders into the fray at the Hunt Armory tomorrow night when the Akron Cavalry Club trio assaults the East Liberty arsenal.

Bob Arthur

Capt. Meredith Watson, veteran pilot of the 107th Field Artillery polo team, has been named by Coach Paul Mazuzan to assume the leadoff post in the local tossing column. Mazuzan himself will start at No. 2, while Howard Adams, larruping back of the Vang squad, will exhibit his wares at the defensive position. Bob (Chub) Arthur is the visitors' star at No. 2.

Much intersectional interest centers around the contest. The Akron riders, undefeated on their own soil, will be staging their initial invasion of foreign fields.

Germans Set Pace In Six-Day Race

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP.)—Ewald Wissel and Franz Lehmann, the German team, were holding a one-lap lead in the six-day bike race today.

Johnstown Splits With Windber High

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 16.—(AP.)—Differences over gate receipts have brought about the severance of football relations between Johnstown and Windber High schools.

Johnstown officials said Windber leaders felt that because their team had defeated Johnstown and gone on to win the P. I. A. A. title last fall the champions should get a bigger guarantee or a percentage of the gate receipts for the 1934 Thanksgiving Day game here.

Faculty Quintets Meet Again Tonight

The faculty teams representing Braddock and Rankin will meet in the third and deciding game of their series tonight on the Scott High School floor, North Braddock. The two quintets split even in the first two games, Rankin winning at Braddock while Braddock triumphed at Rankin. Ben Lubic is a member of the Braddock team and Joseph Rosenberg is a star on the Rankin quintet.

YANIGANS TOP REGULARS BY 2-1 SCORE

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 16.—Today is get-away day for the Pittsburgh Pirates, indulging in their annual conditioning process in California. After a third battle between the Regulars and Yanigans this afternoon, the Buccos will pack their bags and depart for Southern California, going direct to Riverside, where they are scheduled to open a two-game series tomorrow with the Hollywood team of the Pacific Coast League.

Today's clash between the Regs and Yans will be the rubber game of the series. The Yanigans evened matters with the veterans yesterday when, behind Larry French's great four-hit hurling, they won a 2-to-1 decision in five innings.

Leon Chagnon, on the slab for the Regulars, hurled effectively except in the second inning, when Finney tripled and scored on Thevenow's single. Thevenow was killed off as Trapp bounced into a double play, but Veltman lambasted one over the fence in left center.

Prior to the contest, President William E. Benswanger announced that the Buccaneers had purchased Sam Keyes, an outfielder, from the Albany club and turned him over to Oakland, of the Coast League, to complete the deal whereby Harry Lavagetto, second sacker, was secured by the Pirates.

Keyes played for Nashville in the Southern Association last year before being sold to Albany. He is a resident of Chicago.

Speed Skaters Race At Garden Tonight

Men, women, girles and boys all will participate in the speed skating championships to be staged by the Pennsylvania Skating Association at Duquesne Garden at 7:45 tonight. Large and representative fields are entered in all events, which range in distance from 220 yards to one mile.

The J. Scott Morgans and the Pirates, tied for the City Hockey League lead, are to clash for the championship at 8:30 tomorrow night, and a skating party for the benefit of the league players, Sunday night, will wind up the skating season here.

Indians-Windsor Series Off Here

FORT ERIE, Ont., March 16.—(AP.)—Manager Hap Holmes, of the Cleveland Indians of the International Hockey League, has announced that the proposed series between the Windsor Bulldogs and Indians at Pittsburgh had been definitely called off because after this week Duquesne Garden there is to be closed to skaters and made ready for a six-day bicycle race.

The series was proposed as an effort to build up interest in Pittsburgh for an entry in the International circuit from that city next year.

W. Va. Schools Open Title Tournament

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 16.—(AP.)—The boys who toss the baskets and shoot the foul goals open today the annual battle for the high school basketball championship of West Virginia.

Eight regional titleholders will fight it out for the state crown.

Four of the eight teams which played for the title last year compete in this year's tournament, including Victory High, of Clarksburg, 1933 champions, and Charleston High, the runner-up. Others are Beckley and Elkins.

WESTINGHOUSE WINS

TERMS SETTLED FOR CARNERA, BAER BOUT

MAX TO GET TITLE CHANCE IN JUNE

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Unless a last-minute hitch develops, Primo Carnera will defend his heavyweight championship against Max Baer here June 14.

Setting up a new all-time record for pugilistic conferences, representatives of Carnera, Baer and Madison Square Garden finally have reached an agreement on terms for the match, which will be held in the Garden's outdoor bowl on Long Island.

HOFFMAN SIGNS

Ancil Hoffman, representing the challenger, put his signature to the contracts late last night. Louis Soresi, Primo's manager, will follow suit shortly, the Garden announced.

Roughly the conditions of the agreement were understood to be:

2—In return, the Garden agreed to give Baer more than the customary challenger's share of 12½ per cent of the receipts, probably 20 per cent. Out of that, Baer will be able to "cut in" Dempsey himself.

3—Baer agreed to the Garden's demand that in the event he whips Carnera, he defend the title once under the Garden's promotion.

DEMPSEY PROTECTED

4—The Garden, however, agreed that Baer will be allowed to select the date for a title defense and to have a hand in naming his opponent. This would give the Californian a chance to fight twice this summer and then return to Dempsey's promotorial banner. It was Dempsey who promoted Baer's bout with Max Schmeling last summer when Baer knocked out the Teuton in 10 rounds.

It took a battery of lawyers just about 72 hours to arrive at a set of contracts acceptable to all concerned. Carnera, with one eye on a $65,000 guarantee for a South American tour, wasn't anxious to fight as early as June. He would have preferred a September date.

EN ROUTE TO LOS ANGELES TO JOIN THE PIRATES, March 16.—Nobody aboard is worried about floods as this train touches spots more than a mile high. At El Paso you can look over the famous Rio Grande into old Mexico and see the mountains which protected Villa from Uncle Sam. A mysterious sign on these mountains is a bit hard to read, yet when deciphered it is no more ominous than an "ad" for Jimmy O'Brien's saloon in old Juarez.

Maybe it is the lure of the movies but these Los Angeles-bound trains generally produce a blonde who also is light-headed as well as light-haired. The fair one on this flyer rushed out the back platform with a look of amazement. She shouted to the porter:

The Pirates are due to reach Riverside, Cal., tomorrow. Their long barnstorming tour will start tomorrow as they take on the Hollywood Shieks, who are in training at Riverside, a town situated about 60 miles east of Los Angeles. A Sunday game with the Shieks also is on the card. In messing around with Hollywood, the Buccos are likely to find opposition from George Susce, of Schenley High School.

Starting with St. Patrick's Day, the Pirates will treat the fans of the Los Angeles district for two weeks. They will open a four-game series with Charley Grimm's Cubs Tuesday at Wrigley Field. This series will be followed by a three-day setto with the White Sox.

Clyde Cole, Pullman conductor of this train, is the husband of a Beaver Falls lady, whose dad was James (Jim) Toy, noted major league outfielder of more than 40 years ago. The widow of the diamond star resides with her daughter in Los Angeles.

The writer of this column found great comfort in the many kind messages received during his illness. I am grateful to all of you.

N. J. Amateur Star Wins at N. Brighton

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., March 16.—Ed Pope, of Newark, N. J., state golden gloves 160-pound champion, defeated Paul Kraynack, of Ellwood City, in a feature bout of an amateur boxing show staged by the Beaver Valley Fraternal Order of Police at Junction Park here last night.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: "GROWING YOUNGER"—Although medical science denies the possibility of the human being ever being able to "grow younger," it seems there is a contradiction in the person of Mrs. Mary Anne Elliott, aged 75, of Beaverton, Ontario. This strange case of apparent rejuvenation reached a third and thrilling stage recently when Mrs. Elliott regained her eyesight after being blind for a number of years. She previously had experienced the cutting of a third set of teeth, and her gray hair had turned dark again.

THE SILENT SITTING SADDHUS—My sketch of this pitiful Hindu ascetic was made a few years ago when I visited India, in any part of which country one can see unbelievable examples of what these queer people do in the name of religious penitence. This man had sat alone under the blazing sun or in the rain for 40 years—never uttering a sound, never expressing any wish, and never receiving any of life's material necessities except the scant alms of his fellow men. A chapter of my first Believe It or Not book is devoted to other forms of worship in this strange land.

TOMORROW: A PHENOMENON OF PENMANSHIP.

BUTCH RELIES ON SOUTHPAW PROFICIENCY

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Mose Butch is glorying in being a more or less forgotten man in the ring these days. He meets Freddie Miller, the Cincinnati southpaw, who holds the N. B. A. featherweight championship, in a non-title bout in Motor Square Garden next Monday night, and he is glad to have Miller on the scene all of this week working out and stealing the limelight from him.

Mose is satisfied to have things the way they are, for he knows Miller will loom larger in the eyes of the fans and he will get some credit if he beats Freddie or gives him a close fight. Freddie will be the favorite, anyway, on his record and reputation, and Mose just wants to be sort of forgotten until the bell sends them into action, for he has an idea in the back of his head that he's going to surprise a lot of folks. He thinks he can fight southpaws better than Miller can fight them, and, in this duel of two wrongsiders, one of them must be more wrong than the other.

In meeting Miller, Mose goes against a fellow who has beaten, among others, Cecil Payne, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Bushy Graham, Johnny Farr, Roger Bernard, Phil Zwick, Tommy Paul, Battling Battalino, Lew Feldman, Joe Ghnouly, Miki Gelb, Johnny Datto, Peewee Kaiser, Frankie Wallace, Jackie Sharkey, Baby Arizmendi, Speedy Dado, Little Dempsey, Abie Israel and Petey Sarron. He won the title from Battling Battalino in 1931 and has been a very satisfactory champion, meeting all comers. He is 22 years old and has been boxing since 1927.

Battling Gizzy meets Dominic Mancini, Joey Bazzone boxes Billy Holt and Charley Burns is in with Harry Weekly in eight-round preliminaries, and Curley Klaas and Chuck Mullins box the four-round opener.

WHAT SOME REDUCED-PRICE CIGARS CLAIM...

Bayuk GUARANTEES

Bayuk "Phillies" is not a regular 5c cigar value. Neither is it a former 10c cigar reduced in size or quality to sell for 5c.

Bayuk "Phillies"—at 5c—is exactly the SAME cigar—in quality, size and shape—as when it was the largest-selling 10c brand in America. We not only claim it . . we guarantee it.

This guaranteed 10c value for 5c makes the vast difference that separates "Phillies" from other cigars in its price class. It's the reason why more millions of men smoke "Phillies" than any other cigar on the market.

Have YOU tried Bayuk "Phillies"? If not—smoke one today. It will give you a new idea of cigar value for 5c. Look for the box of "Phillies" on your dealer's counter—and read Bayuk's Guarantee printed in the blue strip on the lid.

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Domestic and Havana long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

RUBENSTEIN BOASTS FINE RECORD

BRIDGER BOSS TAKES PLACE AMONG BEST

By JULIUS LEVIN

Maurice (Moe) Rubenstein, coach at Ambridge High School who rose from the ranks to become one of the outstanding scholastic athletic directors in Western Pennsylvania, tomorrow night will essay to achieve what a mere handful of mentors has accomplished, that of winning the W. P. I. A. L. basketball and football championships.

Moe Rubenstein

Having annexed the class A football title of the W. P. I. A. L. two years ago when his Ambridge elevn went through an undefeated season, Rubenstein, in event his quintet succeeds in defeating New Kensington in the basketball finale tomorrow night in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, will have qualified to join the small group of coaches who have managed to carry off both the basketball and football titles of the W. P. I. A. L.

Johnny Reed, of Scott High School, North Braddock; Phil Bridenbaugh, of New Castle High School, and Harry M. Springer, now at Allegheny High School, are the only coaches in the W. P. I. A. L. to attain this objective. Springer turned the trick at Wilkinsburg High School during the 1921-1922 seasons after winning the floor title for Bellevue in 1920.

FORMER LEAGUE CHAMP

Tomorrow's championship battle brings together a former league champion in New Kensington, Section I representative, and Ambridge, Section IV entry, a school that has yet to win its first league crown on the floor. New Kensington, coached by Carl (Dutch) Glock, was champion in 1930. In reaching the final round of the current eliminations, New Kensington vanquished Ford City, Uniontown and Scott High, of North Braddock, while Ambridge qualified by disposing of Leetsdale, New Castle and Duquesne, the last-named team defending champion.

Taking over the coaching reins in 1929 when the industrial depression started, Coach Rubenstein has seen to it that Ambridge would not suffer a further athletic decline. He took over the position following his graduation from Geneva College and when sports at Ambridge was at its lowest level. Rubenstein lost little time in applying his magic touch and Ambridge, in the five years he has been there as coach, rapidly rose to its present lofty perch in scholastic athletics.

IMPRESSIVE RECORD

The Ambridge quintet, which takes the floor against New Kensington tomorrow night, boasts one of the finest records ever compiled by a W. P. I. A. L. title contender. Looking over its schedule of league games in Section IV its non-league contests and its conquests in the W. P. I. A. L. tournament to date, Ambridge shows 25 victories in 26 battles. The only setback came in the final game of the regular season when the Geneva College Reserves scored a 19-18 victory. Midland, Beaver, Freedom, Rochester, Monaca and Aliquippa each lost twice to Ambridge in league competition. The Bridgers won 10 out of their 11 non-league frays and so far have won all three of their tournament games.

In dethroning Duquesne, defending W. P. I. A. L. champs, Ambridge not only won the right to enter the final round but squared accounts with the Steelers for the 30-21 setback received in the same round of last year's tournament.

Ambridge's record for the 1933 basketball campaign also was an impressive one, winning 20 out of 22 games. The Bridgers last year won 18 out of 19 games during the regular season, losing only a non-league affair to Swissvale 22-20, and to Duquesne in the semi-finals of the elimination series. Thus in two seasons, the Bridgers have won 45 out of 48 games. There isn't a school in the W. P. I. A. L. that can touch that record.

BRILLIANT GRID MARK

The five-year record made by Ambridge in football under the leadership of the former Fifth Avenue High School and Geneva College star likewise is an impressive one. During that period of time the Rubenstein-coached elevens have scored 39 victories, suffered only four defeats and were tied three times. A tie game with Midland in the closing contest of the 1933 season was all that kept Ambridge out of the class A championship fight. Scott of North Braddock being awarded the crown.

Ambridge has not suffered a football defeat since the close of the 1931 season when Elwood City scored a 13-12 victory over the Bridgers. Since that setback Ambridge has gone through two undefeated campaigns, the tie with Midland last fall being the only blemish on the otherwise perfect record. Counting a special game with Glassport, Ambridge has chalked up 17 victories without losing a decision.

One of the best seasons ever compiled by a Rubenstein-coached eleven was in 1930 when the Bridgers defeated 11 rival opponents without permitting the opposition to score a point. An ineligible player kept them out of the title race.

South High School, City League champion and District VIII representative in the playoffs for the state crown, will play another post-season game tonight when it meets Brentwood High, champion of Section XII of the W. P. I. A. L., in the McElroy School, Brentwood. Next Tuesday in the Pitt Stadium pavilion South meets Somerset, District V champion, in the first inter-district duel.

BICKEL, OLIVER SCORE WINS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Semi-finalists in the City Class A squash racquets title tourney and in the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U. junior singles handball championship events in progress since Monday on the courts of the Keystone Athletic Club and the Y. M. H. A., respectively, enjoy repose today prior to penultimate competition tomorrow afternoon.

The racquet frays, according to Chairman Charley Fagan, will get under way at 2:30 o'clock, while the glove affairs, though Director Art Scher has not yet announced definite starting times, will probably get under way at about the same hour.

DOUBLES POSTPONED

Meanwhile Director Scher declares that the doubles competitors of the Bellefield handball get-together, originally slated to begin Wednesday and later adjourned till yesterday, has now been postponed until Monday.

The squash semi-finals will bring together Champion McCook Reed, Keystone star, and Joe Oliver, Pittsburgh Golf Club ace, in the upper sector, and Bill Bickel, K. A. C. driver, and Ed Seifert, drop shot artist of the same outfit, in the lower. Bickel, who lost to Reed in the 1933 final, but who has had difficulty in attaining customary form the past winter, hit the peak yesterday to overwhelm his clubmate, Henry Blaxter, late of Harvard, 15-9, 15-9, 15-8.

Charley Fagan was another casualty from the seeded group yesterday, Oliver outlasting him in a tough struggle, 17-16, 11-15, 15-11, 15-12.

KERN ADVANCES

Bill Kern, Pitt grid assistant and Winged Head glovester, featured the handball session by upsetting Dave Olbum, Y. M. H. A. satellite and 1933 senior semi-finalist, 21-14, 21-12. Kern, perhaps the most improved first-flighter in the city, thereby earned right to a semi-final encounter with Carl Debberthine, rangy Downtown Y hope, who measured off Lou Gendelberg, Y. M. H. A. dark horse, 21-20, 21-17. In the third joust of last evening, Frank Koubek, Keystone contender, eliminated Dr. Phil Lapidus, Bellefield luminary, 21-20, 19-21, 21-19, and thus pulled even with Sam Wolf, who had achieved the ultimate four the previous day through default of Mike Hrytko, of the Y. M. C. A.

SHARPSBURG PINMEN SET NEW MARK

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

Led by George Antic, Jr., the Fort Pitt team, of Sharpsburg, Pa., set an all-time record when it crashed the maples for a 2,993 score in the five-men event to take the lead in this division in the twenty-seventh annual Tri-state tenpin tournament on the Auditorium alleys, East Liberty, last night.

Antic toppled 274 pins in his first game, the highest single game mark recorded in the meet to date. The Fort Pitt team rolled 1,003 in the first game, added 952 and put on a marvelous finish by knocking down 1,038 pins. The former mark was 2,958 made by the Loyal Order of Moose, of Braddock, in 1925.

Val Meyer, of the Iron City team, of Pittsburgh, took the lead in the all-events division with a 1,735 score. He also became the new leader in the singles events with a 639 set. Walter Bisler and Art Ober, tournament manager, are setting the pace in the doubles with 1,155. The Iron City team now holds second place in the five-men event with a 2,760 score.

Team, doubles and singles events will be bowled today. The doubles are slated for 2:30, 4:20 and 6 p. m. Singles matches will be bowled right after the doubles and team matches will be resumed at 8 p. m.

The Fort Pitt team's record score:

G. Antic, Sr.	174	175	210
E. Semler	192	194	217
G. Metz	177	197	241

MISS MARY WETTACH

TECH SHOOTER WINS TITLE

Miss Mary Wettach, a member of the women's rifle team at Carnegie Tech, has been declared national intercollegiate individual champion, according to a bulletin issued by the National Rifle Association in Washington, D. C.

Three other members of the local team received awards. Margaret Shultz finished fourth; Ruth Schmelz, fifth, and Leah Voegtly, sixth, all with scores of 595.

The places were decided by the number of consecutive 10s shot by the last-named contestants, who received bronze medals.

Delta Taus Win Fraternity Title

The Delta Tau Delta quintet won the University of Pittsburgh Interfraternity League basketball championship last night, defeating the Phi Delta Theta passers, 21 to 18, on the Stadium floor last night.

The Phi Kappas downed the Phi Gamma Deltas for the runnerup position, 26 to 19.

Oakmont Boat Club Meets On Monday

The Oakmont Boat Club, preparing for a busy summer on the water, will hold a regular meeting next Monday night, Jimmy Altman and Neeley, of New Kensington, are requested to attend.

The club has been approved for membership in the American Power Boat Association.

BRENTWOOD OUT OF CITY LOOP FOR SEASON

By TOM BIRKS

In place of having to worry about filling only one position in the City League roster this season, the circuit magnates are confronted with the job of lining up two new franchise holders, President Everett Sweeny announced today that Brentwood had resigned from the circuit, which means that next Wednesday evening, at the meeting of the league, bids will be entertained for the admittance of two new clubs.

At the league's first meeting, George Spiers, who managed the club last season, announced that Brentwood would change its name from the Gillespies to the Brentwood Business Men's Club, indicating that businessmen were going to back the team this season. However, trouble over the grounds developed, and has caused the South Hills aggregation to withdraw.

Six clubs posted forfeits at the second meeting of the Pittsburgh Independent League, held at Wilkinsburg last night, Swissvale, Mellon-Stuart, Whitaker, Millikens, the Alder Club of Homewood and Turtle Creek binding themselves to the new organization.

C. A. Rankin again acted as president pro-tem. Ned Mellon was elected treasurer and K. E. Miller secretary. The circuit will hold its next meeting at the Hotel Henry next Thursday night, when a president will be elected for the season.

The Parmelee Club was represented, but did not post a forfeit, but it is expected that the cabbies will go along with the new league. Nothing definite was accomplished in the matter of playing dates, but the managers are of the opinion that three games one week and two nights the next week will take care of the schedule.

REGGIE FIELDING ENTERS RACE

Reggie Fielding, six-day bike racer, of Toronto, Canada, has sent his entry for the first Pittsburgh spectacle of thrills and spills at Duquesne Garden, starting Sunday midnight, March 25.

Fielding has signed with Willie Spencer, director of racing for the first local international six-day bicycle race, to ride with or against such other entrants as Piet Van Kempen, world champion; Jules Audy, of Montreal; Reggie McNamara, of Australia, and Tony Beckman, of Jersey, as decided by the pairings to be announced later.

PACT FOR TRUE U. S. ECONOMY PROPOSED

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, March 16.—Having just finished wrestling with my income tax, I am in the mood to join my fellow taxpayers in asking is it not about time to call for a little more economy in government.

Why not have a sort of pact between the administration and Congress? Let the new dealers agree to lay off such things as the Tennessee Valley scheme, the buying of bank stocks, and of silver at fancy prices. Let Congress, in return, agree to quit trying to put over the bonus.

I can see now, if that were done, our money could go much further in bringing relief to the needy, and a lot more of it would be spent in productive ways.

This line of thought should appeal especially to those of us whose income is all "earned." For example, I figure that I hate to work a whole month each year just to pay my tax to Washington. (I work on an 80-hour week.)

DOUBTS WISE SPENDING

Of course, I can continue to do that. But two thoughts keep bothering me. First, I am not satisfied either that it is necessary for me to pay so much, or that my tax money is being wisely spent. Second, I wonder if the Washington authorities realize that in their efforts to do what they call "creating purchasing power," they are killing my power to purchase.

And also it burns me up when I reflect that if I were only wealthy I could buy tax-exempt government bonds and live tax-free, as some do.

I have no objection whatever to paying my full share of the amount necessary to give food, clothes and shelter to all who really need them. But when they begin spending my money for doubtful schemes of "social reform," I call for caution and careful study. And I am certain that all the necessary relief could be given at half the cost now being incurred.

RIGHT OF TAXPAYERS

Taxpayers have a right to economy in government. That is possible only when there is a careful balancing of income and expense, and a weighing of benefits against costs. But when a government starts out with a "wishful" plan of reforms, the only thing it considers is how much taxes are required, and how much it can borrow against the taxes we will pay in coming years.

So I, for one, call for a new deal in the shape of a square deal for the average taxpayer.

First, we should separate the relief program from the reform program, and give the relief in the most economical way. (Frankly, I don't like the idea of my hard-earned tax money going to enable a lot of people to buy automobiles and gin). Then we should take enough time to consider each so-called "reform" on its merits.

WANTS APPRAISAL

I want a safe, well organized, prosperous and happy nation. But I am not sure just how much of the new deal that requires, and I want a more careful appraisal. I doubt the wisdom of the proposed government purchase of so-called sub-marginal lands. I don't like the idea of forcing industries into monopolistic cartels, nor the entrance of the government into the banking business.

I don't see any sense in having Uncle Sam buy silver at 64½ cents an ounce, when I can sell all I want at 47 cents.

I can't see any sense in asking me for tax money and then using my money to raise my cost of living by boosting prices.

Something is wrong when a billion dollars comes to be but a drop in the bucket, and a government saves a few thousands by cutting postmen's wages, while spending billions in the quest for someone's vague ideals of social justice.

BROKERS LOANS UP $79,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting member banks in New York City, increased $79,000,000 during the week ended March 14, to $923,000,000 from $844,000,000 in the preceding week. The record high was $6,804,000,000, established October 2, 1929, and the record low of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

Van Sweringens Offer Stock for Interest

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland railroad and real estate operators, made a new move today to retain control of their kingdom of railroads and buildings and sub-divisions by asking holders of certain bonds of Alleghany Corporation, the brothers' top holding unit, to accept preferred stock at par in lieu of interest for five years, starting next October.

Interest due April 1 of this year on the Alleghany collateral 5s of 1950, will be paid in cash, O. P. Van Sweringen, Alleghany president, announced. The corporation, he said, will arrange to borrow on its unsecured notes an amount which, with funds on hand, will provide $550,000 to cover the April 1 interest payments.

To provide for interest payments during the five years from April 1 of this year, the corporation will ask stockholders' approval to issue 150,000 shares of prior preferred convertible stock without par value. Such stock will be entitled to receive cumulative dividends at the annual rate of $2.50 per share, payable semi-annually, and after October 1, 1934, when and as declared, before any payment as dividends or otherwise is made to any other now existing class of stock.

Each new share will have a liquidation or dissolution value of $50. The shares may be converted at the holders' option, prior to redemption, into 10 shares of common stock. It may be redeemed in whole or part at the corporation's option at 30 days' notice, at $50 plus accumulated and unpaid dividends.

STOCKS CLIMB AS SELLING WANES

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Market bogeys did not appear so terrifying today and stocks and staples displayed more cheerful tendencies after early moments of nervousness.

There was a brief carry-over of selling in both equities and commodities following the opening, but no special weakness was shown in any department and prices soon steadied. Speculative enthusiasm was not pronounced, however, and dullness ruled throughout the greater part of the day.

Much sober thought was given to the motor strike situation and the possibility of difficulties in this industry spreading to other lines. Word that labor leaders had tentatively set Monday for a general walkout in the automotive centers did not create any exceptional stir.

Grains came back to around their previous closing levels. Cotton, rubber and silver futures were easy, but not too heavy. Sterling eased in terms of the dollar. Bonds were a bit lower.

Overnight consideration of Secretary Morgentahau's remarks, which implied that the administration was inclined to view coldly the campaign for silver assistance, found the followers of the nonferrous metal stocks still rather confused. Some of the recoveries in this group were attributed partly to short covering.

The Treasurer's statement, in the opinion of various analysis, was really optimistic in tone in the sense that it implied that general business was so good that further experiments with the monetary system were not necessary at this time.

Interest was expressed in the announcement that Speaker of the House Rainey, in the face of administrative opposition, will permit a record vote Monday on the two silver measures which were introduced recently.

While labor problems held the attention of Wall street, almost to the exclusion of NRA activities, work on the stock exchange control bill and business reports, confidence was expressed the government intervention would prevent any serious strike at this time. Veteran traders also recalled the aged admonition "never sell stocks on strike news." It was admitted, though, that these are different times.

There are some indications that the major rate of industrial activity might show signs of leveling off, in view of the mixed sentiment prevailing.

At the same time rail traffic continued to move ahead. For the week ended March 10, freight car loadings increased 8,265 over the previous week. Seasonally, there should have been a slight decline. The pickup was attributed largely to shipments which were postponed during the blizzard period. The week's total of 612,402 cars was the highest since October 28, last, and exceeded the same 1933 week by 171,041 and the corresponding week in 1932 by 36,921.

WHEAT CLOSES AT ADVANCE

CHICAGO, March 16.—Wheat scored price gains in the late dealing today, aided by announcement that silver bills would be brought up at Washington Monday despite opposition.

Late upturns of wheat values were also more or less due to the fact that for several successive days the wheat market had been declining, and a reverse action of the pendulum was looked for by numerous traders.

Wheat closed firm, 1/4 to 5/8c above yesterday's finish. May 87 1/4 to 87 3/8c; corn unchanged to 1/8c higher; oats, 1/8 to 1/4c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

CAR LOADINGS UP FOR WEEK

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Loadings of revenue freight during the week ended March 10 totaled 612,402 cars, an increase of 8,265 cars over the week preceding, 171,041 over the like 1933 week and 36,921 over the like 1932 period, according to the American Railway Association.

Bank Acceptance Volume Declines

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—The volume of bankers acceptances outstanding in this country dropped $21,199,331 in February to a total of $750,127,087, the American acceptance council reported today.

The reduction in bill volume in four of the six classified groups said the council, reflects the continued lessened use of acceptance credits because of the greater desire of banks to employ surplus funds in over-the-counter loans, a shift which is being reflected in the increase in all other loans as reported by the member banks.

'NEW DEAL' MAY PUT YOUTH IN SADDLE

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The present economic revolution which the "New Deal" signalizes may bring forth an entirely new crop of business leaders.

Mr. Rukeyser

One progressive executive in chatting about this possible development, said he would not be surprised to find the direction of properties turned over to men between 25 and 35, saying that youth has so much less to unlearn than age. He remarked:

"Wisdom and experience too often mean fear. I prefer the courage of youth to the timidity of age."

HITS EXECUTIVES

Another thought developed in the conversation was that, if the federal government continues to agitate against high executive salaries and to heap new financial liabilities on directing executives, men of first rate abilities might turn from "hired men" occupations and seek to earn their way in small, decentralized concerns, without participating public stockholders.

If the Fletcher-Rayburn Bill goes through in its first draft, numerous executives are threatening to tell their stockholders that they must choose between losing their present directing executives and remaining listed on the stock exchange. Listed companies impose special liabilities on officers and directors.

CITES GAINS

Further evidence that the NRA was not a significant instrument of recovery is to be found in the remarks of Orlando F. Weber, president of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, whose operations constitute a reliable barometer of the industrial trend in the United States. Referring to the pickup in business in 1933, Mr. Weber said:

"Broad remedial measures came in quick succession; the Emergency Banking Act on March 9, the suspension of the gold standard on April 20, the Agricultural Adjustment Act on May 12 and the National Industrial Recovery Act on June 16. Beginning in April a noticeable improvement in the domestic business of our subsidiary companies occurred. By July the increase in sales over the corresponding month of 1932 had reached its peak and a relative improvement of about 25 per cent over 1932 was substantially thereafter maintained."

Big Auto Shipment For Delivery Here

A train of 50 freight cars, carrying 200 Chevrolet automobiles, was unloaded today in the East Liberty yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The automobiles have been sold for delivery here immediately, and have a total value of $25,000, according to officials. Such a trainload represents a day's work for about 14,000 men, the officials said.

Electric Makers Show Sharp Contrasts

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

General Electric and Westinghouse Electric both were numbered among the standard investments widely sought by individuals and usually included in the portfolios of investment during the days of good business. In view of this it is difficult to account for the great contrast in ability to withstand the trying conditions of the past four years. No attempt will be made in this column to explain the differences. The figures will be allowed to speak for themselves.

Both companies manufacture heavy electrical equipment such as large generators, motors, transformers and locomotives. Both companies also make lighter types of equipment and both lines extend into the realm of household appliances. Both companies are in excellent financial condition and their principal capitalizations are in common stock. The two companies are the dominant figures in their industry so that their positions are parallel in almost every respect.

General Electric Reports Profit

THE DEPRESSION reduced the buying of electrical equipment just as it reduced the volume of business in practically every industry. General Electric was able to show profits during all the lean years and it continued to pay dividends although the rate was reduced. Westinghouse Electric lost money in 1931, 1932 and 1933 and discontinued common dividend payments.

The following table compares net profit or net loss of the two companies from 1929 to 1933:

Year.	General.	Westinghouse.
1933	$11,429,736	*$ 8,636,841
1932	10,116,116	* 8,591,15
1931	16,944,996	* 3,460,696
1930	26,912,385	11,881,506
1929	29,751,170	27,062,611

*Net loss.

General Electric always does a greater volume of business than Westinghouse, so that the mere totals are not significant, but the drop from profits to losses by Westinghouse when General Electric continued to show profits is significant.

That Westinghouse is improving is shown by the fact that the loss was reduced to some extent in 1933, while General Electric's profit continued to decline.

* * *

Current Position Remains Strong

BOTH COMPANIES are in excellent financial position. General Electric's current assets at the end of 1933 amounted to $175,314,394 against current liabilities of only $13,302,577. Cash and marketable securities amounted to $111,878,508. The only funded debt consists of $2,047,000 of debentures. The company could pay off its entire debt from cash and still have ample funds for every possible contingency.

Westinghouse at the end of 1933 had current assets of $75,379,755 against current liabilities of $4,554,537. Cash amounted to $14,468,236. United States government securities to $6,021,675 and other marketable securities to $6,697,102. The company has no funded debt so that Westinghouse, in proportion to the size of its business, is about equally "well heeled."

General Electric increased its annual dividend rate on the common stock to 60 cents with the dividend recently declared, payable April 25. The rate was cut to 40 cents from $1 July 25, 1932, and from $2 October 1, 1931.

General Electric has 28,845,927 shares of common stock outstanding on which it earned 38 cents a share in 1933 and 41 cents a share in 1932. Senior to the common stock are 4,292,305 shares of 6 per cent cumulative special stock of $10 par value.

Westinghouse has 2,586,341 shares of common stock. Senior to it are 79,974 shares of 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred stock of $50 par value. This stock is entitled to share equally with the common on all earnings in excess of $3.50 a

In 1933 holders were given the option of taking a cash payment of $3.50 a share or half a share of Radio Corporation stock to cover dividends for the year.

Memory Test

2—Emil Loeffler, Oakmont professional, won the State Open golf title in 1920 and 1922.

4—Vic Toothman was the star pitcher of the old Pitcairn Baseball Club.

5—The Birmingham A. C. Boxing Club, of which Jim Routley was the matchmaker, started in business in the old South Side Market House and later staged shows in the old Exposition Building at the Point and at Forbes Field. It flourished in the days of Harry Greb and brought Pittsburgh some of its best matches.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XIX.

Chickie was sick with the heartbreak of it.

David bit his lips and looked as though he might cry. Without stopping to kiss Chickie goodby, he pulled open the door. She felt as though she were going to faint.

As soon as she could control herself Chickie went to her daughter's room. The moment Pippin saw her standing at the door she dashed her hand across her face and shook back her head.

"Like what? Mother, please leave me alone. Why can't I have a little privacy? I'm not treating him like anything. I just have work to do."

It was a relief when Monday morning came. Pippin was gone before either of them was out of bed.

"No matter what has happened, you must know, Pippin, dear, that our love will follow and protect you through any desolation. Will you not ease the pain of this suspense and tell me why you are so changed? If you could know the years I have dreamed of your happiness; if you could know that I would willingly die and your father would die to spare your suffering. You are shoving us from you. Don't do this. Write and tell me what is the matter."

Wants to Study

Pippin answered immediately:

"Why do you insist that something tragic has happened to me? I love you with all my heart. But there's just simply nothing I've got to confess. I almost feel that I ought to go out and get run over or commit the seven deadly sins or at the very least to have a broken heart. I haven't any of these things.

"I've been studying hard, and that's what I want to do. I should think you'd be glad I'm fed up on parties and that sort of thing. You were worried enough when I wanted to step. Please, believe me, mother, and couldn't I be let alone for awhile? I'd die to save you pain, too, so we're even on that."

David thought about it so much and talked so little that he was in a fury by Saturday.

Immediately after dinner, he said:

"I can't go with you. I've made a date. Kathleen is coming over and we're studying together."

"Phone Kathleen to come tomorrow. You're coming with me tonight."

"I don't know where she is. I can't phone to her. Besides, you can't force me in this high-handed manner."

"We won't argue that, but get your things. Helena can take care of Kathleen, if you won't phone her not to come."

Pippin Reluctant

Pippin went up to her room. She was gone a long time.

David stood there rigidly, his eyes blazing. He said to Chickie:

"She's coming if I have to carry her."

"Wait a minute, David."

"Helena, we've teleported long enough. Why, the girl has hardly spoken to me in a month, and once when I went to kiss her, she turned her head away. It's—it's—"

"I'll speak to her," she said, "you wait a moment."

Pippin was seated in a chair, gripping it hard as though she expected to be pulled out. Chickie closed the door softly behind her and confronted the girl.

With storming eyes, Pippin launched the attack.

"I'm not going with him, mother, and he can't make me go! I'm simply not going."

Chickie went over, standing very close to Pippin. With eyes full of tears she said softly:

"Pippin, I've never in my life asked you to do a thing for love. I've never worked on your emotions, but I'm going to now. I am asking you as a favor to me, will you go with your father?"

The girl turned her head away. Stealthily she raised her hands and pressed hard, slim fingers about her face. Chickie knew she was crying, though she didn't move or make a sound. With a sudden desolate gesture, she got up and went to the dressing table.

She said coldly to David:

"I'm ready."

He, too, was cold. He helped her rigidly to the car.

On the long trip to the hospital neither one of them spoke but David had himself in hand by the time he reached the laboratory.

As though nothing had happened he showed Pippin the guinea pigs, then he asked her to help him.

He had been working about an hour, all the while aware of a vicious, gnawing ache, like a tooth, in his heart, when he suddenly glanced into Pippin's face. It shocked him. It was so pale and the eyes like blue glinting ice.

He put down his instruments. He said softly:

"Pippin, what has come over you?"

"What do you mean?"

He leaned with both hands on the table, saying quietly:

"I am aware, of course, that

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. He says he loves her, but Kevin is first in her thoughts. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Chickie is afraid she will have to tell Pippin of her past. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She neglects her father and he is deeply hurt. Chickie is puzzled and unhappy.

Now Go On

youth can be cruel. It can be the cruelest thing in the world. So I won't ask you for quarter. If you want to throw over a relationship which seemed precious, you can do it. I admit it's a great loss to me, but I guess I can stand it.

"I rather liked having you for a daughter, Pippin; you seem to be through with me as a father. Well—I don't know what to do about that. One thing we can't compel is love. But I'm not going to stand by and let you break your mother's heart."

Father Puzzled

Pippin trembled. She cried shrilly:

"I break my mother's heart?"

"That's just what you're doing. In one month you've crushed her. It's a piece of wanton cruelty."

The girl turned her back on him. She said, choking:

"Was I ever cruel to you? Do you think your brothers would say I've been cruel to them?"

She said with a kind of frantic quiet:

"I think my mother would say you were cruel to her."

David turned pale:

"Has your mother ever said such a thing?"

"As though she would!"

"When you go home tonight you ask Helena if I was ever cruel to her."

"I won't ask her. I'll never ask her! I don't need to ask her. I know! I know why she has that unearthly look and you feel tears even when she laughs."

"What do you know?" David swept a hand across his hair and wondered for a moment if the girl had lost her mind. "What do you know of my cruelties?"

"I know it all. I know all about my mother and you and myself."

"Didn't you always know all about your mother and me and yourself? Why have you suddenly turned against me?"

Girl Mistaken

Her eyes narrowed, but she looked at him with steely young defiance—contemptuously—and refused to answer.

"Do you mean that someone told you of a thing that happened long ago to your mother?"

"Yes!" said the girl a little wildly. "I heard what you did to her, and the traitor you are and the way you made her suffer. You ran away and she was left alone. She had to bear it all alone."

David's hands were shaking. He felt done, so that for a moment he dropped to a stool and covered his face with his hands.

Tears flew to Pippin's eyes. She was sorry and wanted to touch her father, but she would not.

Then David glanced in her anguished face. He said, softly:

"You heard wrong. There was this tragedy, but not as you have supposed, and it happened long before I ever met your mother."

Pippin trembled:

"Do you mean that I am not the child?"

"What child?"

"My mother had a child—a daughter. It was I! You are my father. No one can deny that. You came back and married her then when you were forced to and after all the suffering was done. I am older than Jon. I always knew I was."

"Poor little girl. I'm half glad you hated me. You are not the child, and you are not older than Jon. It can quite easily be shown you. There was a child—a daughter. It died after four days. Two years later, after all this was past, I met Helena. And I loved her."

He was so quiet, so gentle and beaten. Pippin's heart shook. She stood there, staring at him, longing to run away and hide.

Taking a step nearer, he said:

"May I put my arm around you, Pippin?"

THE WAR PATH OF THE GREATEST CONQUEROR

Alexander the Great (336-323 B. C.) succeeded his murdered father, Philip II, of Macedonia. He subdued quickly and mercilessly the rebelling Thebes, which made the 20-year-old ruler feared and respected. As the head of the Greek League, he executed his father's plans for conquest in a manner the conceiver never dreamed of. With quick strokes he reduced the Asian giant, Persia. His victory at Granicus (334 B. C.) opened Asia Minor. Those of Issus and Tyre (333 B. C.) made him master over Syria, Phoenicia, Tyre. Egypt fell next, crowning the conqueror at Memphis as her king, the priests of "Amon" declaring him a god. Alexander crushed not only walls, but also barriers of civilization, carrying Hellenic culture into the conquered territory. During his stay in Egypt he founded Alexandria, to become one center of civilization. Demosthenes was Alexander's foe, Ptolemy a favorite general.

DEATH OF MISSIONARY EXPLORER FATHER JACQUES MARQUETTE (1637-1675)

Like the early civilizations of mankind, the exploration of the New World progressed along the seashores and rivers, natural pathways of transportation. De Soto discovered the Mississippi River in 1541, but it took 141 years until La Salle descended to its mouth in the Gulf of Mexico (1682). Noted for early voyages on and exploration of the Mississippi and some of its tributaries are Louis Joliet, Canadian, and Father Jacques Marquette, a French Jesuit, whose influence over the Indians was great and beneficient. Endeavoring to found a mission among the Illinois Indians, Marquette died in the wilderness. (U. S. History)

TWO-UNIT AUTO ELECTRIC SYSTEM—INSTALLATION

The modern automobile has an electric starter (motor for cranking engine) in conjunction with the battery ignition. The battery, generally of 100 to 120 ampere hours capacity, furnishes the current to ignition and starter as well. It is charged by a direct current generator, driven by the automobile engine.

If generator and starter are built in one apparatus, the electric system is called single unit; if starter and generator are built separately (as shown above), it is a two-unit system. The latter is more convenient and safe.

APOLLO HAULS SUN ACROSS SKY, GREEKS THOUGHT

Modern astronomy found the sun a luminous sphere of hot gases having a main diameter of 864,390 miles; its volume, 1,300,000 times that of the earth; its main density 1.4 compared to the water or one-fourth that of our planet. Its surface gravity being nearly 28 times the terrestrial, a man weighing 175 lbs. here would be 2½ tons there. The sun's main distance from the earth is 92,900,000 miles, called one astronomical unit. The source of heat of the sun (6000° abs. temp. at surface, increasing to millions of degrees toward the center) is furnished by energy liberated by complete disintegration of atoms of its mass. A small part of it is sufficient to furnish this energy for millions of years.

The amount of energy received from the sun by one square centimeter area perpendicular to the rays is 1.94 gram calories, the solar constant. The source of energy for all activities on earth is the sun. (General Science)

DALTON'S ATOMIC THEORY (1807)

John Dalton (1766-1844), English chemist, published his theory about matter which, though amplified and improved, in its fundamental points is universally accepted today.

Dalton's theory: Elementary substances are made up of minute particles, the atoms. Atoms of same element have same properties and mass; those of different elements differ. Atoms of different elements form compounds.

Avogadro (1811) added the idea of the molecule as the smallest physical unit exhibiting the properties of the substance. Above is an example of combination: Two molecules of hydrogen uniting with one molecule of oxygen give two molecules of water. (Chemistry)

FERNS AND ALLIES

Ferns and allies (best known the horsetails and clubmosses) constitute the third plant phylum (Pteridophyta). In the coal age (about 300 million years ago) they formed forests of tall trees. Today they are nearing extinction. (33-III-B)

In Defense of Profit

Business Will Be Hampered If Businessmen Are Handicapped as Proposed.

New Dealers profess no hostility to the idea of business profits, yet they needlessly alarm businessmen by insisting that profits shall not be "excessive or unreasonable."

They overlook the fact that under the terms under which private industry operates profit is the driving force.

Profits have been broadened and enlarged in well conducted enterprises through heightening efficiency of operations h elimination of economic waste.

insound to get the idea abroad that the slovenly ient, who pursue antiquated methods, are socially desirable because their profits are "sensible."

The incompetent, who are unable to survive free competition, are not entitled to any profit.

On the other hand, the enterpriser who, through inventive skill and superior management, is able to produce a better product at a lower selling price, is an immense asset to the country.

Though he benefits himself in the form of profits, he helps others vastly more as an employer of labor, as a taxpayer, and as a vender of honest merchandise, attractively priced.

If we examine the annals of American business, we shall discover that this is no mere academic theory.

Without business profits, employing companies can survive only until their capital and credit have been exhausted.

Politicians should recognize that the country—and especially those without gainful employment—has been suffering for more than four years from A DEARTH OF BUSINESS PROFITS—not from "EXCESSIVE profits."

Even during the boom, it is questionable whether overall net profits of business were excessive. Blue-sky promoters and practitioners of "high finance" sought to hoodwink investors by making profits appear greater than they were through various tricks, such as splitups and extra dividends.

The time has come for candor.

Individual initiative and the spirit of enterprise, on which prosperity depends, are needlessly discouraged by vague political attempts to DEPRECIATE THE PROFIT-MAKER.

The Trolley Dispute

The Proposal to Lay the Issues Before "the Court of Public Opinion" Is Commendable

The perennial question of the fairness of the rates and the adequacy of the service of the Pittsburgh Railways Company is up before Council in connection with a proposal that the Traction Conference Board agreement be terminated.

Councilman W. A. Magee, who has been closely associated with the Traction Conference Board, and besides was for a time a member of the State Public Service Commission, probably knows more about this matter than anybody else connected with the city government.

Magee says there is danger, if the agreement is not renewed or extended, that the railways company will go into receivership, and that receivership will result in abandonment of unprofitable trolley lines, constituting perhaps 30 or 40 per cent of the service.

Mayor W. N. McNair declares he is willing to take the risk of receivership; but citizens who are liable to be deprived of street car service may not be so willing, and they are surely entitled to some consideration.

In the circumstances Magee's proposal that open conferences be held between Council and representatives of the railways company and the Traction Conference Board, with a view to laying the issues before "the court of public opinion" is commendable.

Such conferences are desirable, as a means of letting the people know the pros and cons of this vexatious question which has so close a relationship to their well-being.

New Homes Necessary

Provision Must Be Made for Slum Dwellers Whose Houses Are to Be Razed.

The city authorities plan to demolish more than 300 dwelling houses which do not satisfy sanitary and safety requirements.

A committee composed of Frank Richards, assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers; George E. Evans, superintendent of building inspection, and Lee Sellers, of the Bureau of Sanitation, has been directed to solicit CWA funds for the work of demolition.

But along with demolition must go construction. What is to become of the slum dwellers whose houses are to be razed?

They have not lived in ramshackle, insanitary buildings from choice, but because they could not pay for anything better.

It is difficult to see how these new homes can be provided without government aid. Yet they are necessary if the slums, breeding places of crime and disease, are to be eradicated.

More Men Teachers

An Interesting Change Is Taking Place in Pennsylvania's Public Schools.

Women vote, sit on juries, smoke, attend prize fights and work in numerous trades and callings formerly reserved exclusively for men—and all this without attracting much attention any more.

Commenting on this revolutionary change in the so-called weaker sex, there have been many persons who predicted that men would find their way into what has hitherto been woman's domain.

Well, it has started. Men are supplanting women as public school teachers.

The Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg reports an unmistakable trend in that direction. Twelve hundred women teachers were dropped from the public schools last year, but 400 additional men teachers were employed. Of 62,885 teachers in the public schools of Pennsylvania, 14,110 now are men and 48,775 are women.

Whether the teaching of men is superior to that of women is another matter. Sex probably has nothing to do with it.

On the Wheel of War

And it is especially wise for America to keep Washington's advice in mind at a time when propagandists for the League of Nations and for the League Court are again heard in this country.

We do not belong in Old World politics. We do not belong in Old World wars.

So let America keep to her own ground—in peace, preparedness and security.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 16.—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of the star boarder who trimmed his cuffs with button hole scissors? George Rector has the town's best kept mustache. Beats me how French mobs have been getting things on fire over there. For in France one has to buy one's own matches.

One word description of Erskine Gwynne—silky. Earl Carroll found none of the Hollywood indifference expected. Instead sympathy and co-operation. Always snide the way writers get their biggest checks out there and then jeer. How proud the old comedian Cliff Gordon would be of his kid brother Max!

Now the Rialto's leading producer, Eddie Duchin, the debutantes' delight. Lindbergh seems more popular than ever. I like to dawdle before shop windows, chasing fugitive ideas through mental suburbs, as it were. Karl Kitchen suggests a shrunken Albert Keller. Even white-haired ladies are wearing bangs.

Winnie Sheehan has done more by his guild than any New York newspaperman becoming a Hollywood big shot. And his hat fits him still. Barbara Hutton shucked off 40 pounds for her prince. Can't get a table at the Ritz bar at cocktail time with a court-order. Two months ago it was a mausoleum.

Two of my favorite people—W. W. Hawkins and Karl Bickel. It's my guess one of them will succeed Roy W. Howard, should he ever retire. Dennis King has that swagger off stage, too. A cat howling in front of the Met. Still my dog once howled in Lizst's back yard in Weiman.

* * *

Jo Davidson and his shiny spade-shaped beard are becoming as much a part of the cocktail hour picture in New York as they were at Ciro's, Du Dome, Henri's and other Parisian haunts. The sculptor, born on New York's East Side, is to remain here until the dollar bounces back. He seems carefully to have avoided the village for the perfumed purlieus northward. Just now he is being portraited by Leon Gordon, fellow Russian, at his Beaux Arts studio. Gordon recently transferred to canvas the full length of Helen Keller, the blind, deaf and dumb marvel.

* * *

Speaking of beards, the flossiest of the imperials, since S. S. Van Dine went Hollywood, is that of young John Vandercook, who with his wife invades wild places of the earth for book material. Even such goatee die-hards as Oliver Herford at the Players is reputed to have grudgingly admired it.

* * *

Mr. Vandercook's father, the journalist who scooped the world on Queen Victoria's death by interpreting a pre-arranged sick-room window halation, was once my editor. He, too, affected an imperial—the first one I had ever seen outside photographs of Kentucky colonels. I remember Mr. Vandercook, who died nearing his thirtieth birthday, walking through the composing room one day and a case printer turning and admiring the chin piece observed: "He can stroke that thing until it purrs."

* * *

It's Watterson Rothacker's story of the supervising director who insisted a lot of French atmospheric music be used in the picture and heckled his composers during the entire shooting. Just before the preview he jittered into another rage: "I told you you didn't have enough French music." Then screamed: "Why don't you do what I told you and put in more French horns?"

* * *

Another story of the lots concerned a bewhiskered, raffish and unwashed fellow called Rasputin, the shadow for a publicity-seeking actress. Some one seeing him dog her trail day after day inquired who he was. He was told: "He's her B. G." Further questioned revealed B. G. meant body guard. So cracked the wag: "He might serve as B. O., too."

* * *

The skittiest spot in this jumpy metropolis is the waiting room of a large maternity hospital between midnight and dawn. Men, gaunt and nerve-wrecked, sit fiddle taut, or pace, burning up endless cigarettes, chain fashion. Each time a door opens everybody spring for action. I think it was Ben Ali Haggin who told of one salon d'attente in which he waited displaying but a single picture—"The Stag at Bay."

* * *

And in the middle of last night at our house I sat up straight in bed with a throaty: "What is it?" From the adjoining bed came a sleepy: "What is what?" From me in falsetto squeak: "One step nearer and I shoot!" My wife turned on the light. The moon had fallen aslant a hat stand on which hung my overcoat, hat atop. "Now Dead-eye Dick go back to sleep," she said. And try to appear head of the house after a night like that.

ISN'T IT SO?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Nix on Pedestals!

We're always condemning people because they don't come up to our ideals, getting mad at them because they won't fit in with some delightful picture which we've painted.

All our lives we're cherished that picture, priding ourselves on its perfection. Then along comes a new friend or a new wife or husband, and at once we decide that they are Our Dream Come True.

And for a while such seems to be the case. Then gradually we realize that we have made a mistake. Why, they're not what we thought they were at all! They're full of faults. Horrid faults. Silly little ways. They've bad tempers. And they fib. And tell stupid jokes. And are lazy and untidy, and oh, so inconsiderate. In fact, they fall short of all our lovely standards.

So we feel ourselves cheated and become indignant and consumed with self pity. How can they fail us when we've trusted them to live up to our ideals!

How dreadful—how ungrateful of them to act like that when we had put them on a pedestal. What coarse creatures they are not to have appreciated our beautiful pedestal!

All we ask of them was to be perfect and let us worship them. And instead, they insist on expressing their own unworthy natures—thereby outraging our feelings and betraying our trust. So we wail and wheeze—NEVER REALIZING OUR OWN FOLLY AND UNFAIRNESS.

We are very proud of ourselves because we put people on pedestals and indulge in romantic ideals, but there is really little beauty or sense in such an attitude. We don't erect pedestals because we're wise and noble—we erect them because we're lazy and cowardly. It isn't hard to invent romantic ideals.

It is a most pleasant form of fantasy in which all adolescents indulge and through which they find escape from unpleasant reality. It is very hard and painful to face reality and life as it is and people as they are.

* * *

So, to escape such difficulty we make pedestals—AND PUT OUR BEST BELOVED IN THE DOG-HOUSE IF THEY WON'T STAY ON 'EM.

We have no more right to park people on pedestals than we have to cram them into strait-jackets. And they do not wrong us, nor prove their own unworthiness, if they refuse to stay parked or crammed.

People have a right to be themselves. That is their supreme right and their first duty. And we have no right to interfere with such expression in order to gratify our own sentimentality or bossiness.

IT IS BETTER TO BE A FIFTH RATE, HONEST EXPRESSION OF YOUR OWN SELF THAN A FIRST RATE COPY OF ANY ONE ELSE'S IDEAL.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Those Painful Moments

A man's most poignant memories are the bitter recollections of his failures and disappointments. But a woman's most poignant memories are the embarrassing recollections of her blunders, her sentimental weaknesses, and the times when she made a fool of herself.

Almost every woman has a few of these, dating as far back as her green and salad days.

* * *

Almost every woman can remember when she deliberately set out to MAKE some man fall for her charms—and how red her face was when he suddenly turned glacial, and gracefully got out of the picture, never to return.

* * *

Almost every woman can remember that first terrible "crush"—usually for a radio singer or a popular screen lover or a football hero—which inspired her to do all sorts of foolish things, from writing gushy fan letters, to trying to meet him "accidentally."

* * *

Did you ever fancy that you had met "your Fate" at a dinner dance—only to discover that he was some other woman's "Fate"; and that she was watching him like a detective guarding the family heirlooms?

* * *

Did you ever decide to call up the man who had been so desperately devoted to you at the week-end party—to find that he'd forgotten not only his ardent pleas for a date but also your name and the fact that you were there?

Do you remember the time after a quarrel, when you made up your mind to "forgive and forget" and held out both hands cordially to the enemy, only to receive an icy glare or a frigid bow in return?

* * *

Did you ever gush up to some popular celebrity at a tea and try to recall yourself to him—and go all goose pimples at the blank stare of surprise behind his conventional smile of courtesy?

* * *

Do you remember the time when you bawled a man out for nearly running into your car—and then discovered that you were making a wrong turn?

* * *

Did you ever work over-time, dolling yourself up to make a hit at a swanky party, only to find all the other women in sports clothes? Did you ever trip, just as you were making a grand entrance? Or slip and go down in the middle of a dance floor?

Did you ever find yourself TALKING too much, or telling too much or confessing too much or bragging too much or being too clever or too affectionate or too ardent or too romantic?

* * *

Painful ghosts, these silly memories, which sneak back, every now and then, to haunt a woman. A man only chuckles, when he chances to recollect his follies. But a woman never forgets the times she made a fool of herself. And never forgives herself!

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Within the Lighthouse

The fog came up by night, pearl-white,
And all day long a chill rain fell;
Through somber skies came no sunlight

Through night on night and day on day
Across the wind-swept waters gray
No cargoes sailed
Through night on night and day on day.

Within the lighthouse where we dwelt
The world seemed lost, time's course seemed run;
So strange without starlight we felt,
Or light of sun
Within the lighthouse where we dwelt.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

When you think back over your life you realize that you've made many mistakes which you would not make again.

But have you realized how many mistakes you avoided?

If you had your life to live over again, it's probable that as you neared the end of it, you would find that the number of mistakes you had made totaled just about the same as those you might have made—and you are still making mistakes.

You still make bad investments, and with all your experience you still fail to take advantage of opportunities.

Some mistakes have been so decidedly foolish that you wonder how it was possible for you to have made them.

So it will be to the end of time.

Looking over some of the pretty stocks and bonds you have, you are surprised that you ever purchased them.

Property you own has greatly depreciated, but it was bound to do so, and you should have known it.

But if something were presented to you in the right way and you had the money, you still would make foolish investments.

People of U. S. to Get Truth Of Air Mail Blunder

By James T. Williams, Jr.

PUBLIC sentiment will approve the decision of the Secretary of War to convene a special committee of aeronautical authorities to evaluate and report upon the adequacy and efficiency of the technical flying equipment and training of the Army Air Corps for its new unexpected, non-military and doubtless temporary mission of flying the federal air mail.

Public sentiment will see in the course taken by Secretary Dern the path of wisdom that leads to justice—justice to the 10 heroes of the Army Air Corps who were sent to an unnecessary death because they were ordered upon a non-military mission for which they were given neither time to train nor the equipment essential to its performance without needless risk.

This path of wisdom will also lead to justice to the surviving comrades of these dead heroes—their comrades who fly the colors in training to defend the colors in war.

* * *

Will Give People The Facts

THIS path of wisdom will also lead to justice to the American people. The report of this special committee will put the people in possession of the truth about the conditions under which the Army Air Corps was suddenly ordered to perform a mission which Congress never authorized and for which Congress never made tthe necessary provision. Even now, nearly a month after the Army Air Corps began flying the mails, the Army pilots are dependent upon the credit which their character commands for the money with which to pay their expenses.

Once in possession of all the facts about the conditions under which the Air Corps cheerfully undertook a mission for which they had been given neither training nor equipment, the people will then be in a position to refute the cowardly slanders and mean insinuations of those self-styled aces of political aviation in and out of public life who would have their countrymen believe that the only reason ten officers of the Army Air Corps have been killed in the last twenty days is because they did not know how to fly.

In addition to the able Army officers assigned by Secretary Dern to this committee, the two best known civil authorities on aviation have been invited to accept membership on this fact finding mission. These are Orville Wright, who, with his brother, the late Wilbur Wright, is rightly honored the world around as a father of aviation, and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the Federal air mail's ace of aces. After training at the Army flying school, Lindbergh prepared himself as an air mail pilot for the trans-Atlantic flight that brought new honor to the flag.

* * *

Expansion of Corps Is Proposed

CONGRESS meantime did not await the report of the Secretary of War's aeronautical committee to ends its neglect of the Army Air Corps, pending before the House is a carefully drawn and comprehensive bill for the expansion of the Air Corps to a strength commensurate with its responsibility under the National Defense Act.

This measure has the wholehearted approval of the general staff, which is the co-ordinating agency of the War Department.

It has the approval of the chiefs of branches, including the chief of the Army Air Corps.

And it seems reasonable to assume that the Secretary of War would not have submitted this measure to Congress had he not been assured that it met with the approval of the President and the commander in chief.

Under the Constitution, the power to raise and equip armies and provide and maintain a Navy is entrusted to the Congress. The Congress cannot delegate this responsibility to the executive branch of the government. Neither can the Congress shirk this responsibility year after year and expect ultimately to escape the blame for the dodging of its sworn and constitutional duty.

For the last nine years the Congress has failed to appropriate the money necessary to carry out its five-year plan for the building up of the Army Air Corps. For the last nine years the Congress has starved not only the Air Corps but every other arm of the land forces.

Now is the time and Congress is the place for the building up of the national defense. If Congress will address itself to this task instead of trying to escape the blame for the past neglect it will also pursue the path of wisdom that leads to justice.

French Statesmen's Duels Are Generally Harmless, But That Was Not True of American Duels

By Edwin C. Hill

FRENCH statesmen in bitter controversy resort to the ancient code duello, coffee and pistols at sunrise, or else the slender rapier. No great damage is done in these duels, but they represent an interesting survival of the custom of men settling grudges or satisfying wounded honor on the duelling field.

It was common enough in our own country up to the time of the Civil War. Everybody fought. Newspaper editors, members of Congress and Senators, doctors and merchants, even women.

In Savannah, Ga., two young ladies quarreled over the gentleman of their fancy and fought a duel as he stood by, holding the signal handkerchief. One shot the other and promptly ran off with the fascinating fellow.

Andrew Jackson, enraged at remarks made about his Rachel by a Tennessee politician named Dickinson, met the object of his hatred only 20 feet apart. Dickinson fired first and wounded Jackson in the shoulder. But Old Hickory remained firmly on his feet, the fire of implacable resolve in his eye. "Great God, I have missed him." Dickinson cried out. And then Jackson fired deliberately. Dickinson died that night.

The tale is long and violent. Stephen Decatur, our greatest naval hero in the very early days of the republic, fought with Commodore Barron, who had been court-martialed for letting the British seize his ship, Chesapeake. He blamed Decatur, badgered him to a duel and killed him. Right seldom triumphed on the duelling field, nor reason, nor commonsense.

Old John Randolph, of Roanoke, fiery tempered, savage tongued Virginia aristocrat, blazed into rage over what Henry Clay had said in a speech in Congress. They met on the field. Old John Randolph appeared and when the signal was given, he held his hand, while Henry Clay fired twice and missed. And then with a grim smile, Randolph pointed his pistol toward the clouds, fired twice and stalked back to a sick bed. Stout fellows, those old boys, however unreasonable. Duelling was outlawed finally and definitely, some 75 years ago, and as much by public opinion that it was a species of insanity, as by law.

French People Yearn for Leader

THE French are sick to the heart of their squabbling politicians; the little Jacks in Office. They yearn for a leader—a man. Possibly he may emerge. If he does, the French Republic might fall as the German Republic perished. The whole outcome is problematical and unpredictable, for no one can guage the winds of revolt. The republican tradition is very strong in France. The people are weary, not so much of the republic as they are of the petty men who use it for their own ends.

The storm may blow over. It might with further grievances and provocations sweep on into the full hurricane of revolution, leveling and destroying everything that seeks to block its savage impetus. Police and military cannot always save a government. On the 13th day of July, 1789, there were 25,000 troops massed about Paris. The Assembly, the Chamber of Deputies of that day, was making heroic speeches. No one could conceive that a real insurrection, a veritable revolution, was on the point of explosion. And suddenly at six o'clock in the morning, the bells began to peal and clang from every steeple in the city.

Streets filled in a few minutes. People rushed everywhere, seeking arms and ammunitions. Twelve thousand beggars crowded into the heart of the city to swell the mob. Beggars and tramps poured in from the surrounding country. Prisoners broke out of the jails. Mobs sacked convents. Detachments of cavalry and dragoons making their way through different parts of the city at full gallop. Trains of artillery rolling over the pavements with a monstrous noise. Band of ruffians and women drunk with brandy, running through the streets like furies, breaking the shops open and spreading terror. Alarm bells ringing in the churches. Fearful and peaceful citizens barricading themselves in their homes, loading their guns, burying their money, papers and valuable effects in cellars and gardens.

Garrison Butchered By the Mob

DAYBREAK of July 14, and again the pealing and clanging of the alarm bells in the church steeples, and presently the cry, taken up by thousands, growing like the roar of an oncoming tornado, "To the Bastille"—to the old royal prison which was the sign and symbol of everything hateful and detestable to the people. Countless thousands pouring through the boulevards to the hoary fortress—merchants from shops, lawyers from their offices, unemployed workmen, beggars, servants, tramps, women who had become termagants of rage.

Around the Bastille crowded the countless thousands of people—armed now. The old governor, De Launay, lost his head, fired a cannon into the mob, killing and wounding several. His own men raised the white flag and opened the gates. In poured the maddened crowd, butchering the garrison. De Launay was murdered and his head stuck on a pike.

Revolution is a hard fact for authority to accept. Almost invariably it is deaf and blind until too late. King Louis himself knew less than any groom in his stable what was going on in Paris. He had gone to bed when the Duc de Liancourt awakened him with the dreadful news. The startled King cried out, "Why that is revolt!" — De Liancourt replied: "You are mistaken, your Majesty. It is a revolution!"

And out of that day came the whole series of events which led up to 1795 and the Little Corsican, the man appointed by destiny, the obscure little lieutenant of artillery, Napoleon Bonaparte.
